By Order of the President in Council,

No. 2119.

The 30th March 1863.

Notification.—The following Despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 15 of 1863, dated the 17th of February, together with the Revised Rules therein mentioned, relating to Furloughs and Leave of Absence for Judges of the High Court of Judicature for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William, are published for general information:—

INDIA OFFICE,
London, 17th February 1863.

JUDICIAL,
No. 15.

To HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL,

MY LORD,

Para. 1.—YOUR letters Nos. 33 and 51, dated respectively 14th July and 8th October 1862, on the subject of the Rule relating to leave on Medical Certificate, prescribed for Judges of the High Court, have been considered by me in Council.

2. On a further consideration of the subject, and for the reasons stated in your communications under acknowledgment, I have resolved to adopt the recommendation at paragraph 5 of your Despatch No. 33, in regard to those Judges of the High Court who do not belong to the Covenanted Civil Service, and to leave the absence on Medical Certificate of the Judges who are Covenanted Civil Servants to be regulated by the Rules of the Service to which they belong.

3. The following Rules will, therefore, be substituted for Rules 6, 7, and 8 of the Furlough Rules transmitted with my Despatch No. 37 of the 15th May last:—

1*st.*—"Leave may be granted by the Governor "General in Council to the Chief Justice, or any "Puisne Judge of the High Court who may not "be a Member of the Covenanted Civil Service, "under Medical Certificate, once during the term "of his service, either for a period of six months "on half salary, payable on return and resumption "of his duties, or for a period of fifteen months "on an allowance of 1,000*l.* per annum. Such Chief "Justice, or Puisne Judge, during his absence, "shall retain his office, but if his absence shall, "under any circumstances, exceed fifteen months "his office shall be vacated.

2*nd.*—"If any Judge of the High Court who "has taken leave of absence, under the foregoing "Rule, for a period of six months, shall desire to "extend his absence beyond such period, he shall "be permitted to do so under due Medical Certifi- "cate, his allowance for the entire period of ab- "sence being calculated at the rate of 1,000*l.* per "annum.

3*rd.*—"Leave of absence, under Medical Certifi- "cate, to Judges of the High Court, who are "Members of the Covenanted Civil Service, will "be regulated by the Rules 'for sick leave' ap- "plicable to the Civil Service generally.

4*th.*—"No more than six months of the leave "granted under Medical Certificate shall be reck- "oned as actual service in calculating the period "of service entitling the Chief Justice, or Puisne "Judge, to a pension."

4. I have resolved, on further consideration of the subject, so far to modify the instructions conveyed to you in the 2nd paragraph of my Despatch No. 37 of the 15th May last, as to extend to the Judges of the High Court, who were transferred from the Supreme Court, the benefit of the Rule under which leave of absence may be granted, under Medical Certificate, subject to the same conditions as in the case of other Judges respecting retention of office and the receipt of allowances for the period of absence. This does not necessitate any alteration in the wording of the Rule. But, in regard to these Judges, it will be quite sufficient that, on such occasions, they submit the Medical Certificate, without applying for leave.

5. The annexed is a complete set of the revised Rules on Furloughs and leave of absence which you are requested to publish as such in the Calcutta Gazette.

I have the honor to be,
MY LORD,
Your Lordship's most obedient, humble Servant
(Signed) C. WOOD.

Revised Rules relating to Furloughs and Leave of Absence for Judges of the High Court.

1. A FURLOUGH for the period of one year, with an allowance of 1,000*l*., payable by quarterly payment, shall be allowed to the Chief Justice and to each Puisne Judge of the High Court, after seven years' actual service as Chief Justice, or Chief Justice and Judge, or Judge, of the said Court.

2. The Furlough granted under these Rules to a Judge selected from the Covenanted Civil Service shall be exclusive of the Furlough to which such Judge is entitled under the Rules applicable to Furloughs allowed to Members of such Service.

3. If a Judge of the High Court, selected from the Covenanted Civil Service, who has not taken his Furlough under the Rules applicable to his branch of the Service, before his appointment to the High Court, shall take such Furlough within one year after the expiration of his Furlough under these Rules, the Furlough taken by him as Judge of the High Court shall be reckoned as so much time of his Furlough under the Rules applicable to the Covenanted Service, and the amount drawn by him shall be adjusted, with reference to such Rules, by deductions from the allowances payable to him as a Civil Servant on Furlough.

4. A Chief Justice, or Puisne Judge, during his absence on Furlough, shall retain his office, but such Furlough shall not be reckoned as actual service in calculating the period of service entitling the Chief Justice, or Puisne Judge, to a pension.

5. Leave may be granted by the Governor General in Council to the Chief Justice, or any Puisne Judge of the High Court who may not be a Member of the Covenanted Civil Service, under Medical Certificate, once during the term of his service, either for a period of six months on half salary, payable on return and resumption of his duties, or for a period of fifteen months on an allowance of 1,000*l.* per annum. Such Chief Justice, or Puisne Judge, during his absence shall retain his office, but if his absence shall, under any circumstances, exceed fifteen months, his office shall be vacated.

6. If any Judge of the High Court who has taken leave of absence, under the foregoing Rule, for a period of six months, shall desire to extend his absence beyond such period, he shall be permitted to do so under due Medical Certificate, his allowance for the entire period of absence being calculated at the rate of 1,000*l.* per annum.

7. Leave of absence, under Medical Certificate, to Judges of the High Court who are Members of the Covenanted Civil Service, will be regulated by the Rules "for sick leave" applicable to the Civil Service generally.

8. No more than six months of the leave granted under Medical Certificate shall be reckoned as actual service in calculating the period of service entitling the Chief Justice, or Puisne Judge, to a pension.

9. Short leave on private affairs may be granted to the Judges of High Court under the Rules applicable to Covenanted Civil Servants.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

No. 1267.
Fort William, the 30th March 1863.

Notification.—Captain Battye, Senior Probationer in the Military Finance Department, is appointed to officiate as Pay-Master of the Lucknow Circle, vice Major Anderson, who has obtained leave of absence on Medical Certificate to the Hills from the 23rd March to the 15th November 1863.

That an Officer having taken shorter leaves of absence as a Staff Officer (six months on private affairs, fifteen or twenty months on sick certificate) with retention of appointment may take a second leave of absence, retaining his appointment on sick certificate after he has been three years, or on private affairs, after he has been six years in the discharge of the duties of his appointment, from the date of last return to it.

3. I am of opinion, however, that this decision should not be allowed to interfere with the practice which has been followed under the Regulations of 1854, and those in force previously, for permitting Officers in certain cases of emergency to return to this country on private affairs for short periods without pay, and that a Staff Corps Officer permitted to return to Europe under such circumstances should be allowed to hold his appointment for a period not exceeding six months. In fact, this has already been authorized in Question and Answer No. 121, which states that the Government may grant leave of absence for six months on urgent private affairs without pay and allowance to a Staff Corps Officer, with retention of appointment, on being satisfied of the urgency of the case.

4. I am of opinion also that Staff Officers not Members of the Staff Corps should be allowed a similar indulgence under like circumstances.

No. 58.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,

My Lord,—The Secretary of State for War having enquired whether, in the Estimates for 1863-64, provision should be made for the Medical Officers of the 12 new Line Regiments lately formed in India, I have replied that the number of Officers now borne on the Indian Establishment is sufficient to supply the number required for the whole of the Regiments in question, and that whatever may be the arrangement determined upon in connection with the amalgamation of the Medical Service, a subject now under consideration, I am of opinion that so long as there are Medical Officers of the Indian Service available for the number of Brigades and Regiments lately transferred to the British Service, they should be employed to that extent with Brigades of Artillery and Regiments of Cavalry and Infantry serving in that country.

2. The Secretary of State for War has expressed his concurrence in this arrangement, on the understanding that the full complement of Medical Officers will be attached to these Brigades and Regiments as soon as they are complete in their Establishment of men.

No. 17A. of 1863.—The following copy of a Military Despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 61 of the 9th February 1863, is published for general information :—

No. 61.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,

My Lord,—Your letter No. 414, dated 3rd November 1862, in which you bring to notice questions which have arisen with regard to the Furlough Rules of 1854, so far as they relate to the right of Officers to retain their Staff appointments during absence in Europe, in certain cases, has been under my consideration in Council.

2. It appears to me that the interpretation put by your Government on the portion of the Furlough Rules referred to is proper; and that it should accordingly be laid down as a rule for the guidance of the respective Governments.

That an Officer must have served ten years in India to entitle him to return to this country on private affairs for six months, retaining his appointment and drawing Furlough pay.

That an Officer who has taken the Furlough to Europe for two years, after ten years' service, must shew a service in India from date of return of ten years, to entitle him to return to Europe on private affairs for six months, retaining his appointment and drawing Furlough pay.

3. Major A. Hume, 101st Foot (late of the 1st European Regiment), has been permitted to retire from the service. The promotion in the Cadre of the 1st European Regiment will take effect from the expiration of two and a half years from the date of Major Hume's leaving India on duty with Troops on the Almorah in 1859.

4. Conductor A. Heffernan has been pensioned.

No. 235 of 1863.—The undermentioned Officer is permitted to proceed to Europe on Furlough on private affairs:—

Captain Frederick Richard Pollock, of the Bengal Staff Corps, Deputy Commissioner, Punjab, and Officiating Commissioner, Lahore Division, ...	For six months, embarking at Bombay.

No. 236 of 1863.—With reference to Government General Order No. 824 of the 17th September 1861, the following Alterations of Rank are made, subject to Her Majesty's approval:—

Rank and Names.	To rank from Cultivation of the Cinchona Pahudiana.

From the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,—(dated the 24th January 1863.)

WITH reference to my Despatch dated 31st May 1862, No. 48, I now transmit a translated Extract from a member of the "Flora," a German Botanical Periodical (together with the original) containing letters from M. Hasskarl, the gentleman formerly in charge of the Cinchona culture in Java, by which it appears that owing to the unfavorable reports of scientific men in Holland, the Government of Netherlands India have determined to put an entire stop to the further cultivation of Cinchona Pahudiana plants in Java.

2. M. Hasskarl was the introducer of this species from South America.

3. Under these circumstances, it does not appear to me advisable that any further expense should be incurred in the cultivation of this species in Darjeeling.

4. I have perused with interest Dr. Anderson's letter in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette of 15th October 1862, (No. 54), in which he reports that four cases of intermittent fever have actually been cured by the use of an infusion of Cinchona leaves without any other medicine whatever. I desire that any reports from Dr. Anderson on the progress of the experimental cultivation of Cinchona plants may be transmitted to me without delay, as well as any accounts of the Chemical Analysis of Cinchona leaves or bark which you may receive from the Chemical Examiner to your Government.

Extract from No. 21 of the "Flora" of 1862, a German Periodical published at Ratisbon on the cultivation of Cinchona in Java.

WITH reference to what was said last year in this paper, pp. 224 and 608, &c., I should not withhold from your readers the decision of the Minister of the Colonies in the second Chamber of the Dutch States General, in reference to this culture. A doubt had been expressed whether in the great spread of Cinchona cultivation a wrong method might not have been adopted, and the Minister replied :—

"The belief that the culture of the least "valuable species of Cinchona would be useful "and profitable is the reason that so many trees "have been grown in Java of the kind first "known as C. Oblata, then as C. Lucumæfolia, and "now as C Pahudiana. A tree of this species "has been chemically analyzed by Professors "G. F. Mülder and F. A. W. Mignel; and in "consequence of the joint report of those gentle-"men the Indian Government have determined "to put an entire stop to the further cultivation "of C. Pahudiana. At the same time the Gover-"nor General has considered whether it will be "advisable for the Government to continue the "Cinchona cultivation, or whether the time has "come for handing it over to private enterprise."

The following is from the Nieiven Amsterdamsch Handelsen Effectenblad, No. 151, June 2nd, 1862.

In the sitting of the second Chamber the question was brought forward whether it would be advisable to leave the culture of the Cinchona to private enterprise, and I may be permitted with modesty to give my opinion on this subject. It would appear to me that the culture must be undertaken by Government, to whom it is most essential that the return should be rapid. It appears that the Chemical researches of Messrs Mülder and Mignel do not support those of Dr. de Vry (given in the Batlavischen Handelsblatte of 14th September 1861, p. 607, &c.,) and in this case the hope of Cinchona cultivation being undertaken by private enterprise disappears.

No. 1232A.—The 1st of April 1863.—The following Extract, paragraph 1, of a letter No. 343, dated 11th instant, from the Officiating Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, in the Military Department, to the address of the Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, is published, in continuation of the Notification No. 2595A., dated 6th October 1862, for the information of those concerned :—

PARA. 1.—With reference to your letters marginally noted, requesting to be informed (first) whether it is intended that the extra allowance of Rupees (5) five per month, granted in Memorandum from this Department, No. 347, dated 10th September 1862, to all Native Doctors possessing a superior knowledge of English, should be extended to men already in receipt of superior pay on account of their possessing this knowledge; and secondly, whether, with special advertence to a letter from the Inspector-General of Police, North-Western Provices, the Civil or Military Department should be debited with that extra allowance to Native Doctors employed in the Police, I am directed to state that it is not the intention of Government that the Rupees (5) five in question should be allowed to Native Doctors holding appointments to which higher salaries (of Rupees (35) thirty-five a month or more) are attached in order to secure men possessing such qualifications.

No. 770, dated 27th Nov. 1862.

No. 1240A.—Mr. W. C. Plowden, Officiating Joint Magistrate and Deputy Collector of Ghazeepore, is appointed to be a Joint Magistrate and Deputy Collector of the First Grade with effect from the 11th ultimo, the date on which Mr. G. B. Pasley reported his departure on Furlough to England.

No. 1272A.—The 2nd April 1863.—Three months' leave of absence, on Medical Certificate, under Section 5 of the Uncovenanted Service Absentee Rules, is granted to Sheo Dyal, Sudder Ameen and First Grade Moonsiff at Budaon, from the date on which he may avail himself of the same.

No. 1276A.—Mr. E. Goulding, Second Master of the Government College at Agra, is appointed to officiate as Professor of English Literature and History in that Institution with effect from the 9th February 1863.

Financial Department.—No. 522A.—Allahabad, the 30th March 1863.—The following correspondence between the Government of India, in the Financial Department, and the Civil Pay-Master, North-Western Provinces, is published for general information:—

From L. C. Probyn, Esq., Civil Pay-Master, North-Western Provinces, to the Hon'ble E. Drummond, Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department,—(No. 196-432, dated Allahabad, the 14th January 1863.)

With reference to Notification No. 39G., dated 16th December 1862, published in the Calcutta Gazette of 17th idem, relative to the travelling allowance of Officers when employed in the interior of their Districts on duty, I have the honor to observe that the practice of this Office has hitherto been to grant such allowance to Uncovenanted Officers attached to the North-Western Provinces, at the rate of 3-10ths of their salary, with advertence to the orders quoted at Article 925 of the Civil Pay-Master's Manual.

2. It appears, however, from the Notification above referred to, and also from the Orders of 11th March 1859, quoted at Article 978, that the Subordinate Executive Officers in the Bengal Presidency are permitted to draw Rupees 3 per diem as tentage allowance; and I would venture to suggest, for the consideration and orders of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, that this Rule be made applicable to these Provinces, for it seems somewhat anomalous that Uncovenanted should ever draw a higher rate of travelling allowance than that fixed for Covenanted Officers, yet this is constantly the case, e. g., a Deputy Collector on Rupees 600 per mensem gets Rupees 180 at 3-10ths of his salary, which is more than Rupees 5 per diem.

3. I take the opportunity of drawing your attention to the opinion expressed by the Bengal Civil Pay-Master in the 8th paragraph of his letter to the address of your predecessor, No. 271, dated 26th January 1859, that "the rate of 3-10ths of salary is applicable to Ministerial Officers only, and was never intended for responsible Officers who received their appointments direct from Government."

From J. W. S. Wyllie, Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department, to the Civil Pay-Master, North-Western Provinces, Financial Department,—(No. 706, dated Fort William, Council Chamber, the 4th March 1863.)

Sir,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 432-196 of the 14th January 1863, and in reply to state that the Hon'ble the President in Council is pleased to sanction the substitution of travelling allowance, at Rupees 3 per diem, for batta at 3-10ths of salary in favor of all Uncovenanted Officers in the North-Western Provinces; and further, to give those Officers the option of exchanging the daily allowance for a mileage under the orders contained in the 2nd paragraph of Financial Notification No. 39G. of the 16th December 1862. The present orders is not applicable to the class known as Ministerial Officers.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, North-Western Provinces,

R. Simson,
Offg. Secy. to Govt., N. W. P.

No. 1504.

Fort William, the 11th April 1863.

Notification.—The Hon'ble the President in Council observes that references are frequently made to the Government of India direct on points connected with the leave, salary, or special allowances of Civil Officers subject to the Orders of the Government of India, which have to be referred to the Civil Pay-Master for report previous to their disposal.

With a view of reducing the delay which is thereby occasioned His Honor in Council is pleased to direct that all such applications for the future should be forwarded direct by the proper authority to the Civil Pay-Master who audits the applicant's Salary Bill, and who, after attaching the usual Report to it as to whether the applicant is entitled to the leave in question, will submit it, without delay, to that Department of the Government of India by whom the application will be finally considered.

For like reasons all appeals against a ruling of the Civil Pay-Master's, and all applications for travelling or deputation allowances, pensions, or gratuities, should be invariably accompanied by a Report from that Officer.

Ordered, that this Notification be published in the Calcutta Gazette for the information and guidance of all Local Governments, and of the Pay and Audit Departments, and that a copy of it be furnished to the Foreign and Home Departments.

Upon so appearing the Recruiter shall state to the Superintendent to what depôt he intends that the laborer shall proceed, and the Superintendent shall thereupon examine the laborer with reference to his engagement, and if it appears that he comprehends the nature of the engagement he has entered into and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Superintendent shall register the name of such laborer and the depôt to which it is intended he shall proceed, in a book to be kept for the purpose in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall prescribe: but if the Superintendent shall be of opinion that such person does not

XIII. Every Recruiter who shall forward or send any laborer from the District or Town in which he has entered into any engagement, or who shall induce or knowingly permit any laborer to leave such District or Town, for the purpose of proceeding to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet without the laborer being duly registered as provided in Sections XI and XII of this Act, and every Recruiter who shall forward or send any laborer or shall induce or knowingly permit any laborer to proceed to any depôt other than the depôt registered under those Sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees for every laborer so forwarded or sent or induced or permitted, and in default of payment of such fine to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Provided always that any laborer who from his state of health is, in the Medical Inspector's opinion, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where he was registered, shall, in addition to his being conveyed back by or at the expense of the Contractor, be entitled to continue in the depôt and to be fed, clothed, and lodged there by and at the expense of the Contractor until such time as the Superintendent shall order otherwise.

Government of India, Public Works Department.

Revenue Report, Irrigation Department, North-Western Provinces, for 1860-61.

THIS Report has reached the Government of India sixteen months after the expiry of the year to which it refers. The delay in its submission is to be regretted, but it has been very carefully prepared by Colonel Turnbull, and the results it exhibits are very gratifying and reflect great credit on that Officer's administration of the Department during a year of such exceptional strain on its resources.

Before noticing the financial condition of the Canals it is proper to premise that the year under review was one of drought, which created an exceptional demand for water and necessitated the expansion of irrigation to the utmost. The Revenue derived was, in consequence, very much in excess of that realized in the preceding year, the Ganges Canal alone shewing an excess of about 82 per cent. That the Canal was able to meet the largely increased demand for water was due to the activity with which the Rajbuhas or distributing channels were constructed during the preceding year, and it is very gratifying to find that the progress since made in the construction of these channels inclines the local Authorities to be sanguine that the Revenue in 1861-62 will be found not to have materially retrograded.

A perusal of pages 65 to 69 of Colonel Turnbull's Report will convey an idea of the enormous benefits which have resulted to the country and the people from the free and prompt supply of water from the Canals. In addition to being the means of bringing thousands of tons of valuable produce to maturity these Canals were powerful auxiliaries to the measures of relief which were adopted by affording a ready means to the community of transporting grain to the suffering Districts which was duly appreciated and taken full advantage of. It should also be noted that, but for the action of these Canals, the loss of Revenue to Government would have greatly exceeded the sum of eleven lakhs, which is the amount held over in the distressed Districts, being only 9 per cent. on the assessed Revenue.

It is impossible to notice here all the matters of interest embraced in the Report and all that will be attempted will be to shew the financial condition of each Canal.

GANGES CANAL.

The main Canal, including the two terminal divisions, is 520 miles in length, and the length of Rajbuhas completed, on 30th April 1861, is 1,542 miles. With its branches and distributing channels the Canal had, to the same date, cost Rupees 1,87,48,280, while the value of the crops produced by means of the Canal during the year under review is estimated at Rupees 1,51,22,640. The area of land irrigated was 536 square miles, and 3,483 villages received the benefits of irrigation. The cost of maintenance and repairs for 1860-61 (including a fair share of the cost of the Central Office) amounted to Rupees 4,62,327, and the amount of Revenue derived in the same period was Rupees 6,45,115.

The following Table shews the progress made by the Ganges Canal since it commenced to yield Revenue :—

.	Capital expended to end of year.	Maintenance and repairs, including share of cost of Central Office.	Income.	Deficit.	Surplus.
1855-56	1,62,08,673	4,01,259	48,600	3,52,659	.
1856-57	1,73,46,983	3,49,143	1,09,780	2,39,363	...
1857-58	1,75,75,466	2,68,160	88,790	1,64,960	.
1858-59	1,73,81,[illegible]	4,59,539	1,61,554	2,95,985	.
1859-60	1,85,[illegible],874	4,63,199	3,07,697	1,55,[illegible]
1860-61	1,87,48,280	4,62,327	6,45,115	..	1,82,788
		23,86,547	13,80,916	12,10,519	1,82,788

It will thus be seen that for the first time since the opening of the Canal the receipts have exceeded the outlay during the year, and the balance of charges has, in consequence, been reduced from Rupees 12,10,419 in 1859-60, to Rupees 10,27,631 in 1860-61, exclusive of interest on capital, which, at 5 per cent. per annum, amounts to Rupees 48,13,144.

It may also be noted as satisfactory that, while the outlay in original works during 1860-61 exceeded that of the past year by Rupees 1,04,594, the cost of maintenance was a trifle, less Rupees 802.

The increase of income may be thus analyzed and compared with the preceding year :—

	Sale of Water.	Mill Rent.	Navigation.	Sale of Canal produce.	Sundries and Fines.	Total.
1859-60 ...	2,06,520	17,801	47,220	25,523	8,033	3,05,097
1860-61 ...	4,91,820	16,920	1,12,757	11,118	12,501	6,45,115
Increase in 1860-61 ...	2,85,300	...	65,537	...	4,468	3,40,018 Increase.
Decrease in 1860-61 ...	...	881	...	14,405	...

The main increase as in last year was from water rent, and comparison between the two years gives the following result:—

		Amount of Water Rent.	Miles of Rajbuhas.	Receipts per mile of Rajbuhas.

The results of the year's operations as compared with that of the preceding year may be shortly shewn thus :—

Gross Revenue...	1859-60 ...	3,05,097
	1860-61 ...	6,45,115
	Increase 1860-61 ...	3,40,018
Water Rent ...	1859-60 ...	2,06,521

Besides the benefits derived from the Canals by the produce of grain and the facilities afforded for its transport the Canal works themselves afforded employment to about 66 00,000 persons during the year. The Futtehgurh and Boolundshuhur branches were specially undertaken with the view of affording such employment to the starving population, and upwards of 15,000 persons were daily engaged on these works alone. The majority of the laborers were Chumars (working class), but a fair proportion of Jhats and Goojars (agricultural classes) was found among them, and it is said of these latter that there were many who had never perhaps taken a digging tool in their hands, but who in their distress were thankful to get employment, and with their wives and families were to be found daily performing a hard day's task. Of their thankful acceptance of the employment offered there cannot be a doubt when we read that in some parts of the country not a a blade of grass was to be seen, not a drop of water to be found in the village tanks, and that the wells were so over-worked by the hundreds of wretched people who crowd daily to them that nothing but the most filthy muddy water was to be obtained from them. Everywhere villages were deserted, many were almost empty. The land was unable to support the laborer and the laborer forsook the land, and it is with feelings of horror we read that even in places where cattle could be fed and laborers found it often happened that the cultivators could with difficulty procure seed, "for the Buniahs with devilish forethought "refused to advance it, calculating upon sell- "ing them out of their house and home, ejecting "them altogether from their farms, and taking "possession of them themselves." It is not surprising, under the circumstances, to find it stated by Colonel Turnbull that he knows, from personal intercourse with the people, the thankful feeling they entertain towards the Government for having enabled them, not only to hold together as village communities, but to prosper to such an extent in many cases as to be able to liquidate debts which had encumbered them for years and to free themselves entirely from usurious Bankers or Buniahs.

The large number of boats which were collected in the narrow channel of the Canal during the years under review has shewn the absolute necessity for Docks at Cawnpore, and it is the intention to submit a project for their construction. The Docks should, Colonel Turnbull thinks, be connected with the Railway either by Tramroad or a still water Canal.

Eastern Jumna Canal.

The following Statement will shew the progress of this Canal during the past three years :—

	Capital expended to end of year.	Maintenance and Repairs	Income.	Profit.
1858-59 ...	13,94,614	84,714	2,81,022	96,308
1859-60 ...	14,02,861	91,219	2,59,273	1,68,054
1860-61 .	14,13,503	1,04,100	2,76,007	1,71,907

The increase here shewn in the expenditure on repairs during the year 1860 61 as compared with the preceding year is principally due to the failure of the old masonry falls at Reree, which necessitated the construction of a temporary channel fall and bridge at the site. The receipts of 1858-59 were the largest on record, they were very largely exceeded in 1859-60, and there is a small advance over the last in 1860-61, which must be considered satisfactory seeing that the volume of the river was reduced so much below its ordinary proportions that it was found necessary to starve the Sugarcane cultivation until the Wheat was safe, and to deny water to men who had sown on low ground and could do without it for a time in order to give it to those who who were less fortunately situated and in greater need.

The income during the year is thus analyzed and compared with that of the preceding year :—

	Sale of Water.	Mill Rent.	Sale of Produce.	Navigation.	Sundry Collections.	Fines.	Total.
1859-60	2,45,296	8,194	3,425	109	757	1,592	2,59,373
860-61	2,61,196	5,953	3,128	60	630	5,080	2,76,097

The area irrigated during the year was 2,61,327 acres, and the value of the produce Rupees 95,47,054.

The operations undertaken for the drainage of the Sooltanpore swamp have proved perfectly successful. Except a few patches in the very heart of the swamp the whole area is now fit for cultivation. The value of the grain produced on the portion of the swamp that had been reclaimed during the past year is said to have been more than Rupees 50,000, and the expenditure up to that time had been only Rupees 3,700.

Major Brownlow is making an endeavor to introduce a Contract system of irrigation. Twelve Contracts were entered into for three years from May 1860, and they are said to have proved most beneficial to the villages that entered into them. Circumstances have prevented further action in the matter.

Little or no damage has been done to the torrent works by the floods, but the enormous supply of water maintained steadily through the greater part of the year very severely tried the masonry works and falls of the Canal, and the Canal was obliged to be closed on 15th April 1861 to give the works a thorough repair.

Dhoon Canals.

Beejapoor Watercourse.—The total Revenue for the year was Rupees 6,086 against Rupees 4,742 for the preceding year, showing an increase of Rupees 1,344 The expenditure, however, was also larger, being Rupees 3,734 against Rupees 2,762. The increase both in expenditure and income is due to the raising of the side walls, and it is in contemplation to line with masonry every portion of the existing earthen channels.

The income was thus derived—

Water Rent	...	Rs. 3,431
Mill Rent	...	„ 2,405
Sundries	...	„ 250
		Rs. 6,086

There has been a steady increase in the item of Mill Rent beginning with Rupees 5-12 per day in 1856-57, and standing now at Rupees 9-2.

The total expenditure has amounted to Rupees 59,409, the receipts to Rupees 84,651, giving a profit of Rupees 25,242.

Rajpoor Watercourse.—There has been a small increase of income, Rupees 6,580 against Rupees 6,366, and a decrease in expenditure, Rupees 3,646 against Rupees 4,204.

The income is made up of—

Water Rent	...	Rs. 1,842
Mill Rent	...	„ 4,692
Fines	...	„ 46
		Rs. 6,580

Here, too, the Mill Rents have risen from Rupees 15-14 a day in 1856-57 to Rupees 17-8.

The total expenditure has been Rupees 75,308, the receipts Rupees 93,060, giving a profit of Rupees 17,752.

Kutta Putthur Canal.

There has been a large comparative increase of Revenue in this Canal owing to the drought, the Returns being Rupees 1,785 against Rupees 972. The expenditure has been Rupees 3,757 against Rupees 4,162.

The income is made up of—

Water Rent	...	Rs. 1,418
Mill Rent	...	„ 301
Fines	...	„ 66
		Rs. 1,785

The Mill Rents are low but have been gradually rising from 9 annas a day in 1856-57, to 14 annas in 1860-61.

The total expenditure has been Rupees 33,433, the income only Rupees 5,409, giving a deficit of Rupees 28,024. This is doubtless unsatisfactory, but better results are now anticipated as the pressure of the season has at length overcome the apathy of the people and led them to cut their watercourses, the construction of which they had deferred from year to year. Having now constructed them and found the benefit of the water it is hoped they will make continual use of them.

Kullungah Canal.

There has been a small increase of Revenue, Rupees 472 in 1860-61, against Rupees 227 in 1859-60.

The increase is derived from—

Water Rent	...	Rs. 193
Mill Rent	...	„ 226
Fines	...	„ 53
		Rs. 472

The Mill Rents have risen from Rupees 1-2 day in 1859-60, to Rupees 1-6 in 1860-61.

The expenditure in the Canal has amounted to Rupees 6,034, the income to Rupees 670, giving a deficit of Rupees 6 264.

The supply of water failed unexpectedly in this Canal, and it was not, consequently, of much benefit in the season of drought.

Jakhun Canal.

This Canal is in course of construction, and irrigation has not commenced. It is hoped that it will be in full play in 1862-63.

The following Statement shews the progress of the Dhoon Canals during the past three years:—

	Capital expended at end of year.	Maintenances and Repairs.	Income.	Deficit.
1858-59 ...	3,96,961	13,131	11,668	1,463
1859-60 ...	4,13,805	13,848	12,308	1,540
1860-61 ...	4,37,938	15,351	14,923	428

And the income during the year from each Canal is shewn in one view in the following Statement:—

	Water Rent.	Mill Rent.	Sale of Produce.	Fines.	Total.
Bejapoor ..	3,431	2,405	150	100	6,086
Rajpoor ...	1,842	4,692	...	46	6,580
Kutta Putthur ...	1,418	301	...	66	1,785
Kullunga ...	193	226	...	53	472
Total ..	6,884	7,624	150	265	14,923

From the above Statements it will have been seen that there has been an increase of Revenue on all the Dhoon Canals during the past year. In none of these small Canals is the supply of water equal to the demand, and it is in contemplation to increase the supply by lining them with masonry and so preventing wastage. The Returns from the Rajpoor Canal would have been much larger had all its water been used for irrigational purposes; but so large a quantity is supplied to the Town of Dehrah, the Jail, and other public Establishments for domestic purposes, that large areas of land to which the cultivators had dug new water courses, some at much expense, could not be supplied with water. Colonel Turnbull is of opinion that it would be but fair to the Canal to make a small charge for the water supplied to the Town and public Establishments.

It is gratifying to note the large increase during the year in the irrigation of Tea lands as shewn in the following Statement:—

	Rajpoor Canal.		Bejapoor Canal.		Kutta Putthur Canal.
	Area in Beegahs.	Amount.	Area in Beegahs.	Amount.	Area in Beegahs.	Amount.
		Rs.		Rs.		Rs.

Increase 1860-61 ...	103·3	35	514·11	202	245·8	96

Some injury was done to the Canals and to the Hurdwar and Deyrah Road by the unusually heavy floods. The road suffered most but the injuries have been repaired, and it is said of it "that of the great public utility of this line of communication there can be no doubt whatever, and, as was likely to be the case, the perfect evenness of the road has been much appreciated in its commercial value. All European Merchants, the Commissariat, and other large communities get their stores up by this route, and a cart can start from Meerut with the heaviest load it is capable of carrying and not unload till it reaches Rajpoor, the foot of the Hills."

Mr. Battie, the Superintendent, combats the prevailing opinion that irrigation is not of much value in Rohilcund. He maintains that this is only true of the ordinary Rubbee crops, such as Wheat, Barley, &c., but that the staple produce of the Province is Rice and Sugar, neither of which can, under ordinary circumstances, be grown without ample irrigation The small Return to Government is owing, he says, to the low rate of charge, viz, about four annas per irrigated beegah:—

Western Jumna Canal.

The Report on the operation of this Canal during 1860-61 has been separately dealt with. It has, however, hitherto been included with the North-Western Provinces Canal Reports, and a Statement shewing its financial position is therefore added here:—

	Capital.	Maintenance and Repairs.	Income.	Profit.
1858-59 ...	16,24,381	1,56,514	3,29,452	1,72,938

1860-61 ...	16,86,866	2,05,752	4,83,344	2,77,592

The total expenditure on this Canal, construction and improvement, has amounted to Rupees 16,84,625, and the net profit, after re-paying original cost and deducting the annual expense of maintenance and Establishment, has amounted to Rupees 37,75,696.

Government of Bengal.

Navigation of the Dehong and Debong Rivers.

From MAJOR W. AGNEW, Officiating Commissioner of Assam, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 72C., dated the 4th March 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to acquaint you, for His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's information, that I returned here to-day in the Steamer Adjai, which was taken safely to within twenty miles of Sudyah, and might, I think, as I shall proceed to explain, have reached the Station itself without meeting with any impediment to her progress greater than those that were overcome. No Steamer has ever gone higher up the Berhampootra than a few miles above Debrooghur, and, as reported in my letter No. 51C., dated the 18th ultimo, I determined, if possible, to take the Adjai to Sudyah, as much with the object of trying how far the river was really navigable for steamers, as with a view to the effect I concurred with Captain Comber, the Deputy Commissioner of the District, in thinking, would be produced by doing so on the different races in that neighbourhood, especially the Abors, the Meyong clan of which Tribe has of late years given us so much trouble.

We left Debrooghur on the afternoon of Sunday, the 22nd ultimo, and for the first forty miles steamed through a fine broad deep channel, the water of which was so clear that the bottom was plainly distinguishable at a depth of five or six feet. The current was rapid, but by no means impetuous, except at one point, where two trees lying parallel to each other in mid channel cause a considerable rush of water; but we passed that point without difficulty and met with no obstacle whatever till we reached the first rapid, which we did about 3 o'clock on the 23rd. This rapid is caused by the stones and pebbles washed into the Berhampootra from the Lallee, and, commencing just above Pobah Mookh, extends from that point for about a mile upwards towards the Lallee. Just below that river the Berhampootra branches into three channels, that to the north containing at present the largest volume of water, and up it we accordingly proceeded, but after an ineffectual attempt to stem the current were forced to desist, drop down stream, and anchor for the night opposite the Pobah Mookh. The centre channel, which is the next largest, was then examined, but found too shallow for our draught, and it was accordingly determined to try the main channel again. This we did next morning, but, after an obstinate battle of several hours with the current, found we could not advance even so far as we had done the day before, and were again obliged to fall back and anchor in still water.

It now seemed to me useless to think of trying to proceed higher up the river, and I decided to remain where I was, while a messenger was sent to Sudyah to bring down the different Chiefs who had come in to see me.

On the 25th some of our party went out shooting, sending canoes to a point well up stream to enable us in dropping down to see whether the rapid was so formidable as it appeared from the steamer, and the Chief Engineer went up to measure the rapidity of the current, which he pronounced to be running at the rate of eight miles an hour. My own impression, from what I saw in dropping down, was that the steamer could do it, and, at all events, as I wished to give the Abors and others who had come down with the messenger a trip in the steamer, I thought I might as well go up, as down stream, and directed the Captain, on Thursday morning, to make another attempt to pass the rapid.

We reached the point we had done on Monday without difficulty, but not an inch beyond it could we get. Every exertion was made and failed, the vessel remained as stationary with all the steam that could be put on her as if she were at anchor. We were then, as on the former occasions, right in the middle of the stream, the channel being narrow, and the Captain apprehensive, if he attempted to draw in shore, of grounding on the stones. We remained in this position until it was evident we were merely consuming fuel uselessly, and that we must either get into slacker water if we were to go on, or else return : the vessel was then cautiously edged a little towards the left bank, drew ahead, and in a few minutes we were in the broad channel again above the point where, I have said, the river branches, that is to say, opposite the Pobah Guard, a post between the river of that name and the Lallee, the course of either of which being the route generally chosen by the Abors to reach the plains.

No further impediment offered until we got the mouth of the Dehong and Debong Rivers, whose joint stream looks much more imposing than that of the Berhampootra itself, in following which one seems to be leaving the main channel altogether. The river here takes an extremely sharp bend, and to our great disappointment we found it choked with snags. We tried in vain to make our way through them under steam, and were obliged at last to anchor that the channel might be examined. The result was that it was determined to haul through, and we set about doing so the next morning. By 2 o'clock we had cleared what we hoped was the only remaining bar to our progress; but after proceeding a little way the channel, which I had expected to see widen after passing the obstructions caused by the Dehong and Debong, was found so narrow, and so full of trees and snags, that I considered it would be unjustifiable in me to risk the vessel by taking it on further before I had had a survey of the river myself, and I very reluctantly, therefore, brought the voyage to a conclusion.

Next morning I started for Sudyah by land, having elephants fortunately at my disposal, and reached the Station in six hours. The distance was not more than fourteen miles, but in places we had some difficulty in making our way through the jungle, which was very dense. At Sudyah I received the Chiefs named in the margin, to whom presents were given in return for the articles, chiefly daws, they had given, and I took advantage of the occasion to impress on the Singphoes the necessity of abandoning opium cultivation, which a few of them still carry on. I was disappointed that none of the Meyong Abors attended; but Captain Comber hardly expected them to do so, as they had been down from their Hills so lately before, and besides it was questionable whether they had received notice of my intended visit.

Ningroo Cham, Nothoyong, Oonan Jawoon, Niringtang, Tang Chang, Nignong, Doongonmah, Nothan Jowra, Grungnah, Goung Khrick, Nakhomé, Nenamee-Gala, Pichee Jongah, Nichar Khan, Oonang Gham, Doomcha, Kuma Chong Borah, Koon Kha, Thomangthee, Thoyai Khacha, Thosan, Thomon Khoosd, Thakalee, Thomoia, Thomaka, Ningrahment, Krauan, Nap Sur, Khosa, Son Kata, Anaugh, Okoboo, Magu, Nedhee, Mira, Jatna, and Jassama.

On the following day I returned to the steamer, carefully noticing the channel as we dropped down the river. There was abundance of water throughout our course, with a current of moderate strength; but while I have no doubt whatever that we could have steamed up to Sudyah, the channel was so studded with snags we should have been obliged, I think, to kedge the vessel the whole way down. This mode of progressing we were compelled to adopt to get past the mouth of the Dehong and Debong when we left our anchorage on the morning of the 2nd, and, notwithstanding all the caution that was used, we drifted athwart one of the sunken trees, the river, as I have mentioned, is encumbered with at that particular point, and could not get clear of it until next morning. When we did so, however, we met with no further impediment and returned here without, I am happy to say, having met with any accident to the vessel whatever.

I am hopeful that the journey has not been altogether barren of good results. It is now at least proved there is nothing to prevent any ordinary river steamer from going as high as the mouth of the Dehong and Debong, and that, although the channel beyond has probably never at any time been cleared, yet that a small sum would suffice to remove the obstructions that opposed our progress and open the river all the way to Sudyah for traffic even at this season, the most unfavorable perhaps in the whole year for its navigation owing to the lowness of the water.

At first sight a proposal, in view to opening up steam communication just now with Sudyah, may seem premature; but I believe the advantages likely to result from sending a steamer there occasionally are so great as to warrant my recommending that measures be taken towards clearing the channel, not only to the Station itself, but as much further on as the river may be found navigable for steamers, to which end I would suggest that a survey and estimate of expense be at once called for. It may be as well perhaps to re-call to the recollection of Government that, though there is an inexhaustible supply of the finest limestone in the bed of Berhampootra at Chumpara, twenty miles above Sudyah, lime itself is both scarce and expensive in the Province owing to the difficulties in the way of transport. Anything done, therefore, towards inproving the existing means of traffic above Debrooghur is of the most unquestionable benefit both to Government and to private parties.

Already, too, we are beginning to hear a cry from the Debrooghur Tea Planters for more room to extend their operations, and the direction they look to is the Sudyah neighbourhood, where, I am confident, land will be taken up largely if Government will signify their approval of one of the steamers stationed in Assam being occasionally sent there. But, independently of every other consideration, it would undoubtedly produce the most salutary effect on the different Tribes in that direction to see steamers periodically at Sudyah, a point perhaps of more importance than any other that could be urged in favor of the step advocated.

Before concluding I beg to be allowed to bring Captain Danvers' conduct to the favorable notice of Government. His successor arrived at Debroo two days before I left for Sudyah; but as I know Captain Danvers' good qualities as a Commander, I retained him in charge of the vessel for the trip, and had every cause to congratulate myself in having done so, as he managed the steamer admirably under considerable difficulties.

Government of Bengal.

Sanitary condition of certain Villages in the Baraset, Hooghly, and Nuddea Districts.

From Dr. J. McClelland, Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to E. H. Lushington, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1078, dated the 10th February 1863.)

I beg respectfully, in forwarding the enclosed Reports* from Dr. Elliot, to suggest, for the consideration of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the advisability of adopting measures with a view to the improvement of the sanitary condition of the Villages which have been the seat of disease in the Baraset, Hooghly, and Nuddea Districts during the last two rainy seasons, as well as that of the Villages lying in the course of the epidemic, which seems to travel southward.

2. Dr. Elliot's enquiries are not yet sufficiently advanced to enable him to describe accurately the nature of the disease further than that it seems to be a fatal form of Fever which leaves its victims, if they escape its first attack, to linger under an obstinate intermittent of the tertian or quartan type, with enlargement of the Spleen and Liver, Dysentry, Diarrhœa, or, in some cases, severe Asthma and general Dropsy.

3. The Villages which have suffered most are generally these on the bank of the River, or less than a mile inland between Hooghly and Goopteeparah, and from thence to Culna.

4. In the Baraset District the disease has extended north into Nuddea and south to Titaghur, near Barrackpore, where the jurisdiction of the 24-Pergunnahs commences; south-east as far as Dum-Dum; north-east as far as Echapore, Goberdangah, and other large Villages on the Jumoonah River; and westward towards Nyehattee and other places on the south of the Nuddea Division.

5. Having made himself acquainted with most of the Villages in which the epidemic has been most virulent, Dr. Elliot observes that he is now in a position to predict that, unless some sanitary measures are taken before the commencement of the ensuing rains, the epidemic will return with increased virulence about the middle of July or August next.

6 The greater portion of the Villages in which the disease makes its appearance are overgrown with jungle, and where the jungle is not so dense the water in the tanks is bad. Hundreds of houses in Villages over which the epidemic has passed have fallen, and jungle has taken their place, and the surviving population are so enfeebled as to be rendered unable to clear away the jungle which has encroached upon their ruined dwellings.

7. Many of the tanks are gradually filling up with decayed matter, yet the people employ the putrid water for all the various domestic purposes of cooking and bathing. Other tanks are already obliterated with refuse matter of every kind, and have become foul swamps.

8. There are no drains, and in some places† Dr. Elliot could scarcely make his way through the Villages even with the assistance of a guide.

† Owing to the want of regular paths.

9. The sanitary improvements suggested by Dr. Elliot involve, in the first place, the thinning and removing the jungle about the Villages. He urges that the brushwood should be thoroughly cleared, rooted up, and burnt; the larger and better tanks deepened and cleared of vegetation, and the smaller either filled up or improved. A few large drains or khâls ought to be made to every Village, and smaller drains communicating with these; all which, together with roads or paths, should be made at the expense of the Villages, assisted, Dr. Elliot thinks, by prison labor.

10. A Superintendent, he suggests, should be appointed with full power to carry out the improvement of the Villages in conjunction with the Magistrates, and as rapidly as possible, so that the whole may be completed before the ensuing rains.

11. In conversation on this subject Dr. Elliot stated that a few years ago a similar epidemic prevailed, I think, in the Jessore District, which was completely eradicated by Mr. Beaufort, of the Civil Service, then Collector or Magistrate. The appointment of some energetic Member of the Civil Service on the present occasion would be necessary to secure the success of the proposed measures within the period now available for their accomplishment.

12. The concluding observation in Dr. Elliots' Report of the 6th instant is well deserving of attention, namely, that the disease appears to be travelling southward towards the 24-Pergunnahs. He suggests, therefore, that remedial measures should be entered upon below Barrackpore as speedily as possible, and from there be carried upwards through the various Villages indicated.

13. In conclusion, I beg respectfully to state that no time will be lost in submitting the final Report of Dr. Elliot as soon as it reaches this Office.

From Dr. J. Elliot, Civil Assistant Surgeon, on special duty, to the Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department,—(No. 1.)

In compliance with the Bengal Government Order dated 12th instant, appointing me to make special enquiry into the nature and causes of the epidemic now prevalent in the Districts of Hooghly and Baraset, I have the honor to report, for the present information of the Principal Inspector-General, that I left Hooghly on the 21st instant, and since then have visited and inspected upwards of sixty Villages between Hooghly and Goopteeparah, many of them situated on the western bank of the river, others extending from three to six miles inland.

I have noted in the margin the names of the Villages in which the epidemic has been most virulent in this District during the months of September, October, and November last. It has now considerably abated, leaving its victims who have escaped from death to suffer from obstinate Intermittent Fever of the tertian or quartan type, enlargement of the Spleen and Liver, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, and, in some cases, Dyspepsia and general Anasarca.

Commencing from

The Villages which have suffered most are, with a few exceptions, on the bank of the river, extending about one mile inland, and from what I have seen I should say that four-fifths of the population either have been or are affected, and that fully 20 per cent have died. In the worst Villages, such as Bansberia and Shomrah, all have suffered more or less, the poor of course most, and for their relief Dispensaries have been established at the following places:—1*st*, Hooghly; 2*nd*, Hosseinabad, six miles south from Hooghly; 3*rd*, Treebanee; 4*th*, Ballaghur; 5*th*, Shomrah; 6th, Pundooah. Another will be opened at Goopteeparah in the course of two or three days, when the services of the Native Doctor at Pundooah will be available. In the meantime I have requested the Sub-Assistant Surgeon (Baboo Kalla Chand Dey) to remain at Pundooah and perform the duties till such time as a Native Doctor can be sent to relieve him. I think his services might be dispensed with and a Native Doctor employed in his stead.

I have only paid a cursory visit to three Dispensaries in Baraset and Kishnaghur. At the first there is a good supply of medicine, and the Native Doctor is intelligent and apparently attentive to his duties. The attendance was good.

1. Magoorgram, formerly at Dutt Pokur.
2. Nyehattee.
3. Chagda.
4. Kachraparah.

The man at Chagda informed me that he had been at his post for upwards of a month without medicines. I have now sent a supply to him and also to Kachraparah, but have not yet been able to see how they are working. I shall visit them in the course of two or three days.

The daily attendance at the Dispensaries on the Hooghly side is large (at Ballaghur, new and old, about 200 daily), and those who attend regularly are gradually obtaining relief, and inspiring others with confidence. I have visited the interior of nearly all the Villages round, and find the people glad to avail themselves of assistance offered to them. A further supply of a few articles of medicine, such as Barley, Sulphuric Acid, Sulphate of Iron, Compound Chalk Powder, with Opium, &c., will shortly be required, which will be indented for in due time. The general stock of medicine is kept with me, and only such articles are given out as are absolutely necessary.

A considerable sum of money has been collected by the Magistrate and is in his hand. I solicit the favor of your informing me whether the Contingent Bills, pay of Compounders, and other expenses are to be defrayed from this fund? I shall report more fully in the course of a few days regarding the Dispensaries in the Districts of Kishnaghur and Baraset.

From Dr. J. Elliot, Civil Assistant Surgeon, on special duty, to the Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department,—(No. 2, dated Chagda, the 10th January 1863.)

In continuation of my letter dated 31st ultimo, I have the honor further to report, for the information of the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, that I have since then visited upwards of eighty Villages in the Hooghly District, situated chiefly between Ballaghur and Culna, and to the south or south-west of these places as far as Pundooah.

I remained for three days at the latter place, after which I proceeded by Rail to Magoorah, and examined the Villages east of that Station and west of Treebinee, which I had not previously seen.

I find the same type of Fever, and the same diseases prevalent in all, considerably modified in the Villages situated inland (Pundooah excepted).

At the latter place the mortality during the last six months has been fearful, and there are still many people suffering from Intermittent Fever, enlargement of Spleen and Liver, general Anasarca, and affections of the Chest and Abdomen.

The mortality continues at the rate of four or five daily, and Sporadic Cholera is prevalent in the neighbouring Villages. I have directed the Sub-Assistant Surgeon to remain there in the meantime with a qualified Assistant to encourage and give Medical aid to the sufferers. The inhabitants of Pundooah, however, are chiefly Mussulmen, many of whom do not take our medicine.

There are now six Branch Dispensaries in the District, all working well, most of which I have visited twice during the past fortnight.

I think these ought to be sufficient for Hooghly; but if Medical aid is to be available to all the Native Doctors must move about from one place to another, as many poor people are unable to walk even a couple of miles for assistance, and have no one to send for medicine. Constant moving will frustrate the object in view, as none of the Patients can obtain relief or expect to be cured under a month's constant treatment.

In some Villages whole households have died, leaving, perhaps, one solitary person who has Fever every third or fourth day, and is helpless.

In others the members of the house have Fever alternately; the person who remains well prepares what food is required for the others, and performs the household duties for that day, and so on, in succession. When all are prostrated (which is frequently the case) they either fast or partake of what remains of the previous day's meal, cold, which, in their weak state, cannot be digested. A fresh attack of Fever is the result, perhaps, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, or Cholera closes the scene.

In the Kishnaghur District I have visited Santipore and the Villages north-east of it as far as Woolah, a distance of about ten miles. Fever is prevalent in all, as well as in the Villages to the north towards Kishnaghur.

Woolah was formerly a large and populous city with about 18 or 200,000 inhabitants. During the last six years it has nearly been depopulated, upwards of 12,000 people having died of Fever and its Sequelæ, Splenitis, Diarrhœa, and Dysentery.

The worst cases have, of course, long since died out, and the few who now remain are miserable wrecks of human beings, most of them suffering from constant Fever, with wasted limbs, jaundiced complexions, and enormous enlargement of the Spleen and Liver.

The place is overgrown with jungle; two-thirds or more of the houses have fallen into decay; the tanks are covered with weed and decaying vegetable matter, emitting an offensive odour; and the residents informed me that those who partake of the water, or remain in the place for a few days, are certain to be attacked with Fever however healthy they may previously have been.

I have visited three Dispensaries* in Nuddea District. The attendance has been small in comparison with Hooghly, and the people do not seem to know that Medical aid is available. At the latter place the attendance is fair.

* Woolah.
Chagda.
Kachraparah.

I now propose to visit the Dispensaries† in Baraset, two of which I have already seen once, and after that I shall make a tour through the Villages in that District in which Fever is prevalent, proceeding afterwards to Nuddea.

† Nyehattee.
Dutt Pokur at Magoorgram.
Rajahat.

A large supply of the Mineral Acids, Preparations of Iron, Vegetable Tonics, as well as medicines for the treatment of Chest and Bowel complaints, will be necessary, for which I shall indent immediately.

From Dr. J. Elliot, Civil Assistant Surgeon, on special duty, to the Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department,—(No. 3, dated Baraset, the 24th January 1863.)

I have the honor to state, for the information of the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, that since my last report I have visited the Dispensaries in the Baraset District, situated at Nyehattee, Baraset, Magoorgram, and Rajahat. The Dispensary at Dutt Pukur was removed to Magoorgram on the 10th of December last, at the request of the Deputy Magistrate, on account of severe sickness in the latter Village.

During the past rainy season upwards of 400 people are said to have died there out of a population of about 2,500, 500 of whom are still sick.

I have inspected the various Villages en route, commencing at Halleeshahur in the northern part of the District, where it joins with Nuddea, and terminating south of Titaghur, near Barrackpore, where the jurisdiction of the 24-Pergunnahs commences.

I have travelled south-east as far as Dum-Dum and Rajahat, and east as far as Kuddumgatchee Thannah, about five miles from Baraset

The Villages are much in the same state everywhere, most of the tanks are fast being filled up with fallen leaves, and vegetable matter in a state of decay. The water in many of them is of a greenish or blackish color; in others it is quite decomposed, and the brushwood has not been uprooted or cleared away for the last four or five years. The same type of Fever prevails everywhere, and, I should say, there is hardly a Village in Baraset which has not suffered more or less.

The epidemic made its first appearance in this District about four years ago, commencing at Halleeshahur, Jagooleea, and other large Villages to the north, in the month of June or July 1859.

It reached Baraset and the surrounding Villages in 1860, several of which, such as Badoo, Moisapore, Rajupara, Natapole, and others, have nearly been depopulated.

It has now extended in every direction, has raged with great virulence during the past rainy season at Gowgatchee, Garoolia, Moolajore, and Nowapara, situated between Nyehattee and Barrackpore; also at Neelgunge,* Rungpore,* Nafrunda,* and other places on the road from Barrackpore to Baraset, as well as at Magoorgram, Nemta, Rajahat, and other Villages south of Baraset, and in the neighbourhood of Dum-Dum.

* East of Barrackpore.

In most places here, as in Hooghly, the Fever has considerably abated, leaving many victims to suffer from enlargement of Spleen and Liver, Dysentry, Diarrhœa, or general Anasarca. Others continue to have attacks of Fever after every eight or ten days, attended with congestion and further enlargement of the Spleen. They continue in this state for several months, having fresh accessions of Fever, until either Dysentry sets in, or death takes place from exhaustion. Quinine and other remedies seem only to have a temporary effect, and only give relief for a time if the person remains in his Village or in the vicinity.

I feel certain that there will be a return of the Fever in the old Villages, and fresh outbreaks in others during next rains, unless stringent measures are taken to insist upon the Villages being cleared of jungle, and drained as far as their site will admit of it. The people have become apathetic and indifferent, and quietly submit themselves to their fate.

I shall enter more fully into the sanitary and other measures, which, I think, ought to be adopted in my Report, which will be submitted in due course.

The Dispensaries in the District have a full supply of all the most necessary medicines, and I do not think it necessary to establish more Hospitals at present.

The Native Doctors are well spoken of, and are performing their duties efficiently, but the attendance of Patients is not so large as at Hooghly. Many of the people have lost faith in medicine, partly because few of them take it long enough to benefit them, and partly because they have been so much imposed upon of late by ignorant and unqualified Native Practitioners, who now abound in every Village, extorting large sums of money without affording relief to the sufferers.

I think that the temporary Dispensaries ought to continue till about the end of February, after which two or more may remain permanently in each District as may be deemed necessary.

I now propose to accompany the Joint Magistrate in his tour to the northern part of the District, visiting the more important Villages as I pass along.

I shall afterwards proceed to the southern part of the Nuddea District as far as Woolah, taking the various Dispensaries in Hooghly and Nuddea in my way, and reporting as I proceed.

From Dr. J. Elliot, Civil Assistant Surgeon, on special duty, to the Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department,—(No. 4, dated Chagda, the 6th February 1863.)

In continuation of my letter No. 3, dated 24th ultimo, I have the honor to inform you that I have inspected most of the Villages in Thannahs Hobra and Goberdangah, situated to the east and north-east of the Baraset District.

I proceeded north-east as far as Echapore, Goipore, Goberdangah, Katoorah, and other large Villages on the Jumoonah River; returned westward towards Nyehattee, visiting Gygatta, Burra Jagooly, Seemhat, and other places in the south of the Nuddea Division, as well as Sutea, Seegdaspore, Nagda, and a number of important Villages within a circle of about six miles to the east of Nyehattee Thannah.

I have also inspected the south-eastern portion of the Nuddea Division, commencing at the Village of Kachraparah and terminating at Chagda.

I shall now proceed to Ranaghat, Woolah, Debookgram, and other Villages in the jurisdiction of Thannah Ranaghat, where Fever has been most virulent, after which I shall visit Santipore and the Villages south of Kishnaghur Station.

I shall then report more fully on the result of my recent investigations.

Meanwhile, having completed my tour of inspection in the Districts of Hooghly and Baraset, and having made myself acquainted with the state of most of the Villages in which Epidemic Fever has been most virulent, I think I am now in a position to state pretty confidently that, unless some sanitary measures are taken before the setting in of next rainy season, we may expect the epidemic to return with renewed virulence about the months of July and August next.

The deplorable state of some of those places can only be known by visiting them; but, as a general rule, the greater proportion of Villages in both Districts are overgrown with jungle and brushwood from three to twenty feet in height, more particularly those in which Fever has been prevalent for three or four years. I may mention the Villages of Badoo, Mohessurpore, Ghola, Casseeparah, Natapole, Suntoospore, Dutt Pokur, and others in the immediate vicinity of Baraset as examples of what I have said, and Keota, Shagunge, Bansberia, Treebannee, Joypore, Bagatee, Damoorda, Ballaghur, Shomrah, and others in the District of Hooghly.

From Hooghly to Goopteeparah, a distance of about thirty-four miles, I have visited and carefully inspected every Village on the bank of the river, and for several miles inland; and I can say that they are all in the same state of neglect. At Pundooah, a Station on the Railway, about sixteen miles from Hooghly, the jungle is not so dense, but the water in nearly all the tanks is bad.

Upwards of 1,100 people have died there during the last rainy season, and at Bansberia, about five miles from Hooghly, on the river, 2,217 people have died out of about 8,000 during the last two years: about 1,250 of those who remain are still suffering from severe sickness. At Badoo and Mohessurpore, near Baraset, I was informed that three-fourths of the people in these and some adjoining Villages had died during the last four years.

This is an exaggeration, but I should say that nearly one-half have died.

I may say the same of Natapole, Suntoospore, and some other Villages on the Soontee Nuddee, near Baraset.

At Magoorgram, in the same District, 500, or upwards, have died out of about 2,000 people during the last two rainy seasons. From what I have seen of some of the Villages in Nuddea I should say they are still worse, because they are in a more advanced state of decay.

Many places have nearly been depopulated by the return of the epidemic from year to year. Hundreds of houses in these Districts having been left without an inhabitant have fallen to the ground and jungle has sprung up in their places. In such Villages the residents who have escaped from death are liable to suffer from constant attacks of Fever at irregular periods, which renders them unable (even if they were willing) either to gain a proper livelihood, or to clear their Villages of the jungle and rank vegetation which is always ready to spring up, particularly during the rainy seasons. If it happens to be partially cleared it is allowed to rot and decay on the spot, which only tends to make bad worse.

The population in such places is gradually decreasing from year to year, and whole tracts of Country and Villages upon Villages are fast running into jungle.

Large and middle sized trees and vegetation of every kind is in excess everywhere; the houses particularly of the poor are generally hidden as much as possible from view by clumps of bamboos and brushwood of various kinds.

Under the recesses of these topes the rays of the Sun never penetrate, the earth remains damp throughout the year, and the free circulation of air is impossible.

Not only small, but many of the larger tanks are overhung by bamboos and trees which had originally been intended as a shade, but have now increased and encroached in every direction till the tanks have been hidden from view.

Owing to there not having been re-dug or cleaned for years many of the old tanks are gradually filling up with fallen leaves and vegetable matter in various stages of decay; the water in them has gradually decreased, become decomposed, and is altogether unfit for use, yet the people bathe, cook their food, and use it for various other purposes. As the water decreases rank vegetation begins to spring up, until eventually the spot becomes a swamp, giving forth malaria to poison all around it.

There is no system of drainage in any Village that I have visited, and roads, if they ever existed, have now fallen into distepair.

In some places I could scarcely make my way through the Village, and without a guide I certainly could not have done so owing to the want of pathways and the dense foliage overhead.

The only sanitary measures I can suggest for the benefit of such places would be to thin the trees, large and small, leaving, of course, fruit trees and others that may be of value.

The lower branches of such may be lopped off and pruned.

Bamboo clumps ought to be thinned and the roots dug up, those overhanging tanks, as well as large and small, and small trees and shrubs the leaves of which are constantly falling into the water, ought to be uprooted and removed. The brushwood should be thoroughly cleared, rooted up, and burnt, and the ground either cultivated or kept clear by sweeping it daily for a certain distance round each dwelling.

The planting of fences round every house should in future be prohibited.

The largest and best tanks should be re-dug, and the smaller pools and ponds, containing decomposed water, should be filled up with the earth that has been dug up.

A few khals or large drains ought to be made in every Village, communicating with smaller open drains for the purpose of removing the surface water from the Village. Roads, or at least raised pathways, might be constructed by means of the earth that has been thrown up for the purpose of making drains.

All this, I think, ought to be done chiefly at the expense of the Villages, assisted by prison labor at Baraset, when the Jail does not earn much.

A Superintendent, with full power to carry out the measures recommended, acting in co-operation with the Magistrates, will be able to do much this season to relieve the Villages in these Districts of the epidemic, which, if less rapid, is certainly in the end not less fatal than Cholera itself.

The epidemic appears to be travelling southwards towards 24-Pergunnahs, and I am of opinion that the Villages* immediately below Barrackpore should be cleared as speedily as possible.

* Titaghur and other Villages south and east for several miles

Wealthy Natives abound in almost every Village, one or more of whom might be made responsible to Government for the clearing of that portion of the Village which belongs to him; but they are generally too indolent or too miserly to attend either to the conservancy of their Villages or the welfare of their poorer fellow beings.

I have invariably noticed that where there is most wealth the Villages have been most neglected.

From V. H. Schalch, Esq., Commissioner of the Nuddea Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 8Ct., dated the 13th February 1863.)

Learning from the Returns received from the Magistrates of Nuddea and the 24-Pergunnahs that Epidemic Fever was still prevailing to a very great extent in certain Villages, I wrote to Dr. Elliot, who had been deputed to enquire specially into the causes of the disease, whether he could suggest any remedial measures which the Civil Authorities might at once carry out to lessen the virulence of the disease, and I annex his reply.

2. From this you will perceive that he recommends the uprooting, clearing away, and burning of the jungle, thinning the trees and bamboo clumps, re-digging the larger tanks and filling in others, clearing out existing drains and constructing others, and this not in one, but in some thirty Villages, which he has selected as those most affected by the disease.

3. During my present visit at Baraset I have spoken to the inhabitants, urging the necessity of their immediately undertaking these sanitary measures within their own grounds; but my appeal has met with no response, and I am convinced that, not only shall we obtain no voluntary assistance from the Villagers generally, but that, to procure the necessary labor for these works, we must import Coolies from other Districts to a considerable number.

4. To carry out the measures proposed by Dr. Elliot will be a work of great magnitude, requiring considerable expenditure, and the creation of a special agency, and it is useless, without funds and without labor, to make even an attempt until the Government has determined what amount of funds can be placed at the disposal of the Local Authorities.

5. However objectionable it may be that the general resources of the Government should be applied to remedy the neglect of individuals and for the immediate benefit of those individuals, yet the present is a case, I would submit, in which an exception must be made, for not only are the inhabitants incapable of effectually clearing their Villages from their own resources, but in every probability, if immediate steps are not taken to effect the necessary sanitary measures before the close of the hot season, the epidemic will re-appear in a more virulent form and extend its ravages to Calcutta, towards which it has year by year been rapidly approaching. That this will be the result is, I am informed, Dr. Elliot's opinion.

6. Consequently, a judicious expenditure, however large, will save not only the inhabitants of the suffering Villages from the return of the epidemic, but will defend from its ravages the Troops at Barrackpore and Dum-Dum and the inhabitants of Calcutta itself.

7. I would therefore suggest that I be authorized to prepare, in communication with Dr. Elliot and the Magistrates of the 24-Pergunnahs and Nuddea, a comprehensive scheme for carrying out the measures suggested by Dr. Elliot throughout the affected tract of country extending over an area of some 800 square miles; and that, with a view to prevent a recurrence of the causes which have created the epidemic, an Act be at once passed, introducing the sanitary provisions of Act XXI. of 1857 (the Suburban Conservancy Act) into all Sudder Stations and Sub-Divisional Head-Quarters, and into such tract of country as the Lieutenant-Governor in Bengal may, when certified of the necessity, think proper to extend them.

8. I would beg respectfully to solicit early attention to this subject, for the loss of each day renders the task of completing the requisite measures previous to commencement of the rain more difficult.

From Dr J. Elliot, Civil Assistant Surgeon of Hooghly, to the Commissioner of the Nuddea Division, Alipore,—(No. 4, dated the 3rd February 1863.)

In reply to your letter No. 18, dated 26th ultimo, I have the honor to report, for your information, that I visited the Villages of Santipore, Woolah, and Kachraparah, about a fortnight ago, and again saw Kachraparah yesterday.

There are not now many new cases of Fever in any of these places, as the epidemic has considerably abated during the past month; but many, or, I may say, nearly all the inhabitants of the two latter Villages, are still suffering from the effects of the previous four years' Fever.

The mortality at Woolah during this year has certainly been above 7,000 (report says more than 12,000), and the place is now so overgrown with jungle that clearing it will be both difficult and expensive.

I should say that nearly one-half of the houses have fallen into decay, and are overgrown with trees, wood, and low jungle; the tanks are fast filling up with muds, decaying vegetable matter, and long grass; the water in most of them is decomposed and altogether unfit for use, yet the people continue to use it for bathing, cooking, and even drinking purposes. The few people who have escaped from death in Woolah are constantly suffering from Fever, and will eventually fall victims to it if they remain in the place in its present state.

Kachraparah is a degree better than Woolah, and being a smaller Village the mortality has not been so great; but it, as well as the adjoining Villages, Nyehattee, Halleeshahur, and others, are quite overgrown with jungle, and have been decimated by Fever during the last four years.

The only remedial measures I can suggest would be to uproot, thoroughly clear away, and burn the jungle, thin the trees and bamboo clumps, re-dig the larger tanks, and fill up the others with the earth that has been dug up.

Some system of drainage also is necessary to admit of the escape of the surface water. In all places I have visited there is an utter want of drainage, and in their present state the water stagnates in the greater number of the Villages during the whole rainy season. Any drains that may previously have existed are now filled up, and there is no escape for the water.

In addition to this, in many places the jungle is so dense, and the Villages are so shut in by bamboo clumps and trees, that the sun's rays never penetrate into them.

A thorough clearing to admit of the free circulation of air is necessary, and the ground ought to be cultivated after the jungle has been removed. This is now rendered more necessary as the epidemic has become general in the District of

From E. H. Lushington, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to A. T. Maclean, Esq.,—(No. 1144, dated the 11th March 1863.)

I am directed to forward, herewith, for your information and guidance, a copy of the correspondence noted in the margin, relative to the prevalence of a very fatal epidemic in certain Districts in the Nuddea and Burdwan Divisions, and to acquaint you that, in conformity with the recommendation contained in letter No. 1078, dated 10th ultimo, from the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to appoint you on special duty in those Districts in which the epidemic is reported to be raging.

Letter from Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to Secretary, Government of Bengal, No. 1078, dated 10th February 1863.
Letter from Dr. Elliot, to Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, No. 1, without date.
Ditto from ditto, to ditto ditto, No. 2, dated 10th January 1863.
Ditto from ditto, to ditto ditto, No. 3, dated 24th January 1863.
Ditto from ditto, to ditto ditto, No. 4, dated 6th February 1863.
Letter from Commissioner of Nuddea, to Secretary, Government of Bengal, No. 8Ct., dated 13th February 1863, with one enclosure.

2. The objects of your mission, the manner in in which it should be conducted, and the points to which your reports and recommendation should be chiefly directed will be found in the following instructions.

3. After making yourself acquainted with the correspondence to which this letter has reference, you should arrange a plan for visiting all the villages which have been inspected by Dr. Elliot, or to which allusion is made by him in his Reports, as having suffered from this epidemic, as well as others that may have been affected by it. You should issue a Circular to the Zemindars of these Villages, inviting each one to meet you in his own Village, on an appointed day, for the purpose of personally enquiring with you into the sanitary state of the Village, especially as it may be affected by the jungle growing round the houses, and by the state of the tanks and drains in the neighbourhood, and also of considering what measures had best be adopted towards abating the epidemic and preventing its further extension.

4. At your inspection of each Village the presence of the most respectable and intelligent of its inhabitants should also be required, and you should endeavor to ascertain from them how long this epidemic has continued, what have been its effects in regard to the number of deaths, and what are the causes to which, in their opinion, it is attributable.

5. If it should appear that the sufferings to which the residents of these Villages have been exposed have resulted from the existence of jungle or stagnant tanks you will urge them to take immediate combined measures to remove these causes of disease, and to state what asistance they are prepared to render for the purpose, either by subscribing for hired labor, or by agreeing to undertake the work themselves, either jointly under proper direction, or each within his own premises. The Zemindars should also be required to co-operate.

6. You should also take the opportunity of impressing upon the people that, although the Government deeply regrets the present serious suffering and loss of human life, it is quite impossible that it can embark in such an extensive operation as that of clearing large tracts of country at the public charge. The Government is prepared to promote the efforts of the people in the attainment of this most necessary and important object by legislation, by the services of its Officers, and by such other means as may be in its power; but the funds must come from the people for whose particular advantage they will be expended. To the Zemindars and principal Landholders you may justly add a few remarks on the necessity of their bearing a share of this expense, not only as a duty they owe to their Ryots, but as the only means of preventing the ruin of these Estates, and the further spread of the disease to other parts of the country.

7. You will be so good as to submit Weekly Reports to Government of your proceedings, describing particularly the condition in which you may find each Village you visit, both as regards the condition of its inhabitants and the degree to which the existing causes of the disease, as mentioned by Dr. Elliot, prevail in the Village and in its vicinity.

8. At the conclusion of your tour you will furnish a well considered opinion as to what the people can be compelled to do for the sanitary improvement of their Villages under the laws now in force, what they are generally disposed to do towards helping themselves, what assistance Government may properly give those who are ready to come forward, and whether it should be given in the form of pecuniary donations to be regulated by the amounts raised in each Village by self-imposed local rates, or in any other way; and, lastly, in the event of the present laws not being sufficient to secure the removal of jungle and other nuisances from any place where they are likely to be injurious to health, what would be the leading features of a Law you would recommend whereby this desirable object might be attained.

9. In all matters relating to the subject of your enquiry you should communicate freely and personally with Dr. Elliot, and take advantage of the assistance and advice which his professional skill and knowledge, and the enquiries he has already made, will enable him to render with advantage.

10. You will be vested with the powers of Magistrate in the Districts of 24-Pergunnahs, Nuddea, Hooghly, and Burdwan, and you will receive the salary of your present office of Joint Magistrate of Moorshedabad, together with Rupees 5 a day travelling allowances, during your absence on this special duty.

11. Tents will be provided you by the Magistrate of Kishnaghur or Burdwan, and you will be at liberty to entertain an Establishment of a Writer and two Chupprassies at a total cost of Rupees 30 a month.

From Dr. J. McClelland, Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1265, dated the 24th March 1863.)

From Dr. Elliot's Report of the 18th instant, herewith forwarded, it will be observed that the type of the Fever is not new, having been known in certain damp undrained jungly places at various periods within the last forty years, as, for instance, the Station of Jessore and Villages in the neighbourhood, from whence it disappeared in consequence of the measures adopted by Mr. Beaufort, the Magistrate of that place, with a view to the removal of the jungles about the Villages, the extension of cultivation, and improved drainage.

2. In the Nuddea District this Fever has been known for a period of thirty years, first appearing after Cholera at Gudkhally, a large Village in a low situation between two stagnant creeks, twelve miles south of Jessore. Four or five years later it appeared in other Villages, fourteen to twenty miles distant, in a northerly direction from Gudkhally, where it re-appeared after a respite of eight years. Five or six years subsequently it shewed itself in a large Village twenty-five miles to the south of Gudkhally, and extended to other places on the low banks of stagnant creeks, spreading to the west and depopulating many large Villages, especially Woolah, situated on a marshy spot between stagnant creeks, as before. From this place the disease is said to have extended to the Baraset and Hooghly Districts.

3. The disease differs only in its intensity from the ordinary form of malarious Fever of the Districts over which it passes, being of a more congestive character than the ordinary intermittent, but presenting all the grades of severity between the remittent and intermittent types, and, in its worst form, ending in a change of structure either in the Liver or Spleen, or of both, in adults, and of the mucous membrane of the bowels in children.

4. The disease appears in the early part of the rainy season, in the months of June or July, and so far follows the rule of malarious Fevers, becoming most severe in September and October. It exhibits somewhat of the epidemic form in passing over certain Villages, while it falls with severity upon others.

5. The Villages selected are usually in the lowest and worst situations, often in the midst of matted brushwood, stagnant tanks and ditches, where the sources of malaria are endemic. Yet upon churs, where there is little vegetation, the residents are said by Dr. Elliot to suffer equally with those who reside in the wooded villages.

6. The cause of this epidemic is ascribed by Dr. Elliot principally to the absence of cultivation and of drainage, and it may be very easily understood how these two combined may tend to render a place unhealthy.

7. In a cultivated surface the pores of the soil are opened to the absorption of moisture, while the organic matters are taken up by the growing plants. This action is compensated for in a moderately well drained uncultivated surface. But where there is neither drainage nor cultivation an impervious scum is formed on the surface, from which all impurities are exhaled into the air. Thus we can account for the success of Mr. Beaufort's remedy adverted to in the 1st paragraph of this letter.

8. The whole tenor of Dr. Elliot's Report goes to shew that the extension of cultivation in the immediate vicinity of Villages in Lower Bengal, together with every exertion to keep the sites on which the Villages themselves are placed dry, are the only means by which such visitations as this epidemic are to be averted.

9. In other words the Report of Dr. Elliot clearly shews that there is a certain limit of sanitary neglect incompatible with human existence, and that in the Villages upon which this severe visitation has fallen that limit has doubtlessly been nearly attained. It shews, moreover, that this evil is of such a general nature that the proper remedy, as pointed out in Mr. Lushington's letter, rests with the people themselves, and that without their co-operation the Government cannot help them.

10. Under these circumstances it is to be hoped that, as self-preservation is the first law of Nature, the Native community, from the highest to the lowest, will afford that assistance to the Sanitary Commissioner which may enable him, under the authority of the Government, to effect such improvements as may obviate in future the repetition of such sickness as would, if uncared for, depopulate the Villages in which it has already shewn itself with such sad results.

11. From what has been stated above in paragraph 5 it is not necessary that there should be a general removal of trees and vegetation from the vicinity of Villages.

12. The practical measures required are to leave as little waste jungle around and within the Villages as possible by bringing the whole, or nearly so, under cultivation. A few shady shrubs and trees around the houses and along the walks and garden hedges are salutary. It is only when jungle is allowed to spring up and obstruct drainage and ventilation, while at the same time it is made the means of concealing all kinds of filth, that it becomes dangerous to the health of Villages.

13. Necessary pits, or rather trenches, may be formed on the north side of every Village at a sufficient distance both from houses, tanks, and nullahs. Properly attended to there need be no inconvenience. They might be covered with grass choppers and have fresh earth thrown over them daily. The objectionable practice of defiling the banks of rivers, creeks, and canals must be abandoned, as well as the encouragement of jungle around Villages for the concealment of such abominations.

14. There may be separate necessary trenches for men and women. These should be kept dry, the earth from their excavation forming an elevated edge around them, which will serve by degrees for filling them up, and at the same time prevent water from flowing into them from the surface. The chopper should project well as to prevent rain from falling into them, and the path leading to them should be raised sufficiently to be always dry. The chopper should be light and moveable, so as to be easily shifted when it becomes necessary to change or prolong the trench as it becomes obliterated.

15. In enlarging and deepening tanks where this is necessary all objectionable pits and stagnant pools should be filled up as already suggested. It is always to be borne in mind that one large tank is preferable in every respect to several small ones, and that, as a general rule, the fewer tanks beyond what are sufficient either for purposes of drainage or the necessary supply of water the better.

16. Tanks of the ordinary construction in Bengal have their banks raised higher than the surrounding surface; they are, therefore, usually ill-supplied with water, and, instead of subserving the purposes of drainage, they have the very opposite effect, for when they overflow they inundate the ground around them, and thus keep up a damp, and, as regards health, a bad condition of the soil.

17. When the surface is kept clean, as it ought to be in every Village, there can be no objection to the drainage generally being conducted into the tanks: the banks of these should, therefore, be gradually sloped down from the general surface, so that, if they should overflow, the water may subside back into them again, leaving the houses and the ground around them dry.

18. All the drains and water courses in and around Villages should be annually cleaned out and freed from all obstructions before the approach of the rains.

Report on Epidemic, Remittent and Intermittent, Fever occurring in parts of Burdwan and Nuddea Divisions by Dr. J. Elliot.

I.—History in Jessore.—A peculiar type of fever, called by Natives "Jur Beckar," of the same nature as that now prevalent in many of the large Villages of the Burdwan and Nuddea Divisions, seems to have been prevalent in Jessore for many years previous to its first appearance in the District of Nuddea.

It appeared at Mahomedpore, a large Village on the River Ellen Kallee, about thirty miles east of the Station of Jessore, in the year 1824 or 1825; next at a place named Dalga, on the Cheetra Nuddee; then at Nuldanga, on the Baeng Nuddee, a few years later; and at Chashra, a damp, unhealthy Village near Jessore, still known as an aguish spot, in the year 1831.

Kushba and many other Villages on the Bhyrub River were liable to outbreaks of fever at a much later period than the date abovementioned.

The inhabitants of Gud Ghât, a large Village twelve miles north of the Station, suffered fearfully about the year 1855 or 1856, when many hundreds died before medical aid could be afforded to them, and others fled panic-struck from the place.

The Station of Jessore itself, and the Villages in the immediate neighbourhood, have only been healthy during the last ten years, since they were cleared of jungle, thoroughly drained, and the land cultivated under the superintendence and orders of Mr. F. Beaufort, then Magistrate of that place.

It is probably the same type of fever as was common in Rungpore, Dinagepore, Purneah, and some other Districts, which are now, I understand, pretty healthy.

II.—History in Nuddea.—From Jessore it would seem to have passed over to the contiguous District of Nuddea about the year 1832 or 1833, attacking first the large and then populous Village of Gudkhally, situated between the Hureekhal and the stagnant River Cobbaduck, twelve miles south of Jessore, on the public road leading to Calcutta.

I am informed that cholera preceded the outbreak for two successive months; that on the appearance of fever many fled from the place: those who remained in the locality suffered fearfully, and large numbers perished.

Goatallee, Khandbeela, Sookpokooria, in the same District, from fourteen to twenty miles north of the last mentioned place, seem to have been the next large Villages which were attacked about five years later. In 1835-36 they are said to have suffered excessively; but I have not been able to hear of their present condition.

In the year 1840 Gudkhally was again attacked by the same type of fever, when its fearful ravages nearly depopulated the Village.

The epidemic is next heard of in 1845-46 at a large Village named Sreenuggur, about twenty-five miles south-west of Gudkhally, between the Stations of Bongong and Chogda. It continued there for years, and, after carrying off nearly three-fourths of the population, extended eastward to the neighbouring Villages of Gopalnuggur, Bahrampore, and others, which still suffer; south to Digreeah, Chowbareeah, and other places, on the Juboona River; north to Simooleah, Gansaree, and other Villages, within a circle of about five miles.

It seems after that to have become general over the Pergunnah, and about the year 1850-51 it is heard of at Gaurpotha, twelve miles north-east of Sreenuggur. It then spread westward through the Villages of Deboogram, Majerkallee, Mooragatchee, and others in that quarter, and after nearly depopulating many of them reached Oolah at the commencement of the rainy season of 1856.

Berenuggur or Oolah was then a very large and populous Village, situated on a marshy spot of ground about three miles to the north of Ranaghat, and one mile west of the Choornee Nuddee, having a large Bheel of the same name to the south-west.

At that time it is said to have contained more than 18,000 inhabitants, 10,000 of whom, or upwards, must have perished during the past six years.

From this place the epidemic seems to have diffused itself over the southern part of Nuddea, the north-eastern part of Hooghly, and pretty generally over the whole of the District of Baraset.

During the three following years it extended north from Oolah through Baraset, Bad Koola, and Khamar Simleeah, to within a few miles of the south-eastern part of the Station of Kishnaghur.

In 1859-60 it proceeded west through Phooleah, Nobla, Maleepotta, and a number of other Villages, to Santipore, which has been comparatively free. Thence, in 1860, it extended north to Gobindpore, Deegnuggur, and neighbouring places, and since the above period up to date has become pretty general in most of the large Villages immediately south and south-west of Kishnaghur.

South from Oolah it extended through Ranaghat and surrounding Villages (which have suffered but little) to Anoolea, Kaetparah, Jugpore, and others, as far as Chogda, on the River Hooghly, which place it reached in July 1857.

From Chogda, during 1858-59, it continued to spread through the principal Villages on the river, as well as those located several miles inland as far as Sooksagur, and thence in the same route, devastating many large Villages as it proceeded: it reached Kachraparah, the most southerly point in the Nuddea jurisdiction, during the rainy season of 1859.

III.—History in Baraset.—Crossing the Bagai Khal, which separates Nuddea from Baraset, the epidemic extended from Kachraparah to the adjoining Village of Haleeshohur, in Nyhattee Thannah. This was also a very large and populous place, extending south from Kachraparah, on the eastern bank of the Ganges, to Nyhattee, opposite Chinsurah.

Fever of an epidemic type appeared in these Villages a few months later than at Kachraparah in the same year (1859) remained there, and in the surrounding Villages during 1860-61, carrying off numerous victims, and leaving others who are suffering from its effects at the present day.

During 1860 the Villages of Kantalparah Bhatparah, and others further south on the Hooghly were attacked, and since then, during 1861-62 it has gradually found its way to Juggerdul Atpore, Garoolia, and Moolajore; after which it cannot be said to be epidemic, though the Villages of Isapore, Munnirampore, Chanuck, Titaghur, and many others, as far as south as Khurda in the 24-Pergunnahs, have suffered more than usual from intermittent fever during the past rainy season.

Simultaneously with those on the river many Villages inland have suffered equally with those above noticed, of which I shall only mention a few.

South of Chagda are Goiparah, Seemhat, Burro Jagooly, Beroi Sultea Polassy, Dadpore, and others, about ten miles east of the River Hooghly.

On the Sootee Nuddee further south, within a few miles of Baraset, are Suntospore, Natapole, Soobaloy, Meerhatty, and other Villages, most of which have almost been depopulated.

South of Sreenuggur, on the Joboona River, are Julleesur, Echapore, Goipore, Goberdangah, Khatura, and others, in many of which it has committed fearful ravages during the past three years.

The epidemic appeared in the Station of Baraset and surrounding Villages in the month of July 1860. Thence it has extended east to Badoo, Takerhat, and the Villages in the neighbourhood of Kudumgatchee Thannah; south-east to Mohessurpore, and through a long line of Villages as far as Rajahattee, in the 24-Pergunnahs.

In the Villages of Badoo and others three-fourths of the population are said to have died or deserted their Villages, and those who remain are still sick.

West of Baraset, on the road leading to Barrackpore, it has been most virulent in the Villages of Rungopore, Neelgunge, and Kataleea, during the past rainy season.

South of the same place, Majergram, Neenta, Ghola, and many other Villages in the vicinity of Dum-Dum, have suffered equally with the others, but the Station of Dum-Dum itself is comparatively free.

IV.—History in Hooghly.—Although intermittent fever of an unusually severe type seems to have been prevalent in Keota, Shagunge, and Villages in the immediate vicinity of Hooghly, for the last five years, it did not appear in an epidemic form till the commencement of the rainy seasons of 1860, when it broke out at Bansbaria, Seelpore, Trebanee, and other places on the opposite side of the river from Haleeshahur, about four miles north of Hooghly.

From Trebanee it has extended west on both sides of the Sursuttee Khal, as far as Mugra, Sathgram, and Hosseinabad; south through Shagunge and Balagore to Hooghly and Chinsurah, which have escaped, although it is prevalent in the surrounding Villages as far south as Chandernagore and Buddebatty, in the form of severe intermittent and remittent fever, hardly epidemic.

North of Trebanee, during 1861-62, it extended through the Villages of Jeypore, Bagattee, and Nayserai, to Domoorda, Sheejah, and Jeerut, all on the river, as far as Bollaghur.

From Bollaghur and its neighbourhood, since the rains of 1861, it has extended north through Sreepore, Sookria, Somrah, and other Villages, as far as Goopteeparah, where it commenced early in the rainy season of 1862.

It now extends west from Bollaghur through the principal Villages en route to Pundooah, which it reached in July 1862. In none of them, however, has it been so virulent as in Pundooah, where upwards of 1,200 people have died during six months.

In the Burdwan District, adjoining Hooghly, the Villages of Gopeenathpore and Poopdul, on the Bagheeruttee River, are those in which it is prevalent at the present time.

The Villages of Digumberpore and Muttearree, on the Matabanga, and Dowlutgunge, on the Cobbaduck River, in Nudden District, are also suffering severely.

From the above rough sketch of the rise and progress of the epidemic it would seem to be travelling from the north-east to the south and west; in the former direction to the 24-Pergunnahs; and in the latter vid Pundooah towards the District of Burdwan.

V.—Remarks.—To have a correct idea of the deplorable condition of many of the Villages abovementioned, and of others I have seen, it would be necessary to visit some of them after they have emerged from an epidemic like the present, under which they have been suffering for three or four years.

Perhaps some of those in Nuddea present a worse aspect than the others, because they have suffered the longest; but it is only necessary to step from Hooghly to Haleeshahur or Bansbaria to have a pretty fair idea of the effects of a plague, which, if less rapid in its results, is in the end not less fatal than Cholera itself.

A glance at the Villages of Oolah, Nobla, Meradpore, and such places tells that they are doomed, and nothing can be more wretched than the appearance they now present.

The rich and the poor of all ages and castes have suffered alike, consequently dwelling houses of all descriptions in equal proportions are to be seen in various stages of decay and ruin. Many of them have fallen to the ground, and jungle and rank vegetation have sprung up in their places.

Tanks, from long neglect, have gradually filled up with weed and long grass till just enough water has been left in them to favor vegetation during the rains, and assist in the process of decomposition during the dry season. The largest and best of them are now stagnant morasses, which, in some instances, have served as receptacles for the dead when no other means could be found for disposing of them.

From the natural fertility of the soil, favored by damp, want of drainage, and of cultivation, useless vegetation of every description has sprung up, unchecked and unheeded to such an extent that roads and pathways have disappeared.

In some places even light and ventilation have been so much interfered with by the spreading of boughs, clumps of bamboos, tangled creepers overhead, and by dense masses of matted brushwood underneath that such thickets are no longer fitted as habitations for human beings, and wild animals and beasts of prey have found shelter under the recesses that have been formed.

Many large "Barees," in which there were formerly thirty and forty residents, have now been left with perhaps one solitary occupant; whole Mohullas and Streets have been deserted; and large Villages which formerly told their residents by thousands can now almost number them by hundreds. In this manner many of the largest and most populous places in the three Districts have been decimated by a disease which has numbered its victims by thousands, and which has left three-fourths of those who have escaped from immediate death to linger on for a few months, or perhaps years, in state of misery and despair, at last to fall victims by one of the numerous sequences, which are perhaps productive of as great an amount of mortality as the disease itself.

The names of a few of the Villages which I visited, in which the mortality has been greatest, have been mentioned in the course of the history of the epidemic, but there are hundreds of others in the same state, some of which I have seen, others not. In few instances (Pundooah perhaps excepted) have I been able to procure even a tolerably correct idea of mortality, as no account was kept at the time, and all the information that can now be obtained on the subject is only hearsay. The reports given by the Police are full of error, and only approximate to the truth. They either take no trouble to obtain correct information, or the people, I believe, in many instances, are averse to giving it without knowing exactly what use is to be made of it. A pretty correct, but incomplete, Return of a few of the large Villages in Bansbaria and Nyehattee Thannahs near Hooghly has been given, but of by far the greater number no account has been rendered. Villages in Nuddea and Baraset are in a worse state than those in Hooghly, because they were attacked earlier, and, as is usually the case, the efficient causes seem to have acted with greater virulence at the commencement than towards the close of epidemic.

Epidemics during different seasons and in different climates have been distinguished by certain peculiarities. The chief characteristics of the present one, and the circumstances by which it has been influenced and modified, may be said to be connected, first, with the localities in which it has occurred; and, second, with the constitutions and habits of the people among whom it has prevailed.

VI.—The causes of the disease may be divided into predisposing and exciting.— Of the former I shall mention first some of the endemic influences most likely to cause the disease in the localities in which it prevails.

1.—Sites of Villages.—As the sources of malaria are, I believe, endemic in most of them, the situations of Villages, whether on bheels, khals, or on the banks of stagnant or running rivers, do not seem to have influenced the prevalence of the disease in them as much as might have been expected.

Perhaps of all others (Oolah excepted), those that have suffered the greatest ravages have been situated on the banks of stagnant rivers filled with vegetation and weeds of every description, on either bank of which, when the water subsides after the rainy season, there is exposed a large extent of marshy ground teeming with fertile sources of poisonous emanations affecting all in the vicinity.

Others are located on bheels, or near them, many of which contain only a certain amount of stagnant water, the greater portion of which dries up every season, leaving a considerable extent of malarious surface to be acted on by the rays of a powerful sun.

Houses situated on the outskirts of such Villages do not seem, however, to have suffered more than those in the interior, in some cases rather less.

Most Villages are surrounded by a sheet of water during the rains, with extensive rice cultivation all round them. They appear to be pretty healthy during the time the crop is growing, but after it is cut the soil, which is covered with both animal and vegetable remains, dries, cracks, and miasmatic emanations probably rise through the fissures.

Those on the banks of large rivers, although high and apparently above the river level, continue very damp throughout the year, and are often flooded during the rains without a rise of the river over them.

This may be accounted for by the many hundreds of tanks they contain, or. perhaps, during the periodical rise of the river, the water forces itself up from below through the porous soil.

From want of drains and dead level water stagnates in parts of all Villages, percolates into the soil, and when it becomes saturated the remainder accumulates on the surface to undergo a process of slow evaporation.

2.—Nature of the Soil.—In all places the soil is alluvial and very much alike in most Villages. In localities near rivers there is generally a spongy upper surface composed of a mass of decayed animal and vegetable matter. In other places the surface is heavy, mutteal, or clay intermixed with sand, or there may be a predominance of sand; but these circumstances do not seem to have influenced the diffusion of the present epidemic, for the soil in Nuddea contains more sand, and is drier than that of Hooghly, yet the disease prevails equally in the Villages of both.

On Churs, too, where there is much alluvial sand, and almost no vegetation, the residents suffer as much from fever as those in the old Villages. The people who reside on these Churs are naturally a healthy race of men (Boonas) from Bancoorah and other Districts, who have settled there for the purpose of preparing the land for Indigo cultivation.

3.—Want of Cultivation of Land.—One of the principal causes of this epidemic is the want of cultivation of lands adjoining houses and Villages, and the harbouring near them of thick deciduous jungle and vegetation. Nothing contributes so much towards the health of a country as cultivation; and it is known that fertile and highly cultivated land when speedily allowed to run to waste becomes unhealthy to reside upon. The same may be said of land which has not been under cultivation for a series of years if thickly populated, and partially allowed to run to waste.

This seems to be verified in the present instance, for I have almost invariably observed that the epidemic has appeared first, and has been most virulent in the oldest and most populous Villages, the lands in and around which have not been under cultivation or exposed to the rays of the sun for years.

During each season every kind of vegetation springs up leaves fall, and various animal substances accumulate, decompose, and putrify, by the aid of heat and moisture, and afterwards, during the rains, percolate into the porous soil.

The earth becomes saturated with dead organic matter in various stages of putrefaction and decay, till at last, when evaporation takes place after the periodical inundation, poisonous emanations arise, which, if not acting at all times as specific causes of disease, must exercise a prejudicial and depressing influence on the constitutions of those long resident in such localities.

4.—Position and over-crowding of Houses.—Probably from increase of the population, previous to the outbreak of sickness, there had also been a great increase in the number of houses in many Villages, which, in many instances, have been huddled together, obstructing streets, drains, and pathways, without any system or regard to ventilation.

There is a want of light and ventilation in the best of Native houses, and among the poor such things are not thought of.

Houses are generally overcrowded during health, and are still less adapted to accommodate all the members of a family at once, when prostrated by sickness, as has often been the case.

In this manner, by overcrowding, exhalations from the bodies of the sick, from the secretions, or perhaps from the excretions, which are frequently left in close proximity to them, have acted as powerful exciting causes of disease, and have tended to promote its diffusion among them in an unusual manner.

In some instances so foul has been the atmosphere in these dwellings that I have not been able to remain in them even for a short space of time.

5.—Excess of Vegetation and Bamboo Cultivation in the Vicinity of Houses.—In all places there is an excess of foliage and useless vegetation of every description, so much so, as to be incompatible with the maintenance of the public health.

Trees, both large and small, clumps of bamboos, plaintain and mangoe groves, shrubs of every sort, and all kinds of jungle are allowed to grow up without check in the vicinity of their dwellings. No rigorous measures have been taken to put a stop to this, and the ordinary attempts at clearing such places are often both imperfect and unreasonable. If benefit results it is only temporary, for, instead of uprooting the jungle, the most conspicuous bushes only have been cut down during the rainy season, and have been left to decay on the spot.

Much of what has been cut takes root on its own account, and the old roots spring up with greater vigour the following season.

Natives favor the growth of jungle and vegetation round their houses for purposes of concealment, and, in the absence of a clump of bamboos or a natural patch of jungle, a hedge is planted of the "Bharanda," or some other shrub which grows up with amazing rapidity, eventually completely shutting out the means of ventilation.

6.—Bad Water and state of Tanks.—The water in many of the largest and best tanks has deteriorated from want of care and proper cleaning, and, as most of them have not been re-dug for years, it has on that account gradually decreased in quantity, till at most a few feet of water only remains.

The greater proportion of the middle sized tanks in many Villages are hidden from the influence of the sun and wind; and, owing to the constant fall and accumulation of dead leaves and broken branches from the trees and bamboo clumps overhanging them, the water in some has become discolored, in others decomposed, and in all it is unfit for use. Yet many households depend upon such sources for their daily supply of this most necessary element.

As the water decreases vegetation increases, rank weeds and long grass take root and spring up, till at last a foul swamp takes the place of what was once a tank.

The indiscriminate use of tanks for bathing and other purposes by all classes of people leads to the deterioration of the water, and ultimately renders it unfit for use for drinking purposes.

Innumerable small ponds, pools, and holes of various descriptions, containing water of different hues and colors, exist in every Village, many of which have been excavated for the purpose of procuring earth for erecting houses in their immediate vicinity. So long as these excavations contain water they provide the house with all that is required for cooking, bathing, and all other purposes, except, perhaps, drinking, at least among the lower classes.

Such pools on being disturbed while they contain water emit gases, of which the predominating elements are probably Sulphur, Carbon, and Hydrogen, in various proportions.

The water is, as we know, swarming with Infusoria and other animated organisms, the life of which, as evaporation advances, must cease. During the process of putrefaction and decay of the organic remains it is to be presumed that gases may be produced still more poisonous than the former, which will be likely to prove obnoxious to the health of all who are subjected to their influence.

In connection with this subject I may mention that only a few days ago thirty healthy men were sent from Hooghly to Bansbaria to remove weeds from the surface and edges of some of the numerous collections of stagnant water in that filthy locality. Within a few days five of them had died of cholera, the others only escaped by a timely removal from the place. Several of them have died since their return. It is probably owing to the same want of care and of re-digging that a scarcity of water is found in the wells of Villages where there are no tanks.

7.—Drainage in Villages.—There is a complete want of any attempt at drainage in all Villages, the consequence of which is that many of those whose site is naturally low are partially under water during the greater part of the rainy season; roads and pathways, if any exist, are frequently in a state of submersion, so that the only means of communication between house and house is through mud water.

8.—Burial Grounds.—The burial places for the dead in Mussulman Villages, and Burning Ghâts in those of Hindoos, are far too near the habitations of the living.

In most instances the dead are buried in the immediate vicinity of their late dwelling-houses, and always in some spot within the boundary of the Village, which ought not to be allowed.

At Pundooah, during the past year, where more than a thousand people (many of whom were Mussulman) died within the short space of six months, the ordinary burial grounds could not contain the dead, and in the vicinity of most houses are now to be seen the graves of two or three or more of the dead relatives of the inmates. On the banks of old tanks, too, and in low marshy localities within the Town, bodies have been thrown into the ground by hundreds, with a covering of only a very few feet of earth above them, from which, doubtless, issue all kinds of poisonous, gaseous emanations, the products of animal decay, which tend to diffuse and excite fresh disease.

In Hindoo Villages, as I have said, during the late epidemic, the banks of large tanks, or nearest khals, in the immediate neighbourhood of Villages, have been made the receiving places for the dead in large numbers; and during the seasons of greatest mortality the state of the Burning Ghâts has been too horrible for description. Even, during the late season, carcases in all stages of decay have been seen unburnt and unburied, not further off than Kachraparah or Trebanee. Doubtless the same is the case everywhere. At Somrah the people complained that the water in a khal there had become offensive from the numbers of dead that had been thrown into it, and in several places I have seen a scum of oily looking substance on the surface of the water. In other Villages when the last members of the family have died the bodies have been left on the spot, there being none to remove them.

In addition to the usual sources of malaria, effluvia, and emanations from decomposing animal remains have been added, which must have tended to establish disease of a malignant type in localities already foul and bad.

VII.—Causes influencing the disease among the people. 1. Food.—Bad food and irregularity in the hours at which it is taken are powerful predisposing causes to disease, particularly among the poor. The want of properly cooked food is one of the many causes of relapses so common among those who are suffering from this disease. The use of unripe fruits, putrid fish, and many other substances equally unwholesome (I might have said poisonous) not only predispose to, but tend to bring about disease. Bad drinking water, too, may be brought forward as one of the most prominent causes, and we know in how many places it is not procurable of good quality.

2.—Clothing.—Scanty clothing at all times, especially during the rains, and the want of proper protection from the cold during sleep in the cold season, ought to be mentioned as a predisposing cause of disease among them. It is certainly a prominent cause of many of the sequelæ consequent on this fever which prove so intractable.

3.—Habits of the people.—The habits of the lower classes of Natives in particular with reference to cleanliness, and of all classes with regard to conservancy, both in and out of their dwellings, are far from tending to the promotion of health.

The drainage in the houses of the rich, and the condition of sewers and of the pipes which lead to them, are matters which ought to be looked to.

The general conservancy arrangements of a Bengalee Village are too well known to require any comment from me. Suffice it to say that they are conducted on principles attended with the smallest amount of trouble, and which are the least likely to prove conducive to the health of a large community.

4.—Sleeping on the ground.—In Villages naturally damp the houses, although raised above the level of the ground, are also damp; and, as all the poor and many of the middle classes sleep on the floor, a piece of mat only intervening, it can be supposed that this is a predisposing cause of disease among them. Those, however, occupying double-storied houses have not suffered less than the others.

5.—Fear.—The influence of fear and depression on the minds of the people during epidemic periods is well known to exercise a prejudicial effect on the body in rendering it less able to oppose and withstand disease. The minds of many of the people at the present time are filled with anxiety and alarm, dreading a fresh outbreak of the epidemic during the approaching rainy season.

6.—In addition to all these peculiarities of season and unknown changes in the atmosphere may have tended more to bring about this epidemic than we are, generally speaking, disposed to admit.

Intelligent Natives attribute it to the excess of rain which has fallen in these parts during the last three or four seasons, and to the want of severe thunderstorms, in consequence of which the soil has remained damp during a longer period than usual, and the atmosphere has been allowed to stagnate, and noxious miasms, the products of animal and vegetable decomposition, attracted by the trees, have accumulated in the lower strata of the air. As the rainfall of a country and the dryness or moisture of its climate are known to be influenced, more or less, by the extent of its woods and forests, it is just possible that, owing to the excess of trees and vegetation during late years in these Districts, this may be one of the causes; but in the absence of correct Tables of Meteorological Observations, shewing the fall of rain, on which I can place dependence, I am not prepared to give an opinion on this subject.

VIII.—Exciting Causes.—In the history of a disease of a peculiar type like the present, which, after prevailing extensively in one District, has extended to the community of another, in many respects closely resembling and similarly circumstanced to that of the first, or after a time has returned to the Districts and localities where it had previously been, there is good reason for the supposition that its origin is indigenous to the localities in which it prevails. Although, perhaps, at first, strictly speaking, endemic, the disease is so general in the three Districts that it may now be said to have become epidemic, and it may be supposed to arise from the effects of a specific poison by some means introduced into the system (probably through the lungs), the origin of which may be looked for either in exhalations or secretions from the bodies of those previously affected with the same disease, or in malarious emanations rising, under peculiar circumstances, from certain parts of the earth's surface.

1.—There are no certain proofs in connection with the present outbreak to shew that contagion has been the means by which the disease has been propagated and diffused, otherwise we should probably have heard of its importation from one place to another.

2.—The susceptibility of the disease is in no way diminished by its once having occurred in the system: on the contrary, by fresh exposure, it seems to be more easily re-produced than before.

3.—It would appear, also, that free communication has taken place between sick and well, without apparently (in the chronic stages at least) any tendency in the disease to attach itself from one person to another who has not been in the tainted locality.

IX.—On the other hand, all the concurrent local circumstances which are generally supposed to favor the development of malaria are present in full force in most places I have visited; and, although the same may be said of most Villages in Lower Bengal, yet in those in which the epidemic has committed the greatest ravages they predominate to an unusual extent, in some more, some less, sufficient in all to account for great sickness and mortality. The following are a few of the circumstances which tend to shew that the exciting cause is malaria :—

1.—The partial distribution of the disease and its prevalence within certain boundaries, i. e., in certain Districts, or in particular localities of them only, in many respects similar to one another.

2.—The absence of the disease from those who avoid such localities, and the comparative immunity from it of certain large Villages, such as Santipore, Ranaghat, Chinsurah, Dum-Dum, and other places in which apparently the efficient causes do not exist, at least to such an extent as in the other places.

3.—The benefit which is usually observed to result to the sick by a removal from the locality or District in which the disease has been contracted.

4.—The almost certainty of strangers being attacked by the disease after a certain period of residence in one of the infected localities, of which there are numerous instances.

a.—Of healthy Burkundauzes from the Upper Provinces having been sent from the Thannah of Ranaghat (in which place there is little or no epidemic Fever) to reside at Oolah, who, after remaining for a short time in the place, have been attacked with Fever, complicated with enlargement of the Spleen, which frequently has not left them so long as they have remained in Lower Bengal.

b.—Of two Native Doctors sent from Calcutta to Oolah previously in good health, both of whom suffered, one having nearly died.

c.—Of the other Native Doctors at Kachrapara, Trebanee, Pundooah, and Somrah, all of whom suffered from the disease during their residence at these places.

d.—Of several of my own servants, who accompanied me into the affected Districts, all previously in good health, having taken the disease, in one of whom it could not be checked without a removal from the locality.

e.—Of people having come from Calcutta, previously in good health, to attend upon sick relatives and friends, who have taken the disease after a short stay in one of the localities, and have benefited by a return to Calcutta, but on returning to their Villages have again taken the disease and died.

There is a want of evidence to shew that the disease has attached itself from one person to another, who has never visited one of the tainted localities.

X.—The exacerbations and remissions of the epidemic have occurred at such periods of the year as would have been expected from what is known of the efficiency or otherwise of the exciting causes of the disease at these times.

Thus the months of June and July are known to be those during which the epidemic has generally made its first appearance at many of the leading places. This is what would have been expected to be the case, as, during the evaporation which takes place after the earth has been moistened by the first heavy fall of rain of the season, febrific emanations are most likely to arise.

At Bansbaria and many other places in these Districts the outbreak of the epidemic is attributed to the heavy fall of rain which preceded it, and which lasted for three successive days in the month of June 1860, Fever having commenced during the following month.

September, October, and part of November are the most insalubrious months of the year, and it is then that the morbific poison shews its highest degree of intensity and the mortality is greatest. At that period the atmosphere is heavy and moist, favoring the stagnation of malarious vapours. The temperature also is high, and evaporation is taking place from a spongy soil, saturated with decomposing organic remains after the last heavy fall of rain of the season. In consequence of the numerous fasts and privations in connection with their religious observances, to which many of the better and most of the lower class of Hindoos subject themselves at this period, they are on that account more predisposed to disease at this season than at any other.

The intermediate months are not so unhealthy; but from 15th June to 15th November may be said to be the Fever period.

The epidemic abates during the hot weather, when the poison seems to be dissipated or diluted by the heat of the sun.

XI.—The disease itself.—The principal features by which the disease has been characterized in its worst aspects have varied vastly from what we have usually been accustomed to observe in Fevers supposed to result from malaria. Yet in its milder forms as it has occurred in many of the smaller Villages, and as it is frequently to be seen now, it differs little from the ordinary intermittent and remittent fevers aggravated by local circumstances, with which we have generally to deal.

As seen in its worst phases the Fever may be said to have assumed a "congestive remittent type," with a strong tendency to congestion of some vital organ, generally, in the first instance, of the brain and lungs.

In milder cases the febrile excitement is not so great, but still of a remittent character, with a tendency to congestion, ending in inflammation, and ultimately change of structure, either of the Liver or Spleen, or of both, in adults, and of the mucous membrane of the bowels in children.

The cases with which we have chiefly to deal are those in which the acute symptoms have passed away, the Fever having become generally intermittent, frequently of the tertian or quartan type, or occurring at intervals of from five to fifteen days.

The complications are chiefly enlargement of the Spleen and Liver, or both. The former most common; but those of the respiratory organs and of the abdominal viscera are by no means uncommon in children from one to ten years of age.

XII.—Symptoms.—In detailing the symptoms I shall only mention a few of the most characteristic features, as I have seen no single case from beginning to end, and consequently have not had an opportunity of noting down so clearly as I should have wished, or as I might have done in a Hospital Ward, all the minutiæ of a case.

It is probable that, in most instances, a premonitory stage, or state of general depression and malaise, had preceded an attack, frequently unnoticed by the people themselves.

In some instances, as at Gudkhally and other places, the minds of the people had been depressed by the appearance among them of Cholera, while in others a severe type of intermittent Fever, almost imperceptibly merging into remittent, had been prevalent for some months immediately preceding the outbreak. The first symptoms are generally described by a feeling of cold about the body, while the eyes, hands, and feet, are hot and burning.

This is succeeded by a severe shivering fit, and then follow the other symptoms of the cold stage of Fever, so intense in the worst cases as to lead to depression of all the vital energies.

Great muscular prostration and rapid nervous depression supervene (sometimes attended with nausea and vomiting) to such an extent that the person dies without rallying.

In such cases the poison must have been latent in the system, acting as a sedative on the vital powers for some time previous to the appearance of the outward symptoms.

In other cases the symptoms characterising the cold stage are less, but reaction is excessive; the pulse continues full, the skin dry and hot, severe headache, or darting pains in the forehead or sides of the head, are complained of; the eyes become congested, the face suffused, delirium sets in, and death takes place by coma in the course of thirty-six or forty-eight hours; or during reaction the respiratory organs become affected, difficulty in breathing ensues, mucus râles set in, and death takes place rapidly by congestion of the lungs and asphyxia, without any other symptoms having shewn themselves.

The greater number of cases are those in which the ordinary symptoms of severe remittent fever are succeeded after the stage of shivering has passed by heat and dryness of skin, headache, flushing of the face, pain in the backloins and lower extremities, with a foul tongue and secretions altered or suppressed.

These symptoms abate and return without any actual cessation, the periods of exacerbation and remission varying in different cases.

If the crisis does not occur from the fifth to the seventh or ninth day the fever continues from seventeen to twenty-eight days, or more, after which if the patient does not recover a low type of Fever is established, and he perishes with all the symptoms of typhoid Fever.

The first symptoms of recovery are marked by no apparent crisis, the skin from being dry becomes a little moist, the great thirst abates, and there is an appearance of moisture and redness round the tip and edges of the tongue, which gradually cleans, and the skin of the lips peels, or is picked off. A state of great general debility follows, attended with want of appetite, anorexia, and a disinclination for food, a desire for acids, or something to give taste in the mouth.

If the Spleen has been the organ to which there has been the tendency to congestion tenderness is evinced on pressure, and enlargement has begun to be perceptible. Either owing to the state of congestion, or of sub-acute inflammation which has been established, or owing to imperfect elimination of the poison from the system, a relapse takes place, and Fever is established, which may assume any type between intermittent and remittent. With each attack of Fever there seems to be a fresh determination of blood to the organ, and an increase in size. In the case of the Spleen it attains an enormous size, frequently filling a large portion of the abdominal cavity.

If the Liver has been affected there is generally great tenderness over that region, attended with nausea, anorexia, and a yellowish tint of skin.

A cachectic and anaemic condition is now established, Fever recurs from time to time, the skin has assumed a yellowish tint, indicating a changed and diseased state of the blood.

The tongue, gums, and conjunctivæ, have become pale and bloodless, the extremities wasted and œdematous, the abdomen increases in size, the skin becomes dry and cracked, and the patient lingers for a few weeks or months, as the case may be, and ultimately dies of Asthenia if no bowel complication occurs.

Instead of remittent Fever intermittent may be the type which has been established from the commencement; between them there are all grades, but in all there is the same tendency to fresh accessions of Fever and to local congestions, particularly of the abdominal viscera.

Complications of the Lungs are by no means uncommon in the early stages of the disease.

Complications of the Bowels are not so common in the first instance, unless in children; but even in them such attacks are not characteristic of the disease.

XIII.—Sequelæ of the Fever.—1. Dyspepsia and want of appetite often continue for a long time after an attack, with a craving for various kinds of unwholesome food, the indulgence in which ultimately leads to an attack of Diarrhœa or Dysentery, to which there is remarkable natural tendency, especially in cases in which the Liver or mucous membrane of the bowels had previously been implicated.

Or, perhaps, on exposure to cold and damp, or without any apparent cause, a sort of mucus Diarrhœa is established, which it is almost impossible to check, and this, by reducing the little remaining strength, hastens the fatal event.

2. Œdema of the lower extremities and general Anasarca are generally the last of the sequelæ which usher in the termination of the disease, but some wonderful temporary recoveries have taken place even at this stage.

3. The Parotid and sub-maxillary Glands sometimes enlarge and continue hard for a long time without much tendency to the formation of pus while the Fever lasts: they are generally to be resolved by fomentations and Iodine.

4. In old and debilitated subjects, and particularly in children, a peculiar form of inflammation, resulting in rapid ulceration and sloughing of the mucous membrane of the mouth and muscles of one side of the face, is apt to take place, exposing the bones and teeth of that side, and frequently terminating by hœmorrhage from the facial artery.

5. Sub-acute attacks of Pneumonia, Bronchitis, and other diseases of the respiratory organs are very common during convalescence, particularly at the commencement of the cold season. The results of previous attacks of inflammation in these organs are doubtless more apparent to those who have been more immediately connected with the treatment of the disease in its chronic stages.

6. By far the most frequent of the sequelæ of this fearful disease are the enlargement of the Liver and Spleen, particularly of the latter.

Every fresh attack of Fever is attended with further congestion and enlargement, ultimately ending in change of structure and organic disease of these organs, accompanied by a cachectic state of the system and deteriorated condition of the blood. The Spleen often increases to an enormous size, at first soft, so long as there is only congestion of blood, ultimately becoming hard, when, by the withdrawal of the fibrinous element from the blood, a tissue of low organization has been formed.

XIV.—Treatment.—Hundreds of cases terminated fatally without medical aid, and the fatal result in many more was hastened by the injudicious treatment and interference of ignorant and unqualified Native Practitioners who now abound in every Village.

Quinine is known by young and old to be the specific for malarious Fever, and the remedy was tried at all stages of the disease without any preperatory treatment and failed to have the desired effect. It is now sold at exorbitant prices by almost every Native shop-keeper in the Mofussil. Although resorted to by all at first people have now lost faith in it, as it is said to increase the tendency to local congestions without checking the Fever, which I believe to be the case.

I have not seen any of the worst cases which proved rapidly fatal; but am informed that the symptoms varied little from those of Cholera. No treatment was available in most instances owing to their speedy termination. Mild stimulating treatment during the stage of excessive depression, and the cold affusion or leeches to those in whom reaction was excessive, might have been of service.

In cases of remittent fever that I have been there was little to be done, after giving a laxative dose, beyond removing the patient from the close and confined atmosphere in the interior of his dwelling to the verandah, or some more airy part of the house, and thus place him in a more favorable condition for recovery.

The next point is to watch to which of the internal organs there is the greatest tendency to congestion, and to counteract and oppose that by every possible means within our reach. As the Spleen is generally suspected special attention is to be directed to that organ, and counter-irritation by blisters, repeated if they can be borne, are urgently demanded.

The use of such remedies as are known to lower the pulse, favor the action of the skin, and increase the flow of urine, and other secretions, during the critical periods, may be used with advantage, but strong purgatives and other powerful remedies cannot be borne owing to the tendency to bowel affections.

Shaving the head, sponging the surface with tepid water, or with vinegar and water, are grateful to the feelings, and lessen the tendency to cerebral congestion.

Quinine in the early stages of the disease is of no use, and only increases the tendency to local congestions; but it may be given with great benefit as a tonic after the fever and the local symptoms have been subdued. Even in cases where there are partial remissions, and the type of Fever has become intermittent, there remains the same tendency to local determinations of blood, which must be overcome before Quinine is to be administered; for this purpose repeated blisters are the most efficacious remedies.

In cases of remittent fever, attended with cerebral complications, depletion cannot be borne beyond the application of a few leeches; if there is much flushing or fulness, pain in the forehead or temples, cold affusions, the application of ice and cold sponging to the head are the best applications, to be followed by blisters, if there is a tendency to drowsiness and delirium in the later stages of the disease.

In complications of the respiratory organs shewing themselves early the application of large blisters, both in the acute and sub-acute stages, are demanded. Such attacks may be kept in check by the use of Ipecacuanha Wine and other suitable remedies. In chronic cases, attended with Hepatic and Splenic enlargement, the Fever and complications must be attended to simultaneously. Some of the preparations of Iron, and small doses of Quinine, in combination with one of the Mineral Acids, and a bitter vegetable infusion, answer well. The action on the bowels may be kept up by the addition of Salts if necessary, but more frequently it has to be kept in check, owing to the tendency to Diarrhœa; if so, Dover's Powder, or Compound Chalk Powder, and other suitable remedies, must be made available.

In cases complicated with chronic enlargement of the Liver the use of Nitro Muriatic Acid in a bitter decoction is of much service, with the addition of a few drops of Laudanum, if there is a tendency to Diarrhœa. External counter-irritation is necessary in all cases with complications when it can be borne, but there is often a fear of sloughing of the blistered surface. In chronic cases of Fever, without enlargement of the Spleen, the Liquor Arsenicalis and Bark are useful, small doses of Quinine still more so.

The use of Muriate of Iron in combination with small doses of Quinine is beneficial in reducing the Anasarca, by increasing the action of the bowels and kidneys, but care is necessary, as it often purges violently. Dysentery and Diarrhœa are to be treated by the usual remedies; but it must be borne in mind that most chronic cases which have come under observation have been of the poorest class of people, in whom the disease and all its complications have run their full course without any care or medical treatment, and in whom not only Fever, but enlargement of Liver, Spleen, and Dysentery are all combined.

The most that medicine can do in such cases is only to alleviate for a time.

In the treatment of such cases all our best endeavors frequently fail so long as the victims to this disease remain in such localities. Convalescence, at all times tedious, is indefinitely protracted by constant exposure to the exciting cause of the disease, and, as attacks of Diarrhœa or Dysentery are brought on by the slightest exposure, many die during the cold season from want of proper covering, care, and attention, which are so requisite during recovery from all diseases.

The preparation of the daily meal becomes a matter of difficulty to people already reduced and in the last stages of a long and protracted illness; and as there are hundreds of instances where only one solitary individual is left of a numerous family, and many more, in which the one cannot assist the other, there is no where and no one to whom to look for assistance.

All the misery attending on a plague like this can only be known to those who have actually been on the spot, and who have seen from day to day in their different phases the sufferings to which the poor in particular have been subjected.

XV.—Means to be adopted for arresting the progress of the disease and preventing its return.—Without a steady and determined system of conservancy and sanitary reform in the affected Villages and their vicinity, by which such of the sources of malaria as are known to exist shall be removed, all other efforts that may be put forth to arrest the diffusion and progress of this epidemic will be unavailing and ineffective. Unfortunately these measures cannot be carried out without entailing considerable expense and causing some inconvenience to the community that is to benefit by them. Owing to the apathy and indolence of the greater proportion of the wealthy class of people, and to the want of any system of Village responsibility among them, it is apparent that nothing can be expected of the inhabitants if left to themselves.

Should, however, the Government think proper to provide the necessary superintendence in carrying out the work, I think the Zemindars and other men of wealth are bound to come forward in their respective Villages and provide the means and money necessary to restore to a habitable condition the places which, partly by their neglect, have been allowed to run to waste and ruin. If this is done, and if the headmen are afterwards made responsible for the sanatory condition of their Villages, I feel pretty confident that the measures now to be recommended, if steadily and rigorously carried out, will not only have the effect of removing the present disease from among them, but will lead to the permanent improvement of the localities in question.

Poor Villages, and those which have almost been devastated, must either be cleared at the expense of Government, or by Prison labor, as may be thought best.

XVI.—The measures I should recommend may be stated in a few words:—

1*st.*—The removal of superabundant and useless trees, shrubs, &c., of bamboo clumps, and all plantain groves, from the vicinity of houses and villages, which, by being in excess, obstruct light and ventilation.

The pruning and lopping off of the supernumerary branches of trees and the thinning of bamboo clumps and fruit trees that may be left.

Trees and bamboos overhanging tanks, thereby destroying the water by the constant fall of their leaves into it, to be uprooted and removed.

The uprooting and entire removal by burning of low bushy jungle, vegetation, and rank grass of every sort, during the present hot weather, to be left off when next rains set in.

2*nd.*—Certain of the largest and best public tanks in various parts of every Village to be re-dug by the people collectively, so as to afford a good supply of water to all parts of the Village.

Proprietors of tanks to re-dig them, if it be considered necessary, or to have the option of filling up their tanks, if they cannot re-dig them and keep in proper order.

Supernumerary and useless tanks to be filled up, and those not requiring re-digging to be thoroughly cleaned and put in proper order, at least twice every year.

Tanks to be dug to the water level in several places, so as to ensure a good supply for some years to come: the water at present contained in them to be drained off if bad, as in most instances is the case. All excavations, small neglected tanks, and other pools in the vicinity of houses, many of which contain putrid water, to be filled up.

Private tanks, khals, garhs surrounding Zemindars' houses and compounds, to be re-dug and afterwards to be kept in proper order.

Drinking water tanks to be separate from those used for bathing and other purposes.

3*rd.*—Villages to be provided with proper and efficient drains running towards the river nearest khal or bheel as the slope may be. A few large drains or khals should be constructed at some distance from one another in every Village, if necessary, for the removal of the bulk of water. Smaller surface drains should communicate with those from every part of the Village. All drains should be cleaned out at least twice a year.

4*th.*—Free communication to be facilitated in Villages by the construction of a few good roads and raised pathways, with drainage on either side. The passages, narrow roads, and foul streets between houses to be cleared and thoroughly opened out, and the whole Village to undergo sanatory inspection. Burial Grounds and Burning Ghâts to be kept in decent order, and at a proper distance from the confines of all large Villages. Proper conservancy arrangements to be established in every Village.

The clearing of the jungle and turning up of the soil afterwards is not unattended with danger, for, in doing so, it is known that malarious emanations of great intensity are often produced, and that such spots are unhealthy for sometime afterwards.

The thick jungle ought to be burned to the ground, and the roots should be dug up, as far as it is possible, by hand labor. The ground thus cleared should be kept free of small jungle, which is apt to spring upafterwards by ploughing and cultivation.

The planting of hedges, of plantain trees, and the growth of noxious weeds and jungle of all kinds should afterwards be prevented.

From the Hon'ble A Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Honorary Secretary to the British Indian Association,—(dated the 30th March 1863.)

In continuation of the previous correspondence* I am desired to forward the accompanying Report from Dr. Elliot, dated 18th instant, communicating the result of his personal enquiries as to the extent and apparent causes of the fatal epidemic fever which has now been so long raging in parts of the District of Hooghly, Nudden, and Baraset.

2. It will be seen that Dr. Elliot found whole Villages to have been depopulated by death and panic, and that the people whom he still found in some of these Villages appeared to be, more or less, affected with disease and incapable of action. From the Returns of mortality in a few large Villages it appears that, out of a population of 1,93,951, no less than 58,718 had been carried off by this fever, and that in the affected Villages in Nudden 60 per cent. of the population have died.

3. Dr. Elliot attributes the virulence of the epidemic to rank vegetation, unclean water, insufficient drainage, and the absence of ventilation, and he anticipates its return with increased strength in the approaching rainy season, unless precautions are taken to remove the chief sources of malaria.

4. His Honor is deeply impressed with the necessity of at once adopting active means for improving the condition of the part of the country which has been chiefly subject to this fearful visitation.

5. From people at all times apathetic and ignorant in regard to the employment of sanitary measures as a prevention of disease, and now demoralised and impoverished by the terrible sickness to which they have been exposed, and the mortality which has occurred amongst and around them, little in this respect is to be expected, unless they receive substantial aid and encouragement from other sources, and unless some sort of compulsion is brought to bear upon them. Every one of the sources to which Dr. Elliot, after a careful and intelligent enquiry, has attributed the propagation of the disease, has a tendency to increase if these Villages are left in their present state, and it seems almost certain that the malaria generated in them will gradually spread over the whole neighbouring country.

6. The remedies suggested by Dr. Elliot and the Inspector-General of the Medical Department are the removal of superabundant and useless trees, shrubs, bamboo clumps, and plantain groves, from the immediate vicinity of houses; the pruning and thinning of trees; the removal of trees and bamboos from the sides of tanks; the uprooting and burning of low bushy jungle, vegetation, and rank grass, during the present hot season; the deepening and clearing of some of the best tanks in each village, and the filling in of useless tanks, water-courses, and other pools and excavations in the neighbourhood of houses; the appropriation of particular tanks exclusively for the supply of drinking water; the construction of a few drains and paths in each Village; the proper ordering of Burial Grounds and Burning Ghâts, and general attention to the conservancy of the Villages. These are simple and obvious remedies; and, with only ordinary co-operation on the part of the Zemindars and the inhabitants themselves in giving effect to them, the probability of the return of the Fever might be rendered extremely remote. It seems to His Honor that, after the serious lesson which they have now had, the mere instinct of self preservation will, with proper and judicious aid and encouragement, compel the survivors to recognize the inevitable effects which must result if they persist in fostering all the conditions which have from time to time, and in all countries, been proved to be the most powerful predisposing causes of disease.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor cannot, in common fairness, expend any sum of money from the general revenues of the State in remedying the condition to which the people of a particular part of the country have reduced themselves by apathy and neglect. But, bearing in mind the helpless state in which these people now are, and the impossibility of their doing at this stage all that is absolutely necessary to repair their past neglect, the Lieutenant-Governor is willing to co-operate with private generosity in an organized system of sanitary relief. With this view the Lieutenant-Governor has made the services of several Government Officers available for furthering and guiding the efforts of the people themselves; and, though no assignment can be made from the ordinary revenues, His Honor is willing —within a limit of Rupees 40,000—to devote to the purpose of doing what can be done toward off a recurrence of the epidemic, a sum from local funds equal to the aggregate contributions from private sources.

8. After the repeated expression which the Lieutenant-Governor has received from the British Indian Association of their opinion of the necessity of adopting active measures for checking the epidemic, and of the strong conviction they entertain of the urgency of the case, His Honor feels satisfied that the Association will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to them of affording material assistance to their suffering countrymen. They should, however, recollect that only three months remain in which anything can be done before the season of the year arrives in which the epidemic is expected to recur. What is wanted therefore is immediate action and not discussion. It occurs to the Lieutenant-Governor that the best form which this action can take is a guarantee from the Association of a certain amount of contributions; His Honor thinks it probable that they will be prepared at once to guarantee a sum of Rupees 10,000 as a first instalment. And, in complete assurance of their willingness to co-operate to this extent, an advance of Rupees 10,000 has this day been made to Mr. A. T. Maclean, the Officer who has been entrusted by the Lieutenant-Governor with the superintendence of the measures recommended by Dr. Elliot.

9. The Association will probably find it convenient to appoint a Committee from amongst their own Members for the purpose of collecting subscriptions and organizing collections in the interior through Local Committees. It is believed that several of the leading Members of the Association possess large Estates in the Districts which have chiefly suffered from the visitation of this fatal epidemic; and the responsibility of such gentlemen and of all other Zemindars of the Districts in question, in regard to the supply of funds for the purpose of relieving the distress of the people residing in or near their Estates, cannot be too strongly insisted upon.

10. While he has been instructed to do all he can in the way of advice and exhortation, and to obviate, as far as possible, inconvenience and annoyance to the people, Mr. Maclean has been desired to put in force—wherever it may unfortunately be necessary—the provisions of the Law against those who are guilty of, or persist in, a public nuisance by any act or omission which causes danger or annoyance to the people who dwell in their vicinity.

11. Dr. Elliot's Report exposes so forcibly the fatal effects of the apathy and indolence of the people of this country in regard to the most simple and sanitary precautions, and he suggests such plain and easy means for improving the condition of Villages, that the Lieutenant-Governor has considered it expedient to direct its translation into Bengalee for distribution throughout the Provinces subordinate to his Government. His Honor intends to direct the particular attention of all Local Officers to the subject, and, if it is necessary, he will have recourse to legislation to enforce a stricter observance of Village conservancy, for Government can no longer permit a state of things to exist under which the want of cleanliness, and the general indifference of the inhabitants of a few villages, endanger the health of whole Districts. The influence of the Association as a co-operative body, representing an influential section of the community, who ought, above all others, to set an example in this respect, could not be more profitably employed than in drawing the serious attention of their countrymen, to what must be admitted to be a grave national reproach.

From the Hon'ble A. Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to A. T. Maclean, Esq.,—(No. 1491, dated the 30th March 1863.)

In continuation of the letter from this Office No. 1144, dated 11th March 1863, I am now directed to forward to you the accompanying further Report from Dr. Elliot on the subject of the epidemic in the Districts of Baraset, Nuddea, and Hooghly.

2. I am at the same time to furnish you with a copy of a letter which has this day been addressed to the British Indian Association, inviting their co-operation in supplying funds to enable you at once to set about a systematic prosecution of sanitary measures in the affected Villages.

3. You will see from the concluding paragraphs of Dr. Elliot's Report what the remedial measures are, which, in his opinion, it is absolutely necessary to carry out, as far as possible, before the rains. You should insist upon the removal of superfluous trees, shrubs, bamboo clumps, and plantain groves around the Villages; the complete destruction by burning of low jungle, rank grass, and all such unwholesome vegetation; the lopping and pruning of trees which interfere with free ventilation; the removal of bamboos and other trees which overhang tanks and foul the water; the re-digging and cleansing of public tanks where requisite; and the filling in of all useless tanks. But, as a rule, large trees should only be pruned and not cut down, for, except in so far as they interfere with ventilation, their presence in a Village is rather beneficial than otherwise. You should endeavor to give at least one good and wholesome tank to each Village, and the Police should be instructed to see that it is not made use of for any purposes except the supply of drinking water.

4. In connection with these measures a simple system of drainage should, as far as possible, be carried out, and communication should be improved by the construction of a few good paths through the larger Villages. In this work, I am to add, every endeavor should be made to induce the villagers to assist either with labor or money.

5. You must, in the first instance, endeavor, by persuasion and advice, to render the people themselves sensible of the absolute necessity that exists for the adoption of these measures which are really necessary for the preservation of their own lives. But if the house-owners or proprietors of lands situated in a village do not undertake at once, on your representation, to do all that is really necessary, in your opinion, to restore the Village to a healthy and habitable condition, and are persistently guilty of public nuisances, whether by act or omission, of a nature of those which are declared by Dr. Elliot to cause injury, danger, and annoyance to people who dwell or occupy property in their vicinity, you will, after serving due notice, proceed to carry your own orders into execution under the Chapter of the Criminal Procedure Code which provides for the removal of nuisances, punishing the wilfully recusant under the provisions of the Penal Code applicable to such cases.

6. You will, of course, exercise your own discretion, more particularly in such expensive works as the filling up and re-digging of tanks, as to what portion of the expense should be borne by the owners of tanks neglecting to carry out your orders, and what portion should come from the funds placed at your disposal.

7. In the event of a proprietor of a tank refusing or declaring his inability to re-dig or cleanse it, he should be told that, if by his default the expense of purifying the tank is paid from public funds, he will be held to have waived his claim to the exclusive right of the tank.

8. The owners of land now covered by trees and shrubs should be encouraged to let such land out for purposes of cultivation, and the excellent results which have been found to ensue from a similar course in the Jessore District should explained to them.

9. In giving effect to these instructions you must be careful to see that your subordinates avoid all unnecessary inconvenience and annoyance to the people, and interfere no further with private property than is absolutely indispensable for the health of the Village. It is requisite, in the face of such a terrible visitation, to apply a certain amount of compulsion to people who are too apathetic and indifferent to help themselves; but too much care cannot be taken to make them understand that this compulsion is carried no further than is absolutely necessary for the protection of their own lives, and that the interference of Government is as slight as is consistent with a due care for the public safety.

10. For the purposes indicated above, a sum of Rupees 10,000 will at once be placed at your disposal by the Department of Public Works from Local Funds, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that contributions from private sources will shortly enable him, on the terms laid down in my letter to the British Indian Association of this date, to place a much larger some at your disposal.

11. Dr. Elliot has been requested to co-operate and act in concert with you, and it is expected that his experience and advice will be most valuable to you in conducting your operations.

12. The Public Works Department have also been requested to place at your disposal an experienced Officer to assist you, and you should employ him in examining the country, with a view to ascertaining whether anything can be done towards draining any of the large bheels on the banks of the Hooghly.

13. It is advisable that you should take Dr. Elliot's opinion as to what villages should be selected for the commencement of operations; possibly the best course will be to set to work at once in Oolla or one of the larger Villages. You may at the same time commence operations at Pundooah or any other Village on the Hooghly side. You will apply for the assistance of any subordinate Officers you may require, and, with their aid, and as soon as you have organized gangs of laborers, there is no reason why you should not carry on your work in a number of different places at the same time. Copies of this letter will be forwarded to the Commissioners of Nudden and Burdwan, and they will be requested to instruct the Magistrates of the Districts in which you are employed to afford you every assistance in their power. The clearance and cleaning of villages in the neighbourhood of their own Stations may, with advantage, be left to the Magistrates of Hooghly and Nuddea, and the Assistant Magistrate of Baraset.

14. You should lose no time in collecting gangs of workmen with the aid of the District Officers, and all charges for Office Establishment and labor should be defrayed out of the sums placed at your disposal.

15. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that you will, in conjunctiou with Dr. Elliot, send Weekly Reports of the progress you make in giving effect to these orders.

16. Your Bills for all expenditure incurred should be forwarded direct to this Office with the necessary vouchers

17. I conclusion I am desired to point out that the time during which works of this nature can be successfully carried out is very short, and that you should therefore use all possible despatch in commencing them.

18. As soon as Dr. Elliot's Report is translated and printed, a number of copies will be forwarded to you for distribution amongst the people, and it is hoped that it will assist you materially in convincing the people how entirely the remedy for the evils from which they suffer is in their own hands.

XIII. Every Recruiter who shall forward or send any laborer from the District or Town in which he has entered into any engagement, or who shall induce or knowingly permit any laborer to leave such District or Town, for the purpose of proceeding to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet without the laborer being duly registered as provided in Sections XI and XII of this Act, and every Recruiter who shall forward or send any laborer or shall induce or knowingly permit any laborer to proceed to any depôt other than the depôt registered under those Sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees for every laborer so forwarded or sent or induced or permitted, and in default of payment of such fine to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Laborers shall be accompanied to depôt by Recruiter or person approved by Magistrate.

XIV. The registered laborers engaged by any Recruiter shall, while proceeding to a depôt, be accompanied throughout the journey, either by the Recruiter himself or by a competent person appointed by him with the approval of the Magistrate by whom the laborers may have been registered. Every Recruiter by or through whom laborers may be forwarded to a depôt shall throughout their journey provide them with proper and suitable lodging and food. Whenever any such laborer shall not be so provided with lodging or food, the Recruiter shall, whether he accompanied the laborers in person or not, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and in default of payment of such fine to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Contractor to give the Superintendent notice of arrival of laborers at depôt.

XV. Every Contractor shall, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any laborer at his depôt, give to the Superintendent a notice in writing of such arrival, which notice shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Superintendent shall prescribe. Every laborer shall, as soon as may be after his arrival, be examined by the Medical Inspector, who shall give to the Superintendent a certificate of the state of health of every laborer examined.

Medical Inspector to inspect laborers on arrival.

If unable to proceed to Assam, &c., from bad health, Contractor to send laborer back to where he was registered.

XVI. If the Medical Inspector shall certify that any laborer is not in a state of health which warrants his proceeding to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet for the purpose of laboring, the Superintendent shall either order the Contractor, in whose depôt such laborer may be, forthwith to convey him back to the place at which he was registered, or shall order the Contractor to pay to the laborer such sum as shall to the Superintendent seem necessary to enable him to return there: and the Contractor if so ordered shall, without unreasonable delay, convey the laborer or cause him to be conveyed back to the place at which he was registered. On failure of the Contractor for twenty-four hours to comply with an order of the Superintendent for the payment of such sum of money as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Superintendent to advance the same to the laborer, and every sum so advanced shall be recoverable by the Superintendent, with six per cent interest from the date of advance, from the Contractor on whose default it may be advanced, as money paid to the use of such Contractor: and no further proof shall be required by any Court in any such case than that the Superintendent gave the Contractor such order as aforesaid and that the Contractor for a space of twenty-four hours made default in complying therewith. Provided always that any laborer who from his state of health is, in the Medical Inspector's opinion, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where he was registered, shall, in addition to his being conveyed back by or at the expense of the Contractor, be entitled to continue in the depôt and to be fed, clothed, and lodged there by and at the expense of the Contractor until such time as the Superintendent shall order otherwise.

Superintendent to examine all laborers as to their treatment on their journey

XVII. The Superintendent shall examine separately each laborer, as soon as possible after his arrival at a depôt, as to the treatment that he has received on the journey to the depôt: and in case it shall appear that any laborer has suffered any ill-treatment on the journey, the Superintendent may cause him to be removed from the depôt. The Superintendent may thereupon order the Contractor, from whose depôt the laborer is removed, to pay him such a sum of money as to the Superintendent shall seem necessary in order to enable the laborer to return to the place where he was registered: and on failure of the Contractor to pay such sum within twenty-four hours of his being ordered to do so, the Superintendent may advance the amount to the laborer: and all the provisions of the last preceding Section as to sums advanced by the Superintendent shall be applicable, so far as the circumstances of the case will permit, to advances made by him under this Section.

Every laborer to enter into a written contract to serve for some period not exceeding five years.

XVIII. It shall not be lawful for any laborer to be conveyed from any depôt to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet for the purpose of laboring there for hire, unless he shall have first, in the manner hereinafter provided, entered into a duly registered contract with some person to serve such person there for a fixed period, which shall in no case exceed the term of five years. Every such contract shall be reduced to writing and shall specify the rate of wages the laborer is to receive, and shall contain such particulars and be in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall prescribe.

Contract to be explained by Superintendent and executed in duplicate, and abstract to be entered in a book by Superintendents.

XIX. Every contract entered into by a laborer shall, in the presence of the Superintendent, be signed in duplicate both by the laborer and by the person with whom he intends to contract or his Agent. Before the laborer signs the contract, the Superintendent shall personally explain it to him and shall satisfy himself that the laborer fully understands all its details. The Superintendent shall attest every contract duly executed in his presence, and certify at the foot thereof that he has personally explained the same and has satisfied himself as aforesaid. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered by the Superintendent in a Register to be kept by him for the purpose: and after such abstract has been so entered, one of the duplicates so duly signed and attested as hereinbefore provided shall be given to the laborer, and the other to the person with whom he has contracted or his Agent.

Copy of abstract to be sent to Magistrate of District where service is to be performed.

XX. The Superintendent shall send by post a copy, authenticated under his hand, of every abstract entered by him as in the last preceding Section provided, to the Magistrate of the District in which the service is in such contract agreed to be performed. Every such copy shall be despatched by the Superintendent within seven days after the entry of the abstract. Every abstract and every such copy shall be receivable in evidence in any Court, whether Civil or Criminal, in lieu of the original contract.

Laborers whose contracts are duly executed and entered may be despatched with consent of Superintendent.

XXI. Any laborers whose contracts shall have been executed and entered as hereinbefore provided, may be despatched from time to time to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, by the Contractors in whose depôts they may be or by the persons whom they may have agreed to serve respectively, but subject always to the provisions of this Act. No laborer shall be so despatched unless the permission of the Superintendent shall have been first obtained, and the laborer shall have received a pass from the Superintendent as hereinafter mentioned.

Steamer or boat to be licensed to carry laborers.

XXII. It shall not be lawful for the Master of any steamer or the Manjee of any boat, without a license granted by the Superintendent within the local limits of whose authority a laborer may embark, to convey such laborer to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet. A fee, not exceeding four annas per laborer, (the amount of which fee shall from time to time be fixed by the Government of Bengal), shall be paid for every such license, which fee shall be carried to the credit of the said Government, and the granting or withholding any license shall be entirely discretionary with the Superintendent to whom application is made for the same. Every such license shall apply only to one voyage or trip to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, or any one or more of those Districts, and shall specify the number of laborers which the steamer or boat is licensed to carry: and the license shall also specify the number of persons (including the crew) other than laborers, whom the steamer or boat is licensed to carry.

Penalty for conveying laborers in a steamer or boat without a license.

XXIII. The Master of any steamer or the Manjee of any boat in which any such laborer shall be conveyed without a license having been obtained as aforesaid, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees for every laborer so illegally conveyed, and in default of payment thereof to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Penalty for fraudulent acts, whereby a license becomes inapplicable to the altered state of the steamer or boat.

XXIV. If the Master of any steamer or the Manjee of any boat shall, after having obtained a license as aforesaid, fraudulently do or suffer to be done any act or thing whereby such license shall become inapplicable to the then state of the steamer or boat, such Master or Manjee shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred Rupees, and in default of payment thereof to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two months.

Penalty for taking on board greater number of passengers than specified in license.

XXV. The Master of any steamer or the Manjee of any boat, licensed to carry laborers, who shall receive on board his steamer or boat a greater number of laborers or a greater number of other persons than is specified in his license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees for every laborer and other person so received in excess of the licensed number, and in default of payment thereof to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months. In computing under this Act the number of laborers or other persons on board of any steamer or boat, two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

Two children under ten to count as one person.

No laborer to be taken on board unless he has a pass signed by the Superintendent.

XXVI. It shall not be lawful for the Master of any steamer or the Manjee of any boat licensed as aforesaid to take on board any such laborer as aforesaid, unless such laborer shall have in his possession and shall shew a pass given to him and signed by the Superintendent, stating his name and age, and the name of his father, and certifying the place of his destination.

No laborer to be allowed finally to leave steamer or boat, at any place other than that mentioned in his pass.

XXVII. It shall not be lawful for the Master of any steamer or the Manjee of any boat licensed as aforesaid, except in case of accident or unavoidable necessity, to be immediately reported to the Superintendent by whom the license was granted, and to the Magistrate of the District in which such accident or necessity shall occur, to cause or permit any such laborer as aforesaid finally to leave such steamer or boat at any place other than that named as the destination of such laborer in the pass signed by the Superintendent. No place shall be named in any such pass as the destination of any laborer except a place which shall have been declared by the Lieutenant-Governor to be a place for the disembarkation of laborers under this Act. Proviso.

MILITARY.

No. 88.

To HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—With your Military Letter dated 22nd December last, No. 476, you transmit, for my consideration, applications from Lieutenant-Colonel C. A. Barwell and Brevet-Major T. F. Wilson, C. B., soliciting that the one year's service granted to the Officers and Soldiers engaged at the defence of Lucknow may be allowed to count as service towards promotion in the Staff Corps.

2. I agree with the Commander-in-Chief in India and your Government that the application cannot be complied with. To concede the point would be to give to these Officers an undue advantage.

3. In reply to the enquiry made by your Government as to the exact benefits derivable by Commissioned Officers from the grant of the year's service I have to inform you that, in the case of such Officers, the grant was intended only to apply to service for the retiring Pension. I observe it is stated, however, in the letter of the Secretary to your Government, Military Department, to the Officiating Adjutant-General, dated 15th December 1862, that in the case of the Civilians engaged in the defence of Lucknow the year's service has been allowed to reckon as service towards Furlough, provided they do not thereby take precedence of their seniors, who may be entitled to, and may desire to take, Furlough.

4. I shall not object to the extension of the same privilege to the Military Officers engaged in the defence of Lucknow.

I have, &c.,

"PARA. 1. I have received and communicated "to Her Majesty's Post-Master General your "Despatch of the 12th of November last and its "enclosures, containing a representation from the "Bombay Chamber of Commerce regarding the "length of time occupied in the transmission of the "Overland Mails from London to Bombay, and "requesting that arrangements may be made "with a view to accelerating communication with "Europe.

"2. I have now to forward a copy of the reply "I have received from the Post Office Authorities "dated the 2nd of March instant, together with "a letter from the Peninsular and Oriental "Company of the 23rd February, from which you "will perceive that it is proposed to delay for one "day the departure of the Mail from Bombay, and "to re-issue the instructions to the Commanders "of the Steam Vessels to use all speed in making "the voyage to Bombay. 2. The Establishment of the new Infantry Regiments has been fixed at that announced in my Despatch No. 247, dated 17th June 1861.

4. Where there are fewer Batteries, and some on the Garrison Establishment, the strength of the Brigade in the several grades must be modified according to the terms of my Despatches Nos. 132 and 186, dated 31st March and 15th May 1862, respectively.

5. I desire to point out to your Government that the Establishment here specified for Medical Officers and Veterinary Surgeons of Brigades of Royal Artillery is but nominal.

6. The Secretary of State for War has assented to my proposals that one Surgeon should be attached to each Brigade, and one Assistant Surgeon to each manned Battery, and that, in cases where there is but one Battery at the Head-Quarters of a Brigade, the Surgeon is sufficient for the Medical charge of such Battery, and that where there are two, one Assistant Surgeon, acting under the Surgeon, would suffice.

7. In the same manner not more than one Veterinary Surgeon is to be employed with the Artillery stationed at any one place unless there should be more than two Batteries.

8. An adequate Medical Staff will, however, be maintained in India for the purpose of enabling your Government to meet the exigencies which may arise on these arrangements being carried into effect.

Collection of Aerolites in India for the British Museum.

From J. W. S. WYLLIE, ESQ., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 2156, dated the 31st March 1863.)

COPY of the following Despatch, and of its enclosures, forwarded to the Governments of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces for disposal.

From the RIGHT HON'BLE SIR CHARLES WOOD, BART., M. P., and G. C. B., Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,—(No. 14, dated London, the 9th February 1863.)

I FORWARD, herewith, a copy of a letter* from the Trustees of the British Museum, together with its two enclosures, respecting the collection of Aërolites which may be procurable in the British Dominions abroad, and I have to request that you will render any assistance that may be practicable to enable the Trustees of the Museum to carry out their intentions.

* Dated 23rd January 1863.

From J. WINTER JONES, ESQ., Deputy Principal Librarian, to the RIGHT HON'BLE SIR CHARLES WOOD, BART., M. P., and G. C. B., &c.. &c., &c.,—(dated British Museum, the 23rd January 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to acquaint you that a representation has been submitted to the Trustees of the British Museum shewing that it would be very desirable, with a view to increase and to render as complete as possible the fine collection of Aërolites now in the Museum, that measures should be taken to obtain for that Institution such Aërolites as may in future come into the hands of, or be procurable by, the public functionaries in the British Dominions abroad, and Her Majesty's Representatives in foreign countries. With this object the papers, of which I have the honor to enclose copies, were drawn up, and a large number of them has been forwarded to the Foreign Office, by direction of the Trustees, to be transmitted to the British Ambassadors, Ministers, Consuls, and other official persons in foreign countries. A similar course is about to be taken with regard to the Colonies in general.

"On the observation and collection of Aerolites."
"Catalogue of the collection of Aërolites exhibited in the British Museum."

I am directed to state that in no part of the world of equal extent have more important or more numerous instances occurred of the fall of Aërolites than in the British Possessions in India. The Trustees would, therefore, request of His Excellency the Governor General that he will be pleased to take such steps as he shall think fit to secure for the British Museum any Aërolites of importance that may be obtainable in Her Majesty's Dominions in India, and I am to ask the favor of your intervention in causing an application to the above effect to be forwarded to His Excellency.

On the Observation and Collection of Aërolites.

There are two varieties of Aërolites or Meteorites that have been seen to fall from space. The one consists of stony masses, often containing particles of iron, and of these many have been observed in their fall: the other variety is composed, for the most part, of iron. The actual fall of iron Aërolites has been but rarely witnessed, though many masses of metallic iron have been found on the earth's surface, of the meteoricorigin of which there can be no doubt.

It is a matter of great interest, and of importance to science, that as many as possible of these bodies should be collected for comparison, and that all the circumstances accompanying their fall be carefully recorded; and persons who, in the event of a "fire ball" being seen, or of a mass having fallen in their neighbourhood, will carefully collect facts regarding them, may make a very valuable contribution to science.

For this purpose inquiries should be instituted at once into the circumstances accompanying the fall of any meteoric mass, and into the state of any such mass when it has fallen; and, as regards any meteoric appearance in the sky, it will be found advisable, after noting carefully the point in the heavens at which the meteor made its appearance, to give, as accurately as possible (see Note), the direction of its track and the point at which it disappeared.

Where it is possible, this track should be delineated on a diagram, as explained in the Note.

The points to which especial attention is invited are enumerated in the following two series of inquiries.

The first series relates to meteoric phenomena in the heavens, and their association with the fall of Aërolitic matter to the earth.

1. Note the exact position of the observer, according to latitude and longitude.

2. Give the hour, day of month, and year.

3. Give the apparent size of the luminous ball, as compared with the full moon.

4. Its shape, whether round, pear-shaped, or otherwise; and if elongated, in what direction.

5. It is particularly important to note the place where the meteor is first seen (as at A., see Note) like a star, and from which, as it moves, it may appear to be increasing in size.

6. State the duration of the phenomena; and

7. Whether the ball again dwindles away to the semblance of a star and then disappears, or whether it retains to the last its full size, or then, as is often the case, divides into several balls or stars.

8. Give the colors.

9. Record any facts that can be gathered concerning detonations or noises accompanying the other phenomena.

10. Endeavor to collect statements relating to the actual fall to the earth of any solid bodies.

11. Do they consist of stone or iron, and is there anything peculiar in their structure?

12. Was the body red-hot or warm, or did it exhibit evidence of having been warm outside and cold within? as, for instance, by being hot at first, and intensely cold afterwards?

13. It is desirable, further, to notice the depth to which, and the direction in which, the Aërolite has penetrated the earth; also to state the nature of the soil, the effect produced on it by the Aerolitic mass, and the position in which the Aërolite was found to be lying in the ground.

The second series of inquiries has for its object the acquisition of a more precise knowledge regarding the Aërolites themselves. For this it is important to preserve and to collect, for the purposes of analysis and of scientific comparison, as many of these bodies as possible; and the following suggestions are offered in the hope of promoting this object:—

1. Endeavor to get the meteorolites as soon as possible after their fall to prevent them from being injured, fractured, or wetted.

2. If not entire, try to procure fragments.

3. Should persons or Museums not be willing to part with them for the British Museum, then procure drawings, photographs, models, or casts, accompanied by an accurate description of their color, their external lustre, and, if broken, the nature of the substance or substances exhibited by the fracture; and specially be careful to describe the form of the Aërolitic mass, whether angular or rounded, whether prismatic, or otherwise exhibiting an approximation to any geometrical figure. Also state whether its surface be smooth or marked by any peculiar kind of roughness, or pitted with hollows.

4. Catalogues of the meteorites in local Museums are very desirable, with statements of their weights, and also the time of, and other facts accompanying, their fall, as detailed above.

5. From masses of iron or stone still lying on the earth, and too large to be brought away, detach specimens of good size, say from 20lbs. to 50lbs. weight, and collect all obtainable information, with detailed descriptions, drawings, measurements, historical accounts, &c.

6. Iron meteorites should always be cut with a steel saw and emery.

The Collection of Aerolites in the Mineral Department of the British Museum is now, as regards the mass and size of the specimens, the finest in the world, and any person who may be in a position to contribute additional specimens is requested to accompany them with an attestation as to the weight of the specimen, and facts regarding it such as the senders may be in a position to state on their own authority, or as may have come to them on authority which they have reason to accept as reliable.

NEVIL STORY-MASKELYNE.

Note.—The delineation of the track of the meteor on paper is very desirable, as presenting greater accuracy than a merely verbal description. A practical and simple method of doing this consists in noting down the tracks of meteors or "fire balls" upon a projection like the diagram of a hemiorama taken from the place of the observer, noting the altitudes and the azimuths corresponding to meridians and parallels of latitude. The accompanying sketch expresses that to an observer turned towards the East the meteor appeared in the N. N. E at an elevation of 75°, and fell down to the S. E., where it disappeared only 10° above the horizon.

[North Gallery, East end, Cases A., B., C., and D.]

Note.—The weights of all specimens that are above ½lb. avoirdupois are inserted in the Catalogue; the average weight of the remainder is 400 grains.

Each Chief was accompanied by some of his nearest relatives and principal Officers of State.

On arrival and departure the Maharajah of Puttiala received a salute of seventeen Guns, the Rajahs of Jheend and Nabha eleven Guns each, and the Nawab of Mahlier Kotila nine Guns.

At noon, on the same day, all the above Chiefs, with their relations and attendants, and also the other Sirdars and principal Native Residents of the Cis-Sutlej States, were received by the Viceroy and Governor General in public Durbar. His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief and the Chief Civil and Military Officers of Umballa and the neighbouring Districts were present.

When all were assembled the Viceroy and Governor General entered and took his seat under a Royal Salute.

After each Native Chief and Gentlemen present had been introduced to His Excellency and presented the customary offerings His Excellency addressed the assembled Chiefs in the following words:—

"COLONEL DURAND,—I BEG that you will express "to the Native Gentlemen who are assembled here "my regret that I am unable to address them in "their own language, and inform them that I am "charged by Her Majesty the Queen to convey to "them the assurance of Her Majesty's high appre- "ciation of the loyalty and devotion to Her "Majesty's Person and Government, which has "been exhibited on various occasions by the Sikh "Rulers and people.

"Not many days ago it was my pleasing duty "to determine that the Medal granted to Her "Majesty's Troops who were engaged at Delhie "in 1857 should be conferred on the followers of "the Sikh Chiefs who took part in the noble "achievements of that period, and I can person- "ally bear testimony to the good services of the "Officers and Men of the Sikh Regiments who "in 1860 co-operated with the British Troops in "placing the British Flag on the walls of Pekin, "the Capital of the vast Empire of China.

"But, in order to be truly great, it is necessary "that Nations should excel in the arts of Peace as "well as in those of War.

"Look to the History of the British Nation for "an example, most assuredly the British people "are powerful in War; but their might and re- "nown are in a great measure due to their pro- "ficiency in the works which make a time of "peace fruitful and glorious.

"By their skill in agriculture they have converted their country into a garden; by their "genius as traders they have attracted to it a "large share of the wealth of other lands.

"Let us take advantage of this season of tran- "quillity to confer similar benefits on the Punjab.

"The waters which fall on your mountain "heights and unite at their base to form mighty "rivers are a treasure which, duly distributed, will "fertilize your plains and largely augment their "productive powers.

"With Electric Telegraphs to facilitate com- "munication, and Railways and Canals to render "access to the Sea-ports easy and expeditious, we "shall be able to convey the surplus produce of "this great country to others where it is required, "and to receive from them their riches in return.

"I rejoice to learn that some of the Chiefs in "this part of India are taking an interest in these "matters which are of such vital importance to "the welfare of this country and the prosperity "of the people. It affords me, moreover, sincere "gratification to find that, under the able "guidance of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Sikh "Sirdars in certain Districts of the Punjab "are giving proof of their appreciation of the "value of Education by making provision for the "education of their Sons and Daughters.

"Be assured that in so doing you are adopting "a judicious policy. The experience of all Nations "proves that, where Rulers are well informed "and sagacious, the people are contented and "willingly submissive to authority. Moreover, "it is generally found that, where Mothers are "enlightened, Sons are valiant and wise.

"I earnestly exhort you, therefore, to persevere "in the course on which you have entered, and I "promise you, while you continue in it, the sym- "pathy and support of the British Government."

Thereafter the Maharajah of Puttiala and the Rajahs of Jheend and Nabha requested the Secretary to express to His Excellency their firm allegiance to the British Government and their loyalty to the Crown.

Suitable Khilluts were conferred on—
The Maharajah of Puttiala.
The Rajah of Jheend.
The Rajah of Nabha.
The Nawab of Mahlier Kotila.
The Sirdar of Kulsia.
The Chief of Patowdee.
Nawab of Loharao.
Nawab of Dajana.
Meer Moonshee of Umballa.

After the concluding ceremonies the Viceroy and Governor General left his seat under a Royal Salute.

On Monday, the 30th March, His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General, accompanied by the Secretary to the Government of India and by the Officers of His Excellency's Personal Staff, paid return visits to the Chiefs of Puttiala, Nabha, and Jheend at their respective encampments.

His Excellency was met by the Chiefs themselves and by their relations and principal Ministers in accordance with the custom observed on such occasions, and received at each encampment, both on arrival and departure, a Royal Salute.

In each case the usual offerings were presented and accepted.

By Order of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General.

Hydrographic Notice.

CHINA SEA.

ISLANDS BETWEEN SINGAPORE STRAITS AND BORNEO.

The Bearings are Magnetic.

THE Survey of the islands in the south-western part of the China Sea between Singapore Strait and the Coast of Borneo having been completed in H. M. Surveying Vessel Rifleman, the result is hereby made known for general information.

As this paper will embody all the information contained in the account of the Rifleman's survey of the Tambelan islands published in October last, together with the results of the observations required to determine the astronomical positions at that time incomplete, that account is consequently cancelled.

All the Meridian distances have been referred to Fort Fullerton, Singapore, in Lat. 1° 17' N., Long. 103° 51' 18" E. The islands have been connected together by astronomical positions and true bearings.

With the view that Navigators may readily correct their Horsburgh's, the islands will be referred to in the order they occur in that work,—see Vol. II, pages 303 to 305, both inclusive.

ST. BARBE.—This island is well described in Horsburgh and requires no further remark here. We made the highest hill on the N. E. end to be in Lat. 0° 8' 6," Long. 107° 13' 32" E., and the height 762 feet. The height of the hill on the south end is 684 feet.

DIRECTION ISLAND.—The apex in Lat 0° 14' 39", Long. 108° 2' E., is 639 feet high. In Horsburgh this island is stated to be larger than St. Barbe, but it is, in fact, only one-third of its size. The description in other respects is good.

WELSTEAD SHOAL.—The position of this danger is very accurately given in Horsburgh. From unfavorable weather we were only able to obtain a single observation, this made the Lat. to be 0° 32' 27" N. The Long 107° 53" E. was obtained by true bearings to Direction island and Tambelan peak.

The rocks extend half a mile in an E. N. E. and W. S. W. direction, their breadth being about a cable's length. They consist of a number of pinnacles, with depths varying from seven to three fathoms.

When at anchor on the shoal Direction island bore by compass S. 27° 30' E.,—the small islet off the west side of that island being just visible from the bridge, and the compass bearing of Tambelan peak was N. 36' 40" W.

PULO DATTOO.—We made the Peak in Lat. 0° 7' 38," Long. 108 35. 50 E., and its height to be 1,042 feet. It is correctly described in Horsburgh, as are also the islands betwixt Mumpava and Sambas, &c.

ST. ESPRIT ISLANDS.—The heighest part of the largest island of this group is in Lat. 0° 37' 31" N., Long. 107° 0' 50" E., and the height 817 feet. The group is correctly described in Horsburgh, and it is only necessary to remark here that vessels should be cautious when passing through them, as we found a coral patch of three fathoms between the Brace islands and the island next west of them.

HOWQUA SHOAL.—Is a doubtful danger, which apears on the latest Admiralty Chart, S. by W. 4 miles from S. W. island of the St. Esprit Group.

The Rifleman was steaming over and about its reported position for a day, but could not discover it. We are not in possession of the particulars respecting it.

GRETA ISLAND.—Is correctly described in Horsburgh. Its centre is in Lat. 0° 44' 43" N., and Long. 107° 18' 52" E.

THE TAMBELAN ISLANDS.—Are also correctly described in Horsburgh. We made the highest peak of the Great Tambelan to be in Lat. 1° 1' 05" N., and Long. 107° 32' 22" E.

RODGER OR ELLEN ROCK.—Is of very small extent, and as described by Mr. Alexander Rodger in Horsburgh, page 305, is about 100 yards square; but at Low water spring tides there is but three feet water on it.

This is an exceedingly dangerous rock, for there are regular soundings of from 19 to 22 fathoms close to and for miles round it. The Rifleman was steaming about this danger for four days before it was found, although every effort was used to discover it. It was ultimately found by the tide making against the wind and causing a slight ripple.

We made its position to be as follows:—Lat. 0° 41' 15" N., Long. 107° 31' 12" E.

Compass bearings.—Tambelan peak seen over the right apex of large Jarrang ...	N. 1° 30° E.—11·8 miles.
Green island ...	N. 75° 00' W.—12·1 do.
Right extreme of Tambelans ...	N. 12°— E.—9·2 do.
Left ditto ...	N. 28° 30' W.—22.32 do.

There is little doubt, but this is, the rock seen by Mr. Robert Loney, R. N., when in command of the Rose Ellis, and marked in the Admiralty Charts as Rose Ellis. The rock is so far from the islands that the least error of bearing, either in the compass or in the observation, would cause the discrepancy in its position as given by Captains Rodger and Loney.

EUROPE SHOAL.—Was found to extend about a mile in a N. by E. and S. by W. direction, the shoalest patch being in about the middle of the line, and having three fathoms on it at low water spring tides. Horsburgh gives two fathoms, but we could not find less than three, and all our boats were sounding over it several hours. Southwards of the three fathom patch the shoal extends to the westward nearly three quarters of a mile, having from six to ten fathoms over this part of it. All round the shoal there is from eighteen to twenty-five fathoms water.

We made the position of the three fathoms patch to be as follows:—Lat. 1° 11' 19" N. Long. 107° 25' 27" E.

Compass bearings.

Rocky Islets	S. 87° 50' W.—12 3 miles.
Gap Rock	N. 79 25 E.—9	"
Apex Pulo Way	S. 17° 34 W.—6¼	"
Right extremo of the Tambelans	S. 24° 30 W.—6¼	"

WHITE ROCK.—About 80 feet high, lies E. S. E. from Pulo Jarrang the S. E. island of the Tambelans. On its S. W. side are two small pinnacle rocks about twelve feet above high water. Vessels should not make too free with this rock as shoal water extends from it between the N. W. and S. W. bearings to a distance of two cables.

CONSTANCE SHOAL.—In the latest Admiralty Charts there is a danger marked "Constance?" and laid down about one mile and three quarters south of large Jarrang. The Rifleman was steaming a whole day about its position without it being discovered. Beyond being marked in the Chart we are not furnished with any particulars, and, moreover, the shoal being marked as doubtful in itself, and not as of doubtful position merely, we are induced not to believe in its existence.

A coral shoal, however, was found to lie off the S. W. end of little Jarrang, the shoalest part of which with three fathoms or it bears N. 68° W., nine-tenths of a mile from the S. W. end of that island. From this patch, which is its western extreme, it extends about S. E. by E. three quarters of a mile, with depths over it varying from four to nine fathoms. This, probably, is the Constance shoal.

Tambelan highest peak on with the right extreme of Harbour the island clears it half a mile to the westward, and white rock on with the right extreme of large Jarrang leads over nine fathoms on the S. E. end of it. White rock kept well open of the right extreme of large Jarrang clears the danger to the southward.

There are seventeen to twenty fathoms between this shoal and little Jarrang.

Several other shoal patches and dangers were found near the Tambelans, but they lie out of the track of ordinary Navigators; and which a glance at the Chart will give a better idea of than a long account here.

Rocky Islands.—Situated N. 54 W. 12 miles from the channel between Pulo Way and Outer island of the Tambelan group are merely two barren rocks, the resort of seabirds. They are bold, close to and occupy a space of about two cables in extent. The northern and larger one, 134 feet in height, is in Lat. 1°11' 9" N., Long. 107°13' E.

Gap Rock.—North eleven miles from the Eastern extreme of the Tambelans in Lat. 1° 12' 30" N., and Long. 107° 34' 30" E., is very remarkable, consisting of two large boulders lying upon a flat rock. The larger of these boulders is 124 feet above the water. There is no small rock to the eastward of it as mentioned in Horsburgh, but a shoal extends about two cables from its south side.

St. Julian.—N. 44½ W. 24 miles from the large island of the St. Esprit group in Lat. 0° 55' 40" N., Long. 106° 43' 30" E., is a remarkable island being nearly a mile long and only a cable's length broad. It is low in the centre rising to a hill 537 feet high on the north end, and to one 318 feet high on the south end. The hill on the north end forms an exceedingly bold cliff to seaward. We found deep water close to on all sides.

Camels Hump.—N. 28 E., 18¼ miles from St. Julian's, in Lat. 1° 11' 46" N., Long 106° 53' E., is about half a mile long in an east and west direction and about a third of a mile broad. It is well named, the highest part of the island forming a sort of hump, the height of which is 574 feet. We discovered no danger in its vicinity.

Saddle Island.—N. E. ¼ E. 12 miles from St. Julian, in Lat. 1° 19' 21" N., Long, 107° 2' 17" E., is only half a mile long, and a quarter of a mile broad; it, also, is well named. The hills forming the saddle are in line on a S. ¼ W. and opposite bearing, the higher one on the north side being 387 feet high.

Victory Island.—In Lat. 1° 31' 46" N., Long. 106° 18' 40" E., rises to a hill in the centre 285 feet in height. We found a patch of five fathoms with deep water all round about one-third of a mile off its S. W. end.

Acasta Rock.—Lies N. by W. 4 miles from Victory island. It is just under the surface of the water and in calm weather presents exactly the appearence described in Horsburgh,—"the central part of a very brown color, declining to a pale green around." The least swell breaks on it.

Doubtful Reef.—Of Horsburgh does not appear on the Admiralty Charts; and we saw nothing of such a danger when near its position.

Barren Rock.—E. by S. ¼ S. 7½ miles from Victory island, in Lat. 1° 31' 50" N., Long. 106° 25' 35" E., is a whitish rock 80 feet high, about a cable's length in size, with deep water all round it.

Tides, Weather, &c.—As we are constantly shifting our surveying ground we had no good opportunity for obtaining a series of tide observations. Such as we were able to procure were so irregular that no general conclusion could be formed from them. We observed, however, during the S. W. Monsoon—from the middle of July to the middle of September; and also in the month of December during the N. E. Monsoon; that Tides set to windward every day against the prevailing current, although they were uncertain as to commencement and time of duration.

The weather was very fine and the winds generally light. Ships would frequently shorten their passages through this part of the China Sea if they kept a kedge ready to let go during light airs and calms, and when both current and tide would otherwise be setting them back over the ground they had with difficulty gained. We saw several vessels set back in this way.

Concluding Remarks.—All the above islands,—like most others in the tropics,—are covered with a dense vegetation, and have generally white sandy beaches upon which Turtle and the Iguana may frequently be found.

The islands of the St. Esprit group and others are occasionally visited by small parties of Malays for the purpose of catching Turtle.

The only islands permanently inhabited are those of the Tambelan group, all of which have a few Malays upon them. The village in the bay of the great Tambelan contains about five hundred inhabitants, but vessels cannot get any supplies there. We found the greatest difficulty in procuring a few fowls, &c., for our use while employed on the Survey.

CIVIL PROCEDURE, &c. (BRITISH BURMAH) ACT AMENDMENT.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Act I of 1863 (to define the jurisdiction, and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory). He said that, in the month of January last, the Council passed the Act which it was now proposed to amend. The second Section of the Act declared that there should be six grades of Courts in British Burmah, and gave their designations. Sections followed defining the jurisdiction to be exercised by the Courts of each of the six grades. From a recent letter of the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah it appeared that in the Town of Rangoon there were no Courts of the 2nd and 3rd grades, though suits, cognizable by Courts of those two grades, occasionally arose within the limits of the Town, for the adjudication of which some provision was required. In the absence of work sufficient to justify the establishment of Courts of all the grades specified in Act I of 1863 the best course appeared to be to vest some of the existing Courts of the higher grades with power to receive and determine suits arising within the limits of their respective jurisdictions, which, from the amount of value of the claim, as well as in other respects, were within the cognizance of Courts of a lower grade. This could not, however, be done without an alteration of the law, and the first part of the present Bill contained the necessary amendment. It was not proposed to confine the operation of this part of the Bill to Rangoon, though the necessity for legislation had arisen there, but to make the provisions of the Bill generally applicable. Then, Section I of Act I of 1863 repealed the Code called the Civil Code of the Province of Pegu, and a later Section extended to that Province, from the 1st May 1863, with certain modifications, the Code of Civil Procedure contained in Act VIII of 1859, which was in force in the remaining parts of British Burmah.

It now appeared from the letter of the Chief Commissioner already referred to that the Chief Commissioner had, in the month of May last, extended the Code of Civil Procedure, with some reservations to the Province of Pegu, in supersession of the Pegu Code, which he had no authority to do. The Pegu Code did not differ very materially from the Code of Civil Procedure, and certainly no suitor could have a right to complain of injustice having been done to him by reason of his suit having been tried under the latter instead of the former Code. But the fact of the illegal extension of the Civil Procedure Code remained. This illegality might be pleaded by any disappointed suitor in appeal from an order or decision passed against him under the Civil Procedure Code, and the Court having to dispose of the plea would find it difficult to over-rule it. In order, therefore, to prevent what would really be a trifling with justice, the second part of the present Bill proposed to make valid the act of the Chief Commissioner by declaring that no order or decision passed, and no proceeding held by any Court in the Province of Pegu on or after the 20th day of May 1862, and before the 1st day of May 1863, should be deemed invalid merely by reason of such order or decision having been passed, or of such proceeding having been held under Act VIII of 1859, instead of under the Code called the Civil Code of the Province of Pegu, or vice versa.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

IMPRISONMENT OF CONVICTS IN THE CALCUTTA HOUSE OF CORRECTION, &c.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE moved for leave to introduce a Bill to empower Judges of the High Court and other Authorities at Calcutta to direct Convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction or the Great Jail; and to authorize the transfer of Convicts from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction. He said that shortly before the last adjournment of the Council a Bill with a similar title, but applying only to Bombay, was passed. That Bill was necessary in order to remove an inconvenience which had been created by Act XVIII of 1862, which provided, amongst other things, that Prisoners sentenced to rigorous imprisonment by the Supreme Courts, or by the Magistrates of the Presidency Towns, should be imprisoned in the House of Correction only. Soon after Act XVIII of 1862 came into force in Bombay it was found that the House of Correction could not contain all the Prisoners sentenced to imprisonment in it, and consequently a Bill giving the Judges and Magistrates power to sentence either to the House of Correction or to the Common Jail was introduced into the Bombay Council. The measure was, however, in excess of the Legislative powers of the Bombay Government, as involving the amendment of an Act passed by the Imperial Council since 1861; but it was immediately re-introduced into this Council and passed at once into law. Now, then, precisely the same circumstances which necessitated the Bombay Act had arisen in the Government of Bengal. The Judges and Magistrates having only power to imprison in the House of Correction that place of confinement had become inconveniently crowded; so crowded, that there had been much reason to apprehend an outbreak of infectious disease. Considering the urgency of the case the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, on his own responsibility, directed the transfer of some of the Prisoners to the Great Jail, where there was ample room for their accommodation. The Lieutenant-Governor desired that what he did should be confirmed and rendered legal by this Council, and moreover that the power of transferring Prisoners from the one Prison to the other, whenever occasion arose, should be given to him by law. The Bill contained three provisions:—the first was to give the Judges of the High Court and Police Magistrates for the Town of Calcutta power to direct the imprisonment of Convicts either in the House of Correction or the Great Jail; the second was to authorize the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, from time to time, as occasion rendered necessary, to order the transfer of Convicts from the one Prison to the other; and the third was to legalize what had recently been done, without any strict legal authority, but under pressure of undoubted necessity, in transferring Prisoners from the House of Correction to the Great Jail. As the matter was urgent, and as the policy of the measure seemed to have been acquiesced in by the Council in passing the analogous law for Bombay, he (Mr. Maine), if leave were now granted to bring in the Bill, proposed at the next Meeting of the Council to apply to the President for a suspension of the Rules, and under their suspension to move that the Bill be made at once into law.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

FINANCES OF INDIA.

CUSTOMS DUTIES AND INCOME TAX.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Act XI of 1862, (to amend Act X of 1860, to amend Act VII of 1859, to alter the Duties of Customs on goods imported or exported by Sea); and also for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend Act XXXII of 1860 (for imposing Duties on Profits arising from Property, Professions, Trades, and Offices), and to amend Act XXXIX of 1860 (to amend Act XXXII of 1860), and Act XVI of 1862 (to limit in certain cases the amount of assessment to the Duties chargeable after the 31st day of July 1862, under Act XXXII of 1860 and Act XXXIX of 1860, and otherwise to modify the said Acts.) He said:—

MR. LAING estimated that there would be a surplus in the year 1861-62 of £239,896. The Secretary of State was of opinion that two sums had been improperly omitted from the charge side of the Account, by the insertion of which the surplus was converted into a deficit of £595,513. The actual result is that there was a deficit of £150,628 only, which, we may hope, is the last of the long series of Indian deficits.

The Financial year 1862-63 opens a new era. Mr. Laing estimated that there would be a surplus at the end of the year of £179,814. The Secretary of State again objected that certain omissions and deductions had been made, by the correction of which the estimated surplus of £179,814 was converted into a deficit of £284,086. The result is that, after providing for the whole of the Expenditure, there is a clear surplus on the current year 1862-63, which terminates this day, of £697,168 according to the Regular Estimate, which has since been increased, by reductions in the Home Charges and Guaranteed Interest, to £936,925.

I will now explain how the Revenue of 1862-63 has turned out, as shewn in the Regular Estimate, compared with the Budget Estimate of that year and with the actual Receipts of 1861-62.

"Land, Saver, and Abkaree" shew an improvement of £304,000 over the Budget Estimate, and a decline of £30,555 compared with the actual Receipts of 1861-62. This last, however, is not a fair comparison, for in 1861-62 there was a double Receipt, arising from the adoption, for the first time, of the salutary Financial rule of carrying to account all the Receipts of the year as Revenue of the year instead of holding payments in advance in deposit until the next year; and there was also a much larger sum obtained from the sale of Khas Mehals in 1861-62 than in 1862-63. When these allowances are made, the year 1862-63 shews an increase of £646,423 under Land, Sayer, and Abkaree compared with 1861-62.

"Income Tax" has exceeded the Budget Estimate by £206,700, which is due partly to the fact that there has been a large collection of arrears of the 2 per cent. rate, which was repealed from the 1st of August last, and partly to a better management of the assessment.

"Customs" shew a falling off of £87,500 compared with the Budget Estimate, and of £488,639 compared with the actual Receipts of the preceding year. This is caused by the paralysed state of the trade with England in Cotton Piece Goods and Yarns, which yields half our Custom Duties exclusive of Salt. Out of a total amount of Duty of £2,151,505 received in 1860-61 (excluding Salt) £1,103,401 was for Piece Goods and Yarns.

"Salt," on the other hand, shews an increase of £282,800 over the Budget Estimate, and of £2,774,419 over the actual Receipts of 1861-62. As this is an article of general consumption, and the price of the commoner kinds is not liable to much variation, the effective demand for it is a good test of the circumstances of the community.

The "Receipts from Opium" have surpassed the Estimate by £1,550,000. Even this is not all, for the last Opium sale of the year has since taken place, and the total Receipts from all sources are expected to exceed £8,000,000, which will raise the surplus over the Estimate to upwards of £1,700,000. The causes of this remarkable result are, that the price of Bengal Opium was estimated at Rupees 1,200 a chest, while the average price per chest actually realised has been Rupees 1,429, and that Passes were taken out for a larger number of chests of Malwa Opium than had been expected. The Receipts from Opium in 1861-62 were £6,959,269.

"Stamps" are £317,100 below the Estimate, and £160,317 below the sum realized in 1861-62. The amount received from Stamps in 1861-62 was abnormally large. It arose from the Limitation Act, which came into operation in January 1862. There was a great rush to get cases instituted previously to that date, and many Debtors who were unable at the time to pay gave fresh bonds on stamped paper admitting the justice of their Creditors' claims. The Indigo and Rent disputes in 1861-62 also contributed not a little to the Stamp Revenue. In the Punjab and Oudh fees called "Tulubana" for serving processes in the Civil Courts were charged at so much per cent. on the amount of the suit. These were subsequently paid in Stamps; but early in 1862 the plan of paying in cash was resumed, and the surplus is carried to a Local Fund for the improvement of the Judicial Establishments of the Province.

The other branches of Revenue call for no remark.

The total gross Revenue of 1862-63 is £45,105,700, which is £2,134,500 more than the Budget Estimate, and £1,276,228 more than the actual Receipts of 1861-62. It is a favorable indication of the progress of India that the Revenue is habitually under-estimated. The growth is so rapid as to outstrip every calculation which it is considered safe to make.

Excluding Opium the remaining branches of Revenue yielded £584,500 more than the Budget Estimate, and £214,503 less than in 1861-62. This was chiefly owing to the falling off that has been noticed in Customs and Stamps.

The first point deserving of notice in the expenditure of 1862-63 is that the charges connected with the Salt Revenue have been less by £169,100 than the Estimate, and by £90,431 than the expense actually incurred in the preceding year. These are the first-fruits of the contraction of the Government Salt Manufacture in Bengal. There was a saving of £175,000 in consequence of the abolition of one Government Agency, and of the consolidation of two other Agencies into one.

The increase under "Electric Telegraph" from £162,600 to £380,000 is only nominal. It arises from the value of stores expected from England having been included only in the later account, and from the transfer from Public Works of the construction charges.

"The Army" shews an increase of £266,000 arising from too sanguine a view having been taken of the rapidity with which certain Military reductions would be made.

Of the £500,000 for "Education, Science, and Art" £100,000 remains unexpended. The sum of £146,453 was added to the Regular Estimate of the preceding year to make the grant up to £500,000; but, as the Local Administrations were not prepared for so large an immediate extension of their operations, the money has not been spent.

The increase of £43,700 under "Superannuations" is one of the consequences of reduction of Establishments; and the increase of £12,900 under "Interest" arises from the interest on the loan from the Maharaja of Cashmere, and on the sum funded for the Mysore Princes having been included under this head.

The total expenditure in India in 1862-63 is £37,228,900 against an estimated sum of £36,329,400; but to this last must be added £366,300 for loss by exchange, which was not provided for, and the real comparison therefore stands as follows:—

Budget Estimate ...	...	£36,329,400
Add loss by Exchange ...	...	„ 366,300
		£ 36,695,700
Regular Estimate ..	...	„ 37,228,900
Excess of Expenditure over the Budget Estimate ...	...	£ 533,200

The total Expenditure in India in 1861-62 was £37,245,756, and there is, therefore, a decrease of Expenditure in 1862-63, compared with the preceding year, of £16,856. These results are satisfactory inasmuch as they shew improved accuracy in estimating the Expenditure and the absence of any increase in it.

The net Expenditure in England is £5,292,397, which is less than Mr. Laing's Estimate corrected by the additions which Sir C. Wood directed to be made to it (making a total sum of £5,491,432) by £199,035. This arises from reduced Expenditure at Home.

The sum paid at Home for Guaranteed Interest on Railway Capital, less net Traffic Receipts, is £1,647,478 against a Budget Estimate of £1,500,000.

The gross Expenditure in India added to the net Expenditure in England, including Railways, amounts to £44,168,775 ; and, deducting this from £45,105,700, the gross Revenue of India, there remains a net surplus of £936,925 of Income over Expenditure for the year 1862-63. This result is more favorable than that shewn in the Regular Estimate, because, as has been already stated, information was subsequently received of reductions having been made in the Home Charges and Guaranteed Interest.

I now proceed to my Estimate of the Expenditure of the coming year 1863-64.

Under " Allowances, Refunds, and Drawbacks" the sum taken is less than the Expenditure of the two last years, chiefly because those years included a considerable sum for License Tax repaid.

" Land Revenue (including Forest) and Abkaree" shews an increased charge of £124,500, caused by the additional Establishments employed to revise the assessments preparatory to the concession of a permanent settlement of the Land Revenue.

The cost of collecting the Income Tax has diminished from £121,043 in 1861-62 to £76,400 in 1863-63, and is it estimated at only £51,400 in 1863-64. This is, perhaps, as low as it can be reduced. It amounts to a charge of a little more than 3 per cent. upon the estimated produce of the Tax.

The charges connected with the Salt Revenue shew a remarkable downward progress. In 1861-63 they were £646,931; in 1862-63 they were reduced to £556,500; and in 1863-64 they are estimated at only £293,10 l, being a diminished annual expenditure of £353,831 in two years. In 1861-62 the Salt Revenue was collected at the rate of 14·201 per cent., including the cost of manufacture. In 1863-64 it is estimated that it will be collected at the rate of 5·425. The steps by which this great economy has been arrived at will be hereafter explained. It is enough to say at present that it is owing to the cessation of the Government manufacture of Salt in Bengal, with the help of a diminished charge of £25,000 at Madras.

The increase under " Electric Telegraph" arises from the causes which have been already noticed in reference to the Expenditure of 1862-63, viz., to the value of stores from England and the cost of construction being included in the Estimate. Provision has also been made for the formation of several new lines of Electric Telegraph.

It will be observed with regret that the charge for the " Army" has again risen from £12,466,000, at which, according to the Regular Estimate, it stood for 1862-63, to £12,646,900 for 1863-64. This addition of £180,900 is the result of a balance of increases and decreases. The chief causes of increase have been, 1st, The Bengal Native Infantry was much below its Establishment last year, but it has now been brought up to full strength. This accounts for £80,000. 2nd, The Reserve Stock of Ordnance Stores having been largely drawn upon during the last two years without replenishment the demands are £150,000 in excess of last year. 3rd, The practice of charging every disbursement to the year in which it occours having been extended to the Military Accounts, there will be difference of about £80,000 to be provided for between the arrears at the beginning and end of the year; and 4th, Six European Regiments have to be relieved this year against one last year, involving a further increase of £70,000 or £80,000 after allowing for volunteering.

On the other hand several measures of reduction have been adopted. There is one Regiment of European Infantry and one Local Corps (the Pegu Battalion) less. Eleven Troops of European Cavalry are in course of gradual absorption ; and the Establishment of twenty-four Regiments of Native Cavalry has been dimished by 36 men each. As the strength of the Native Cavalry Regiments was below their Establishment the effect of this last arrangement has been rather to save future increased expense than to make any immediate reduction.

Although the Establishment of the Army, as now fixed, is not to be revised until the changes which will be made by the Railways and other means of improvement in progress shall have been more fully developed, much may be done to reduce the annual Expenditure by a careful manipulation of administrative details without impairing either the interests of the Officers or the efficiency of the Service. On the contrary, both are often promoted by well devised economical arrangements. The necessity for action of this kind in reference to the Indian Army is very urgent. In so vast an Establishment many, and often well-founded applications for increased Expenditure are made from various quarters; and if these are not met by a pervading spirit of economy, ready to avail itself of every opportunity of effecting an unobjectionable saving, the Expenditure must go on creeping upwards till public attention is called to the subject. This single item of my Estimate equals the average cost of the British Army, and to this has to be added £2,213,000 more of Indian Military Expenditures, included among the Home Charges. The great interests of our Nation in India require that the Estimate for the Indian Army should at least undergo the sifting to which the War Office Estimate is subjected before it is laid before Parliament.

The " Indian Navy" has disappeared from the Accounts, having been dissolved under instructions from the Secretary of State, and the protection of the Indian and adjoining Seas has been entirely committed to Her Majesty's Naval Force ; but " Marine Charges" continue to occupy the next place to the " Army," because they are chiefly incurred in paying for the conveyance of Troops and Stores. The Estimate for 1863-64 is less by £193,000 than the Regular Estimate of 1862-63, and by £379,193 than the actual Expenditure for 1861-62. This is caused by the employment of hired and contract vessels in the place of vessels belonging to the Government, and by the arrangements in progress for transferring the Government Dockyards to private Companies.

The provision proposed for the Public Works expected to be carried on in 1863-64 is as follows :—

It was ascertained, by a careful analysis of the grant for the preceding year 1862-63, that of the aggregate amount of £4,280,000 the sum which had been appropriated to Works of Public Improvement was £2,380,000. It is proposed to make a similar appropriation for 1863-64, and to add to it a Reserve Fund of 10 per cent., or £238,000, to be held in hand by the Supreme Government to be applied to meet any special cases of Cotton Roads or other Works which cannot be provided for out of the proportion of the sum of £2,380,000 allotted to the Local Governments and Administrations.

In order that the Local Governments may work on confidently from year to year, following out consistent plans, maintaining Establishments in proper proportion to the work to be done, and preserving satisfactory relations with Contractors, it is necessary that the appropriations should not only be large but steady, or in other words that they should vary as little as possible from year to year. At the same time it is desirable that means should exist of supplementing local deficiencies and of accelerating any Works the early completion of which is of special public importance. Both these ends will be attained by the arrangement proposed.

The appropriation for Civil Buildings and ordinary Repairs and other Military Works will be the same as last year, that is, £570,000 for the former, and £650,000 for the latter.

The sum assigned this year for building new Barracks was £50,000; but a necessity exists for constructing permanent Barracks for our European Troops at central strategic Stations which are certain to be permanently held, and it is proposed to appropriate £300,000 to this object during the ensuing year. This also will be held in hand by the Central Government to be allotted as circumstances may require, according to arrangements which have been carefully considered.

The charge for "Railway Supervision and cost of Land" in 1862-63 was £132,500, and in 1863-64 it is estimated at £182,500; and the loss by Railway Exchange in the two years is respectively £366,300 and £294,600.

Lastly, another sum of £380,000 from the proceeds of the Income Tax will be divided among the different Governments and Administrations for the purpose of carrying on Local Works.

The aggregate amount of all these grants for Public Works for 1863-64 is £4,995,100, which is an increase upon the corresponding grants of this year of £466,300. Judging from past experience it is very unlikely that the whole of this sum will be spent within the year, and, excepting only the appropriated one per cent. from the Income Tax, savings from any part of this large grant will be available to supplement any other part. In the extremely improbable event of the whole being spent and more being wanted, we have a a surplus in Reserve derived from an outside Estimate of Expenditure and an inside Estimate of Revenue, which may be drawn upon to any extent required. This Government desires that it may be clearly understood that any funds that can be expended with advantage on Cotton Roads, on Works of Irrigation or Navigation, or on any other useful Works will be granted during the ensuing year. There will be no difficulty as far as money is concerned. The only limit will be the impossibility, in particular cases, of getting value for the outlay.

Besides the preceding grants an old Local Fund balance amounting to £58,700, which had long been due to the Government of Bengal, has been appropriated to the construction of Railway Feeders, the plans and estimates of which had been previously prepared. Post Office and Telegraph constructions, which were included in the grant for Public Works in 1862-63, have been provided for in the Departmental Estimates in 1863-64 to the amount of £183,400. The total sum appropriated for Public Works in 1863-64, therefore, amounts to £5,237,200, and, including Guaranteed Railways, to £9,237,200.

"Salaries and Expenses of Public Departments" shew a diminution of £22,600, and "Law and Justice" an increase of £154,700. This arises from the pains that have been taken to keep the ordinary Civil Establishments within proper limits, and the disposition which exists to make every necessary addition to the Judicial Establishments. The consolidation of the Supreme and Sudder Courts into united High Courts has caused a considerable additional expense.

The total estimated charge for "Police" is £2,280,000, being an increase over this year of £180,000. This arises from the extension of the new Police to Bengal Proper, which was the last Province remaining to be brought under the new system. The transition period is always an expensive one, and this was especially the case in Bengal, where twelve Police Battalions and the old Thannadaree Police had to be put down, while the Constabulary Police, which was to supersede them both, was being set up.

As the large reduction of the Native Army has been rendered possible by the extent to which the Civil duties previously performed by it have been transferred to the new Police, the two must be viewed in relation to each other. I agree with those who are of opinion that, with proper economy, £12,000,000 may be taken as the standard of the expense to be incurred in India for the Military Force of all Arms even supposing it to be maintained at its present Establishment, and that £2,000,000 is a sufficient allowance for the Police. In order to keep the Expenditure within due limits it is indispensably necessary that there should be only one Military and one Civil Force. The permission to employ "Guards" or any other protective Force not included in the Army or in the organized Police would at once give scope to the former practice of making discretionary miscellaneous charges. Efficiency, as usual, goes hand in hand with economy. It can be secured only by concentrating attention on the Military and Police Forces, dealing with each according to its special conditions.

The new Indian Police is now in a state to be effectually acted upon by a searching revision. At the commencement of such an organisation the Officers employed do not know what their real requirements are; and if the Establishments first set up are permitted to go on long without scrutiny, the difficulty of bringing them back to a just standard is much increased. Colonel Bruce, who has already acquired much valuable experience, will be employed during the ensuing year as Commissioner for investigating and reporting upon the Police Forces of Northern India in concert with the Inspector-General of each Force and such other Officers as may be appointed for the purpose by the Local Governments.

Although the assignment for "Education, Science, and Art" is £38,400 less than the Budget Estimate for this year, it is £61,600 more than the sum likely to be expended according to the Regular Estimate. Even so, it bears no proportion to the magnitude of the object. But National Education is not merely an affair of money-grants. To deserve the name it must be supported by the contributions and co-operation of the communities concerned. What is chiefly to be desired, therefore, is a natural growth and interior expansion according to the circumstances of each Province. The object is not uniformity, but progress and efficiency; and there may be virtue even in variety, because more is likely to be accomplished, on the whole, when each Government is left to follow the bent of its own wants and inclinations, and because there is a positive advantage in the experiment being tried in different ways. The different Local Governments by which the administration of India is carried on have a great detal to learn from each other. An elaborate system for the education of the Upper and Middle Classes has been sucessfully worked out in Bengal, while in the North-West Provinces and Madras much progress has been made in laying the foundation of a really popular system. Large Local Funds are already expended on Education, and the school fees and other incidental receipts arising out of the application of the grant are similarly appropriated. The duty of the Central Government is to be ready to sustain and encourage every well-directed effort to promote the education of the body of the people in every part of India, and liberal grants will, I trust, never be wanting to supplement in due proportion the Funds locally raised. If, in the course of next year, any well considered plans are brought forward which cannot be provided for from the grant of the year, a further appropriation will be made out of the savings of other grants, if there should be any, and, if not, out of the general surplus of Income over Expenditure.

There is an increase under "Political Agencies and other Foreign Services" of £25,200 over this year, which is chiefly occasioned by the presents to be given during the Governor General's tour.

Under "Superannuation and Retired Allowances" an additional sum of £7,500 has been taken to provide for the increased demands for compensation likely to arise from the extensive reductions in progress.

It will be seen with satisfaction that the charge for Interest on the debt, after increasing for several years, has received its first check, and will be less next year than this by £77,000, while there is an increase of £50,000 in the Receipts on account of Interest.

This Government has the advantage of having three real Sinking Funds.

The first of these is the proceeds of the sale of Waste Lands and of the redemption of fixed Rent-charges, both of which, according to the instructions of the Secretary of State, are to be applied to the payment of Debt. As the same principle is applicable to all sums derived from the sale of real property yielding, or capable of yielding Revenue, the Local Financial Officers have been directed to make Returns of the sums available for investment on this comprehensive footing. No investments have yet been made from this Fund.

The second is the sum authorized to be invested in Government Securities from the Coin and Bullion received for Notes within the limit of the smallest amount which experience has proved to be necessary for the monetary transactions of the country. That limit has been fixed for the present, by Act XIX of 1861, at four Millions Sterling; but the sum which it has been considered proper to invest up to the present time is only one Million.

The third is the surplus of the Cash Balances beyond the amount required to carry on the Expenditure. I shall return to this point when I have to speak of the Estimate of Cash Balances for the ensuing year. One Million Sterling has been lately applied from the surplus of the Cash Balances in the extinction of Debt held in this country, and three Millions have been remitted to the Secretary of State, over and above what was wanted to meet the Home Expenditure, to enable him to operate upon some portion of the Indian Debt held in England.

Neither of these three Sinking Funds is directly derived from the produce of taxation. To impose, or continue taxes to pay off debt, is a measure of doubtful policy; but when, from any cause, Capital accumulates beyond what is required for current purposes, instead of spending it as income, it ought to be employed in extinguishing Debt in order that there may be no diminution of the Capital stock of the community.

As investments made from the Waste Lands Fund and the surplus Cash Balances result in a final extinction of Debt, the Interest saved will appear in the Estimates and Accounts in the form of a diminished charge. The investments from the Currency Deposits, on the other hand, are held in trust to meet a possible, but extremely improbable, demand for the payment of Government Notes; and the sum annually received for Interest from this source will, therefore, be credited as Revenue, leaving the principal available for re-sale if necessary.

The total estimated Expenditure in India for 1863-64 is £37,525,300, which is £296,400 more than the Regular Estimate for 1862-63, and £279,544 more than the Actual Expenditure for 1861-62. The Estimate for 1863-64 exceeds the Estimate for 1862-63 by a larger amount, but the true comparison is, not with the expectation which the Budget Estimate of 1862-63 held out, but with the near approximation to actual fact afforded by the Regular Estimate of the same year. The increased expenditure in 1863-64 is caused by additional appropriations for Public Works, the greater part of which are of the nature of a highly re-productive investment. In other respects the Expenditure has been kept below its previous level.

I shall now review the estimated Revenue of 1863-64.

"Land Revenue" is taken at £19,384,500, or £45,500 less than the sum expected to be realized in the current year. It falls short by a much larger sum of the amount credited in 1861-62; but it has been already explained that there were incidental Receipts in that year, the greater part of which cannot recur. The Estimates for the Land Revenue are made by the different Local Governments long before the end of the preceding year, with a liberal allowance for a possible failure of the harvest; and the consequence is that, as the harvest never fails in the same season all over India, the Estimates are almost always under the mark. For this reason alone I am persuaded that the Estimate for 1863-64 is a very moderate one. There are, however, still more potent causes. The high prices of agricultural produce strongly stimulate the extension of cultivation, which is attended in the Madras and Bombay Presidencies and some other quarters with a direct proportionate increase of the Land Revenue. But everywhere, except where the Land Revenue has been already permanently settled, the hope of obtaining that great boon furnishes a powerful additional motive. In order to prevent any undue sacrifice it has been determined that the claim of the Government against an Estate is not to be fixed until it has been cultivated up to a fair average, leaving only the usual proportion of Waste Land for pasture.

I have long been of opinion that a well considered arrangement for fixing the Land Tax would, besides indirectly augmenting other sources of Revenue, increase the productiveness of the Land Tax itself.

The Government can, under no circumstances, demand more than a moderate assessment. When, therefore, the cultivation has nearly reached its maximum, our obvious policy is to fix the assessment and to trust for the further improvement of the Revenue to the outlay of Capital and the accretion of wealth, which are the natural results of permanency of tenure, besides diminished expenses of collection and certainty of Receipts. Thus the country becomes divided between Estates the assessment of which has been fixed, and Estates which the owners are endeavoring to cultivate up to the point which will qualify for its being fixed, and it is difficult to say which condition is most conducive to the increase of the Revenue.

The interests of the Revenue are also deeply concerned in the sales of Waste Land being made in the manner most convenient to intending settlers. Every difficulty will be obviated if the practical course which experience has dictated at Ceylon be adopted, i. e., that, instead of leaving intending settlers to go through a series of embarrassing and expensive formalities, pains are taken to survey and mark out beforehand the most suitable allotments with a view to their being put up to auction at fixed periods after full information has been given to all concerned. A suggestion has been already made to this effect, and matured instructions will shortly be issued.

I have commented on "Land Revenue" as it stood previously to a slight change which has been made in the form of the Accounts. The next head was "Sayer" an obsolete Arabic word, which has the same meaning as "Miscellaneous." It has latterly been composed of a variety of items connected with the Land Revenue, of which the Revenue derived from the Forests has been the most important. The progress of improvement has given a value to the Forests which they never had before, and it has been determined to give increased attention to their conservation and management, and to constitute the Revenue derived from them a separate Head in the Public Accounts. The other Miscellaneous Items of Land Revenue which appeared under "Sayer" have, therefore, been added to Land Revenue, and what remains has been denominated "Forest Revenue.

The "Abkaree" or Excise upon spirits and intoxicating drugs is estimated at something less than the expected Receipts of this year. The plan of letting the privilege of selling Spirits and intoxicating drugs at such prices as local monopolists think most for their advantage is giving place in several parts of India to that of "Sudder Distilleries," or a fixed Excise upon the manufacture. Whatever may be the relative merits of these two plans in their bearing upon public morality, the "Sudder Distilleries" have not, so far as the experiment has been tried, been favorable to the Revenue. The subject will be fully investigated.

The "Assessed Taxes" call for no remark. As the Income Tax year is from August to August, one quarter of the 2 per cent. Duty on Incomes below £50 a year was included in 1862-63, whereas the collection of 1863-64 will be entirely confined to Incomes above £50.

It has been already stated that the continued depression of our "Customs" Revenue is caused by the long stagnation of the Piece Goods Trade. The prevailing opinion is, that a revival is not at present to be expected, and in deference to it I have taken "Customs" at about the sum realised in the present year. I myself take a more sanguine view, the reasons for which will be hereafter adverted to.

"Salt" is estimated at £64,900 above the Receipts of this year, which is a moderate allowance for the growth of the consumption from the improvement of the circumstances of the people and of the means of communication with the interior, and for the increased quantity likely to be sold in Bengal in consequence of the cessation of the Government manufacture and the disposal of the remaining stock.

On all main points I concur with the view taken by Mr. Laing in his remarks upon the "Opium" Revenue in his last Financial Statement. We have gone on calling the Opium Revenue "precarious" long after the contrary has been demonstrated by actual experience. It is anomalous, but it is not precarious. It rests upon precisely the same basis as the Excise upon Spirits in England, with this difference, that the Spirits are consumed by Her Majesty's Subjects, while the Opium is consumed by the Subjects of the Emperor of China; but the Chinese will no more go without Opium than, it is to be feared, certain classes of our fellow-subjects will forego the use of Spirits. The idea of the Chinese becoming independent of us by growing their own Opium is a mere chimera. The cultivation has been permitted in China for several years with the result that the demand upon India for Opium has been continually increasing. India has been bountifully dealt with in the great division of labor established by nature. She has an advantage over all the world in producing Indigo, Saltpetre, Opium, and some other things. The Chinese, on their part, are more likely to increase their cultivation of Tea and Silk than of Opium. Even if the quantity grown in China was largely increased, Bengal Opium is so much better than the native product that it would still be sold as an article of luxury, like Manilla or Havannah Cigars.

No doubt the cultivation of Opium in China would increase if the market were not supplied with a sufficient quantity of Indian Opium. In Bengal we make a quantity in each year as nearly approaching 50,000 chests as we can. In other parts of India Opium can be freely manufactured and exported subject to a Pass Duty, and the annual quantity is gradually rising to another 50,000 chests. The wants of the China market, therefore, appear to be sufficiently supplied.

The moral justification of the Opium Revenue also follows the parallel of the Home Excise upon Spirits. Is it best to check the consumption of Opium by placing the highest possible tax upon it; or, by leaving the cultivation and export entirely free, to give to the Chines the means of unlimited indulgence in their favorite drug? There is only one other alternative, which is, without taking any Revenue from Opium, to maintain an Army of Preventive Officers in the interior and round the Coast of India to secure the entire cessation of the cultivation. Indeed, we could not stop there, for there are other intoxicating drugs in common use in India and China which are more injurious than Opium, and, if Opium were prohibited, the increase of these truly brutalising stimulants would call for their suppression also.

In 1861-62 Mr. Laing estimated Bengal Opium at Rupees 1,748 a chest. The average price of the year was Rupees 1,614 a chest, and at the end of the year there was a surplus on Bengal and Malwa Opium, over the Estimate, of £251,708.

In 1862-63 Mr. Laing estimated Bengal Opium at Rupees 1,200 a chest. The average price of the year was Rupees 1,429 a chest, and there is likely to be a surplus of upwards of £1,700,000.

Bengal Opium has been estimated by me at Rupees 1,250 a chest, which would give a total sum of £8,290,000 upon the expected crop on both sides of India. The sum for which I have actually taken credit in my Budget Estimate is £8,000,000, which is less than Opium will yield this year.

The causes of the recent low state of the "Stamp" Revenue have been already explained. I expect that it will revive next year, but I have taken the Estimate on the supposition of its continued depression.

"Post Office" shews no increase. This Revenue is derived from voluntary payments made in return for advantages expected to be received, and it therefore depends upon the manner in which the Department is regarded by the Public.

An increased Receipt is expected from the "Electric Telegraph" in consequence of the new lines which are about to be opened.

The increased Receipts under "Law" and "Justice and Police" arise from the circumstance that large Municipal contributions towards the expense of the Police, which were previously carried to Local Funds, have now been credited as Revenue.

Of the £350,000, which are the estimated Receipts from "Marine," about £150,000 are from Pilot-dues and other ordinary sources of Income. The remaining £200,000 will be from the sale of ships and Marine stores; but, owing to the abolition of the Indian Navy and to the substitution of Freight and Contract for Government Vessels, and the transfer of the Government Dock-yards to private Companies, the Receipts from this source are certain greatly to exceed the amount named.

The diminution in "Miscellaneous Military Receipts" is owing to several causes. Retrenchments not finally upheld, and consequently not actually Receipts, have been to some extent included heretofore. During this last year there has been a considerable realisation on account of Remounts sold to Officers, which was an exceptional measure and will not recur. The Actuals of 1861-62 also include a large amount of arrear Receipts, chiefly Recoveries, the result of more effective Audit.

The total amount of Revenue estimated by me for 1863-64 is £45,306,200, which is only £200,500 more than, according to the Regular Estimate, will be actually realized in 1862-63. Indeed, when the increased Receipts from Opium, of which information has since been received, are taken into account, my Estimate of the Revenue of next year is less than the actual Receipts of this year. In the absence of any extraordinary unexpected check before the end of April 1864 there must be a progressive increase of the Public Revenue, taken as a whole, which will carry the Receipts beyond the figure at which I have taken them.

How much reason there is to expect a sustained progress will be seen from the following Statement of the annual Revenue since the Mutiny:—

1858-59 ...	£36,060,788
1859-60 ...	£39,705,822
1860-61 ...	£42,903,234
1861-62 ...	£43,829,472
Regular Estimate for 1862-63 ...	£45,105,700

From these it will be seen—

1*st*.—That the increase in 1862-63 over 1858-59 is £9,044,912.

2*nd*.—That the average Revenue of the three last years exceeds that of the three first years by £4,389,520.

3*rd*.—That the aggregate increase in four years upon the income of 1858-59 is £27,301,076; and

4*th*.—That there has been an average annual increase in each succeeding year of £2,730,107.

The net Expenditure in England is estimated by the Secretary of State at £5,347,300, which is more than the Expenditure of 1862-63 by £54,903. This is caused by increased payments for the Persian Gulph Telegraph, and for the site and construction of the India Office. As the object of the first is to establish direct Telegraphic communication with England, it stands in no need of explanation; but as regards the second, I may mention that the plot of ground in London where the Foreign Office and other buildings stood has been allotted for Public Offices, and that the Foreign Office and India Office divide the Park frontage, and pay for the ground and building, which is all one design externally, according to the space they take. Therefore India only pays, exactly as England does, both for ground and building.

It is estimated that the Home Military Charges will be £143,000 less in 1863-64 than in 1862-63, including a diminished payment of £50,000 to the Imperial Government for Her Majesty's Troops serving in India. Having during many years assisted in the settlement of the Home Charges of Her Majesty's Troops serving in India I have had painful experience of the Public inconvenience arising from the attempt to adjust such periodical accounts upon a consideration of the infinite variety of fluctuating and perplexing details into which they ramify, and am able to say that a great improvement has been made by substituting the principle of an average rate per man. The rate adopted up to the close of this Financial year was a provisional one, founded upon the average of a period when the recruiting arrangements were conducted on a very economical footing, and the matter is to undergo further investigation.

The guaranteed Interest on Railway Capital, less net Traffic Receipts, is estimated by the Secretary of State at £1,617,825, which is £117,825 more than the Budget Estimate of 1862-63, and £192,745 more than the actual charge for 1861-62.

The total Expenditure which has to be provided for in 1863-64 is therefore £14,490,425
And, as the total estimated Revenue is £15,306,200

The estimated surplus is . . £ 815,775

The Secretary of State, being strongly impressed with the public importance, in the present state of India, of expediting the construction of reproductive Public Works, and specially of Roads subsidiary to the new Railways, or opening direct communications with the Coast, authorized, by a Despatch dated 30th August last, the appropriation for this purpose of any sum that might be required out of the Cash Balances not exceeding £3,000,000 Sterling. The resources of Indian Finance have proved greater than they were at that time expected to be, and we have been able to make, out of the Revenue of the year, ample provision for all the Public Works of every kind that can be carried on within the year, leaving a clear surplus, after doing this, of upwards of £800,000. It is a matter of congratulation that the Secretary of State's object has been accomplished without the necessity of departing from the good old rule of English Finance, that the whole of the Expenditure of the year should be provided for out of ways and means raised within the year, leaving a surplus of Income besides to meet contingencies. To use Lord Elgin's words, the exhibition of a surplus "tangible, palpable, and incontrovertible," at the present turning point of Indian Finance is a matter of much public moment, and if we had drawn upon our Cash Balances for any portion of our current Expenditure some doubt might still have remained on this point. The Secretary of State has since directed six Millions Sterling to be remitted to England from the Cash Balances for the payment of Debt. The matter has thus been re-placed on its right footing. Our available Capital is to be employed in extinguishing permanant charges upon Revenue, and every demand of the year is to be met, as heretofore, from the surplus of Income over Expenditure.

Before I enter upon the disposal of the surplus, I must express my grateful sense of the cordial assistance I have received from all the Public Departments and from the Chief Officers in every part of India; but there is one obligation which I wish especially to record. The Honorable Mr. Drummond, the late Financial Secretary, not only gave me the invaluable aid of his excellent judgment and mature knowledge of Indian Finance during his tenure of office, but after his appointment as Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Provinces he remained at Calcutta, with the Governor-General's consent, solely for the purpose of assisting me in a task which I should have found heavy indeed without his help.

One article now charged with an import Duty of ten per cent. is a material of Industry so essential to the development of the great works upon which the future of India depends, that it is proposed to charge only a Registration Fee of one per cent. upon it. I, of course, refer to Iron. The loss of Revenue will not be great; for, after separating Ironmongery and Cutlery, which are used for domestic purposes and will still be chargeable with the ten per cent. Duty, much the largest portion of the remainder is imported for the construction of Railways, and is either added, together with the Duty upon it, to the Capital of Guaranteed Companies, the Interest of which is made good out of the Public Revenue, or is entirely exempted from Duty under a privilege lately conceded to Companies more directly based upon the principle of private enterprise. Out of a total value of £1,087,464 of Iron imported at Calcutta in 1862 £542,608 was for Rails alone; Machinery into which Iron so largely enters is on the Free List.

Keeping the Duty on Spirits at its present rather high rate, it is proposed that the Duties charged on Beer and Wine should be lowered. Besides sharing the burden of the general high prices with the Native community, Europeans pay heavily for articles of consumption peculiar to themselves; and, now that Artisans and others in narrow circumstances are resorting to this country in large numbers to assist in carrying on Public Works and Industrial undertakings of various kinds, it is desirable that they should get their European supplies with as little additional cost as possible beyond the necessarily heavy charges of freight from England and conveyance into the interior.

The Duty on Beer, the most wholesome of stimulants and the best suited to this climate, is at present two annas or three pence per gallon. It is to be reduced to a Registration Fee of one anna.

The Duty on Wine was reduced by Mr. Laing from an uniform rate of two Rupees a gallon to one Rupee upon Wines of less value than 12 Rupees per dozen; and two Rupees upon all of a higher value. This arrangement has not answered the object intended, for in the ten months ended on the 28th February last, only Rupees 16,499 was paid at Calcutta on Wine of less value than Rupees 12 a dozen, while Rupees 1,84,683 was paid on Wine above that value. It is proposed that every kind of Wine should be charged a Duty of one Rupee a gallon, which will be equal to an ad valorem Duty of about 13 per cent. Several inconveniences arising out of the present discriminating Duty will thus be avoided, and the importation of wholesome Wine will be encouraged.

The total loss of Revenue from these reductions of Duty, making the necessary allowances on Iron arising out of our connection with the Railway Companies, may be estimated at £50,000. The reduction of Duty will take effect from the 1st May 1863.

Of the three great War Taxes originally proposed the Income Tax alone came into operation; and, by subsequent legislation, Incomes less than £50 a year were exempted, and the assessments first made were accepted until the Tax expires in August 1865. It is satisfactory to the Government that the state of the Finances enables them, to a certain extent, to anticipate that period, and they propose that one per cent. of the Income Tax shall be remitted from the 1st August next, from that date, therefore, the Duty upon Incomes will be three, instead of four per cent.

The annual sum thus remitted is £380,000; but, as the Income Tax year is from August to August, one quarter of the one per cent., or £95,000, will come within the Financial year 1863-64, and the actual loss in that year will therefore be only £285,000, and adding to this the estimated loss of £50,000 from the remission of Customs Duties, the diminution of Revenue will be in all £335,000.

The estimated surplus of Income over Expenditure, after making ample provision for Public Works and every other object, has been shewn to be £815,775; and, deducting from this the abovementioned sum of £335,000, the final surplus is £480,775.

It will be seen from the Estimate of Cash Balances in the Indian Treasuries that, after taking seven Millions Sterling out of the Cash Balances for the payment of Debt—that is one Million paid off in India, three remitted this year to the Secretary of State for the payment of Debt at Home, and three more to be remitted for the same purpose next year—it is expected that the Cash Balance on the 30th April 1864 will still amount to fifteen and a half Millions Sterling.

After a careful study of the Cash Balances. I have come to a decided opinion about them. Their extraordinary increase has not arisen from a surplus of Income over Expenditure. This is simply impossible, because till now we have had no such surplus for many a long year.—It arises, in the first instance, from our having borrowed five Millions more than we wanted, the proof of which has been worked out by Mr. Drummond.—Then there is Prize Money; Service Funds; Suitors' Funds; Local Funds of various kinds; Trust Funds; Deposits; Mr. Wilson's appropriated one per cent. from the Income Tax, a large portion of which remains unspent; the increasing Traffic Receipts from, and the diminishing Expenditure on, Railways; and the action that has been taken in curtailing advances on account, and consolidating outlying balances. Our Cash Balances are like the French institution of the Pot-au-feu, into which everything not required for immediate consumption is thrown, with the result that there is always an abundant mess in reserve for the family. It is a characteristic of the Cash Balances that they are constantly ahead of the Estimates made of them, partly because the Estimates are based upon the status quo, whereas the balances are continually in process of accretion; and partly because Public Officers generally estimate for the full amount they can by possibility spend, and there is, therefore, always a balance left of unexpended credits. Beginning from this year a surplus of Income over Expenditure will help to swell the balances.

The great item of so called "Debt" must not be confounded with the genuine National Debt. It is an omnium gatherum of every possible description of Account Current, Trust, and Local Fund. It has long been the beté noir of Indian Finance, and we propose to make a real settlement of it by instructing our Financial Officers to scrutinize all the items of it in concert with the Officers of the Local Governments and to divide them into two categories.

The first of these will contain all Funds which are properly local—I mean those in respect to which the Local Governments or Municipalities are entitled to exercise their own discretion—and all Trust Funds for which they are responsible. These will be finally placed to the credit of the Local Governments, subject only to an annual Account to be rendered according to a prescribed form of the Expenditure of these Local Funds, and an Estimate of the manner in which it is proposed to expend them during the ensuing year. This slight supervision seems to be required by the relation in which the Supreme Government stands towards the Local Governments, and it is also necessary for the guidance of the Supreme Government in making Grants from the General Revenue.

The other category will include those Funds which, by whatever name they may be known, are really Public Funds applicable to public purposes. These were very numerous, for almost every Office had one or more private purses of this kind which it filled with all sorts of odds and ends, and employed in defraying public Expenditure not included in the Budget Estimate. Various receipts have also been appropriated, from time to time, to particular public services according to a mistaken principle of Finance which has been superseded at home by the principle of having only one Consolidated Fund, from which all payments are made. All receipts and payments on the Public Account will hereafter be carried to Revenue and Charge, and it will then be seen what the Public Income and Expenditure really are.

Thus, by separating one part and incorporating another, we hope to reduce "Debt" to smaller proportions and to establish a stricter responsibility in the application of the various sums of which it is composed; while, at the same time, a solid foundation will be laid for a self-sustained Municipal action. But, although the Account will be cleared and the administration will be improved by the process, the Cash Balances will be diminished. The Supreme Government will still be the general purse-holder, and will take care that the surplus of the Cash Balance is invested for the public benefit.

It may be asked in England why no reduction is proposed in the Duty on Piece Goods. The English Merchants in India, who have better means of information than their countrymen at Home, have not applied for any such reduction. They are aware that as the Duty of five per cent. ad valorem is charged on a valuation which was fixed when prices were about half of what they now are, it really amounts only to 2½ per cent. They also know that one argument which has been urged at Home with a shew of reason has proved to be without foundation. The so-called protective Duty on the Native manufacture has utterly failed to afford protection. The Native Hand-loom Weavers have been prostrated by the blow which staggered Manchester. Having no capital of their own, nor any charitable friends to help them, they have gone down before the excessive price of the raw material and the excessive stocks of the manufactured article firmly held by English Houses, and have emigrated, or gone upon the Railways and other Public Works, or have given themselves up entirely to agriculture. The great majority, like our own old Hand-loom Weavers, were half agriculturists before; and their recent absorption in the agricultural class has been a benefit both to England and India. Such are the wonderfully productive powers of the soil and climate of India, that agriculture must always be her staple industry. Another long step has been taken in this direction. The insufficient supply of rural labor and the high price of grain and exportable produce have received some mitigation, and when Manchester sets to work again she will find her rival local manufacturers converted, to an unexpected extent, into ready-money customers. There has been occasional severe distress, particularly where the manufacture was carried on for general sale at marts; but, on the whole, it is a remarkable proof of the healthy, progressive state of India, that the transition has been got through with so little difficulty. The Government has not been called on for any assistance, and the only subscriptions raised have been for Manchester.

It was shewn in Colonel Baird Smith's Report that the stagnation of the Cotton Trade in India must be attributed,—1st, to the lowness of the stocks caused by the commercial difficulties in England in 1857-58; and 2nd, to the large speculative shipments made, in addition to the usual supplies, to take advantage of the high prices arising from the preceding cause. Upon this state of things came the War in America, which, threatening to cut off the supply of Cotton, induced the Proprietors of goods held in India to instruct their Agents to demand an equivalent advance in price to what had taken place in Europe. Shippers, believing that the Native dealers and consumers would be compelled to pay the price asked, also continued to make nearly the average shipments. But the Native dealers, being aware of the large stocks held in Europe, and of the consequences to be expected from the sudden cessation of the Civil War, would not speculate at present prices, and the Native consumers did not like to give 50 or 60 per cent. more for their clothes than they had been accustomed to do. This unusual combination of large stocks with high prices was the cause of the depressed state of the Trade. The 40, 50, and even 60 per cent. advance of price paralysed the Trade, and not the nominal 5 per cent. Duty, which, for the reason already explained, had become in reality much less.

A further advance of price of about 20 per cent. has lately taken place in consequence of an unexpected demand on the part of the Native dealers. India will give almost as much help by taking off the manufactured article and thus enabling Manchester to offer a good price for the raw material, wherever it is to be had, as by furnishing the raw material itself. This great population never had so much money. They have waited a long time for cloth to get cheaper; but seeing that it does not, and that neither they nor their Wives and Daughters can go on longer wearing their old clothes, they have begun again to buy.

All that is possible is being done to increase the supply of raw Cotton. If Government became a producer or a trader in the article private producers and traders would have to retire from the competition. The power of the Government, therefore, is limited to protecting everybody engaged in the Trade, to enforcing the strict performance of every lawful contract, and to facilitating the conveyance of Cotton to the Coast. All this is being done without stint. Funds will, as I have said, be forthcoming for making Cotton Roads to any extent consistent with the possibility of execution on reasonable terms. The difficulty is, not money, but labor and superintendence. The laches of ages cannot be repaired in a single generation; still less in a year or two. We must not repeat in India the mistake made in Ireland by not distinguishing between the ultimate capabilities of a country after its resources have been developed, and the improvements which are immediately practicable. The soil and labor of India are so largely engaged in producing Indigo, Saltpetre, Opium, Oil Seeds, Fibres, and other exportable commodities, besides this large urgent demand for Cotton, that she can with difficulty meet all the demands upon her. We are too much accustomed to look upon India as an inexhaustible fund to be drawn upon ad libitum. She ought rather to be regarded as a Bank, the many pressing claims upon which can be answered in full only by making the most of every available resource.

I have carefully considered whether the plan which has been adopted of late years in England, of confining Customs Duties to a limited number of principal articles of import, might with advantage be extended to India. Whether Duty be levied on many articles or on few, all must undergo the usual examination, partly for statistical purposes, but chiefly because, unless all were verified, it would be impossible to know which were liable. Nothing, therefore, is gained by limiting Duties to a few articles either in saving expense of collection, or in exempting the Trade from interference. The Customs Duties in India are collected in a manner which scarcely admits of simplification, and no complaints are heard. India is such a vast and imperfectly developed country that articles which hardly appear in one part exist in abundance in another, and entirely new staples occasionally spring into life in answer to some unexpected demand or discovery. Under such circumstances, our policy should be to levy a wide-spread but moderate Duty, so as to give free scope to trade in time of peace, and to cherish the increase of a fund which would be our first Financial reserve in time of war. A consolidated Customs Act has lately been passed which comprehends every regulation relating to the subject except the tariff.

I promised to notice separately the change which has taken place in the Salt Revenue of Bengal. The monopoly which was established by Lord Clive in 1765 for the purpose of substituting sufficient salaries for the presents and other irregular gains which had up to that time been received by the servants of the Company, has, after passing through a modified state of existence, come to an end before it had quite completed a hundred years. A Select Committee of the House of Commons in 1836 recommended that the import trade of Salt should be thrown open, and that the Government should confine itself to a monopoly of the local manufacture, and should sell its Salt at the cost price, with the addition of a modified fixed Duty which was to be equally charged upon Government and upon private Salt. This plan was adopted, and the Government soon after permitted Salt to be made subject to an equivalent Excise Duty.

Since that there has been a constant struggle between the Government Manufacture and the Private Trade. The long exclusion of foreign Salt had given rise to a caste feeling in favor of Bengal Salt, which, however much it might be mixed with earthy particles, was preferred by the Natives to the purest and best Cheshire Salt; and the latter was even adulterated to make it look like Bengal Salt. At last, Cheshire Salt was delivered at a price which overcame the prejudice against it, and it began to sell freely throughout the Lower Provinces of Bengal in places in which no Salt of the kind had ever been seen, and in which its exposure to sale would hardly have been tolerated in former years by the ignorant villagers. Its conquests are not likely to end here. As the whole available carriage on the North-West Frontier has been engaged to meet the pressure of the Cotton Trade, the importation of Salt from that quarter has fallen off, and Liverpool Salt is sent far into the interior, by Rail and River, to supply the void. This is another instance of the unlimited confidence that may be placed in the self-adjusting capacity of Trade if it is really left to itself.

The rapid increase of the sales of private imported Salt and the corresponding decrease of the Sale of Government Salt will be seen from a table submitted by me.

As it gradually became apparent that the private Trade might be relied on for the necessary supply of Salt, the Government withdrew from the manufacture. At the beginning of the present Financial year the Chittagong Agency was closed, and the Tumlook and Hidgelee Agencies were united into one; and in February last orders were issued entirely to discontinue the manufacture by closing each Salt Pan as soon as the first advances of the season had been worked off.

The charges of manufacture were diminished last year by £175,000, and this year there has been a further reduction of £237,500. This is not all saving, because the expenditure was of the nature of an advance recoverable by the sale of the Salt. Nevertheless, the Government was permanently deprived of the use of a large average sum of money; and it is better, for many reasons, that the public Revenue should be collected on delivery of the manufactured article over the side of a ship, than by an elaborate system of advances, manufacture, and sale, absorbing time and money, which can be ill-spared from the really necessary purposes of Government.

The clearing of the Forests and the draining of the Swamps at the mouths of the Ganges were seriously interfered with by the Salt manufacture. Large tracts had to be kept in a half-submerged state to promote evaporation, and a portion of the Sunderbuns was maintained in a state of nature to grow fire-wood to boil the Salt. As it is not to be expected that private persons will take up a losing business from which the Government is retiring, the accelerated improvement of these important Suburban Districts may be confidently looked for. The Moolunghees, or laborers in the Salt Pans, are, like the Weavers, already half agriculturists, and the demand for their labor, as such, will be increased by the Salt lands being given up for cultivation. The prices of agricultural produce are so high that every resource should be made available to increase production.

The remaining Government stock of Salt consists of 8,018,161 maunds or 294,545 tons. When the Government undertook to supply Bengal with Salt it was necessary to keep a large reserve stock in hand; but now private Trade has shewn itself perfectly capable of supplying, not only Bengal Proper, but other extensive countries in the interior besides; and the sources of supply are so varied that they cannot be cut off. The importations from Liverpool, however much they may have increased of late years, are backed by still more extensive home resources. Independently of the Salt range in the Punjab, and the Sambhur and other Salt Lakes in Rajpootana, which have vast areas of supply, an unlimited quantity of cheap Salt can be made in the Chilka Lake, on the Frontier of Bengal and Madras, and on every part of the Coromandel Coast. In the Run of Cutch ready-made Salt in any quantity can be had for the carting.

Besides the waste of public money caused by the locking up so large a capital, by the gradual melting of the Salt, and the heavy cost of warehouses and establishments, the existence of such a stock is a constant cause of disturbance to the private Trade. As the Government has now entirely and finally abandoned the manufacture of Salt, and only seeks to recover its advances by the sale of its remaining stock, the engagement not to sell at less than cost price may be considered to have terminated with the exceptional state of circumstances which gave occasion to it. According to my view, the Government might, with perfect fairness and consistency, after giving due notice, sell by auction, from time to time, certain limited quantities of Salt till the whole was exhausted. The quantity to be brought forward should have reference to the average sales of the last four or five years of open ware-houses and fixed prices, and the upset prices should not be less than the ruling price of Liverpool Salt added to the fixed Duty. All this is for future discussion; for the present there will be no departure from the practice of selling at cost price.

At the present rate of wages the highest Salt Duty paid in British India amounts only to an insignificant charge upon the earnings of an ordinary laborer. This Tax is levied in a manner free from inquisition, and with less expense and greater certainty than perhaps any other that could be devised. The Salt Tax and the Excise upon Spirits and intoxicating drugs, amounting together to about seven and a quarter Millions Sterling, are contributed by 150 millions of the people of India, and these Taxes stand in the place of the 40 Millions Sterling paid by the 30 millions of the British Isles upon their food and tobacco.

Among the other advantages conferred upon the people of India by the introduction of Railways the reduction and equalisation of the price of Salt is not one of the least. At Madras a short branch line runs into the centre of the Depôt, and it is remarkable that out of 1,220,780 maunds of Salt sold at the Depôt from April 1861 to November 1862, 1,000,887 were sent by Rail into the interior.

It has truly been said that, after a quarter of a century of exhaustive efforts, beginning with the Afghan War and ending with the Mutiny, the want of India is Repose. But it should not be the repose of indolence. The change should be rather from the destructive arts of War to the reproductive arts of Peace. The present is a golden opportunity which should be improved to the utmost, for we know not how soon the existing tranquillity may be interrupted. War does not consume according to rule and measure. Everything else must yield to the necessity of self-preservation.

As the Financial system is the heart of the Body Politic, upon the healthy state of which the power of meeting the demands both of peace and war depends, our first attention should be directed to it. The foundation of a sound Financial system on the English model has been laid broad and deep by my predecessors. The organic changes have been successfully made. What remains is to extend the application of those principles throughout the whole field of Income and Expenditure, so as to re-mould the entire system into one consistent whole.

With this view arrangements have been made for a thorough revision of all the Public Establishments on the plan of that which has been in continual progress at home since Sir James Graham commenced his reforms at the Admiralty more than thirty years ago. For some of the more critical investigations two of the ablest Financial Officers of Her Majesty's Government will be united with the best man whom the Indian Department actually under revision can produce. In other cases the re-moulding will be effected by carefully selected Indian Officers only. The object will be, not economy in the vulgar sense, but the attainment of the highest degree of efficiency, which is alone consistent with true economy. To get rid of unnecessary processes, to ascertain the number and description of persons really required for the effective transaction of business, and to determine the best classification and scale of remuneration, is the end proposed. Moderate Establisments well worked and well paid are indispensable to a healthy state of the Public Service.

In the present condition of the Public Service in India a searching revision on these principles must be productive of the happiest results. Although we have been overtaken by a demand for labor which requires that every available man should be restored to production, the practice in most Departments still is to have a multitude of unprofitable, ill-paid, subordinate Native servants who pray upon the public without yielding any adequate service in return. As their wages were fixed when the expenses of living were not half what they now are, they have the same excuse for abuse of power as the English Civilians had before Lord Clive's reforms. Increase of pay must, therefore, go hand in hand with diminution of numbers, and proper securities must be taken for the admission only of well qualified persons into the Public Service. The inadequacy of the pay of the subordinate Judicial Establishments has long been a public scandal, and it is highly to the honor of the respectable class who fill these appointments that there have not been more instances of malversation. At the same time so many new Judicial and Magisterial arrangements have been made of late years on different principles, that a re-cast of the existing heterogeneous Establishments, especially in Bengal Proper, is indispensable for the purpose of restoring harmonious action, and the result will, by no means, be always an increase of Expenditure.

After the Public Establishments have been thus re-adjusted the further modifications which the change of circumstances will from time to time require should be made on a consideration of the annual Budget Estimates. The value of this periodical Review, in the opportunity it affords of pruning excesses, supplying deficiencies, and adapting the public expenditure to the actual exigencies of the Public Service, is incalculable; but the "Budget system," as it is here called, is an instrument of portentous power; and when it is neglected and left in the hands of interested subordinates, it is capable of fearful abuse. Painful symptoms of this have appeared in a few of the Estimates which it has been my duty to review, while in other cases they have been prepared with as much fidelity and exactness as the best of our English Estimates. These inequalities will, no doubt, be corrected as the great importance of the operation by which the public Expenditure is fixed for the ensuing year becomes better understood. This operation is the foundation of our Financial, and has a very important bearing upon the efficiency of our Administrative system.

The other great work of Peace, for which this interval of tranquillity should be utilised to the utmost, is the construction of necessary Civil and Military Buildings, and the formation of Roads, Railways, Canals, and other means of assisting the productive powers of the country. In respect to some of these the active agency of the Government is indispensable; but as regards the great bulk of Reproductive Works, it is important for all concerned that our real position should be understood.

The primary business of Government is to protect life and property and to enable all classes of persons to pursue their respective industries and enterprises without molestation, and with as little burden of taxation as possible, and the time and strength of the Government and its Officers are severely taxed to perform even this indispensable duty in a tolerably efficient manner.

To conduct all the undertakings which are required to support the industry of a country forms no part of the functions of the Government. This rather belongs to the Society itself, acting through various modifications of the principle of association. In England, which is far ahead of all the world in this respect, the Government has nothing to do with the matter. In Ireland the practice was to depend upon the "Castle" for everything; and when the system of Grants, either avowedly made as such, or disguised under the name of Loans, led to serious abuse, the "the Board of Works" was instituted, from the scientific, systematic action of which everything was expected. Then came that terrible teacher, the Famine. Ireland threw herself without reserves upon the Board of Works, which was supported by all the money and all the agency which England could furnish; and, when it all broke down, people began at last to perceive that the task was beyond the strength of any Government, and that nothing short of the united efforts of the whole Society, of which the Government was only the organ and representative, would suffice. Since that the "Castle" and the "Board of Works" have been allowed to contract within their proper spheres, and, under a system of awakened private industry and enterprise, Ireland has begun to blossom like the rose, and to be a source of strength and credit to England, instead of being her greatest "difficulty."

This is a true illustration of our present position in India. In the absence of all private enterprise the Government undertook to do what it could; and, although its hands were overburdened, they were not "torpid." This first era of Anglo-Indian Public Works has been illustrated by the genius of Arthur Cotton and Proby Cautley, and by the self-denying exertions and well-directed talent of many other Officers less known to fame. Public opinion, however, soon became painfully sensible of the insufficiency of these means to the end proposed; but, being still possessed with the notion of the unlimited nature of Government resources, a clamour arose, both in India and England, against the "Department of Public Works," as before in Ireland against the "Board of Public Works." Have we still to learn that to furnish a worthy industrial outfit for such a country as India is beyond the power of any Government? In the prosecution of such undertakings the Government is limited by the amount that can be annually spared out of the produce of the Taxes after provision has been made for the primary and necessary functions of Government; for the result is the same, whether appropriations are made out of current Income, or loans are raised the interest of which has to be paid from the same source. The rapid growth of the charge for guaranteed interest for a few Trunk Railways shews that, if this scheme was extended to all the Public Works of the country, the burden could not long be borne. Then the agency which can with advantage be worked by Government is subject to strict limits. It is limited to what can be effectively superintended by a single Chief. These bounds have been already passed, and hence the numerous imputations, too often well founded, of mismanagement or abuse on the part of the subordinate Local Officers. It is impossible for any Government to exercise an effectual control over Public Works of all kinds simultaneously going on in almost every part of a great Continent which exceeds the whole of Europe, without Russia, both in area and population.

According to the English practice the Capital available for carrying on Public Works in India would be commensurate with the entire Capital stock of the Society at large, and the agency would be extended to the whole of the professional classes supported and superintended by the classes which, although not professional in this sense, are accustomed to deal in a business-like manner with undertakings of every description. It would be even more than this, for India would be backed by all the Capital and professional skill of England. Such is the wonderful annual accretion of English wealth, drawn from all the four quarters of the world, that if the English people can once be induced to regard India as a field of investment, as South America was once regarded by them in the time of the Speculative Loans, and as North America was for a much longer period and with much greater practical results, India would rapidly become more to England than any person has yet imagined. The rapidity with which England was covered with Railways shews in how short a time great works may be executed on this principle; and in this case we should profit by the experience of England and avoid her mistakes. Although the Government cannot itself execute all the works that are required by a country like India, it may with great public advantage exercise a general supervision by bringing the experience of the whole to bear on every part.

To manage this transition in the manner most for the benefit of Society has been one great object of Lord Elgin's Government. To pass at once in all cases from entire Government support to the entire absence of it would be overshooting the mark. It does not follow that the Government should give no assistance at all for the future, because it has in some cases given too much heretofore. The Military and Political objects for which the Government guaranteed the Capital to be expended on certain main Trunk Lines of Railway have been accomplished, while the inconveniences of the system have become painfully apparent. For this has been substituted an arrangement under which any help that may be necessary is given without impairing the motives which are the mainspring of private enterprise. A specific Grant-in-aid is made, while the entire profit and loss, together with the unrestricted management, are left with the Railway Company. The Grant-in-aid is either greater or less according to the special circumstances of each undertaking; and according to the same circumstances it assumes various forms—being sometimes given in the shape of the concession of an existing road upon which the Rails may be laid—sometimes in that of a new earth-work constructed for the purpose—sometimes of a single sum paid, once for all, at so much a mile—and sometimes of the promise of an annual payment for so many years: while, in other cases, only the land is given.

As experience increases it becomes more apparent that the assistance required from the Government for the successful prosecution of Railway enterprise in India has been greatly over-estimated. My own opinion is that there is no country in the world where, with common prudence and exertion, Railways can be made with greater advantage. The opening of the East Indian Railway to Benares has been followed by a stream of traffic with which the Railway Managers, with their present means, are totally unable to contend; and when the gap between Benares and Allahabad has been filled, the stream will still more overflow its banks. What is wanted is, not Government assistance, but English capital and skill, and above all, experienced and able Railway management. The circumstance that certain Trunk Lines have been made with the aid of a Government guarantee has led to a fallacious idea that branch lines cannot be made without it; but numerous lines of Railway may be made between populous cities and through highly cultivated Districts, which, although branch lines in reference to the guaranteed Trunk Lines, would be themselves Trunk Lines of no mean importance in relation to their own dependent Provinces.

Again, there is a great country in the interior of India occupied by the Native States where, owing to the absence of Engineering difficulties, Railways may be made at a cheaper rate than the cheapest English agricultural lines; while, owing to the marked difference of natural capabilities, an extensive trade is carried on between the salt and grain producing regions on one side, and the great Gangetic Valley, with its abundant supplies of tropical produce, on the other. As we go on we shall get entirely out of the leading strings of Government assistance, and all that will be expected will be that the State through which the Railway passes should provide the land. If the Railway will not yield the ordinary rate of profit without a subsidy from the Government, it can only be made at a loss; and there are so many lines in India which would undoubtedly yield a profit, if properly made and managed, that they should at least have a priority of construction. One most important element in the comparison between the relative prospects of the guaranteed Railways and of those which will be made by private enterprise is the substitution of private thrift and attention to details, for the careless, wasteful mangement which, constituted as human nature is, must be the consequence of assured profits and dependence upon others.

A similar change is in progress in Marine affairs. The Indian Navy has been dissolved, and the protection of the Coasts of India has been transferred to Her Majesty's Naval Force; arrangements are in progress for disposing of the expensive Sea-going and River Steamers hitherto in use, and employing, under fixed contracts, the lines of Passage and Freight Steamers which have been established along the Coasts of India. The large Government Dock-yards at Bombay, Calcutta, and Rangoon have been the chronic cause of a profuse Public Expenditure which Home, as well as Indian experience proves cannot be effectually controlled. These Establishments, with all their Machinery, Buildings, and Stores, will be transferred, on suitable terms to Private Companies, constituted for the purpose of improving and working them in the interests of the Trade of the respective places, subject only to the condition that ships belonging to Her Majesty shall have the priority of their use at the rates charged to private persons. The shipping belonging to, or frequenting the Ports of Calcutta, Bombay, and Rangoon has so increased of late years that it stands in need of support and assistance of this kind as much as the shipping of London, Liverpool, or Glasgow, and the Public Finances will gain, not only by saving the expense of the Dock-yards, but by the encouragement which will be given to Commerce.

Having now performed to the best of my ability the responsible duty of explaining the state and prospects of the Finances, and having shewn how impossible it is that plans for the public benefit can bear their expected fruit without the hearty co-operation, not only of the Official Body, but also of the independent Mercantile Community, I conclude by expressing a fervent hope that God will enable us to give effect to these good designs by granting us a continuance of peace, and by putting into the hearts of all a spirit of mutual confidence and good-will.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned.

Government of India, Military Department.

The "Bentinck," a Floating Invalid Depot.

The Steamer Bentinck, formerly belonging to the Peninsular and Oriental Company, but now the property of the State, having been, with the sanction of Government, converted into a Floating Invalid Depôt for the benefit, chiefly, of sick Officers and Soldiers in Bengal, the following Rules, which have been laid down for the management of the Vessel, are notified for general information:—

1. The Hospital Ship will be under the immediate orders of Government, and is established mainly as a sanitarium for European Soldiers; but it will also, when accommodation is available, be open to all other classes and their families who may desire to avail themselves of its advantages, and who will agree to conform to the Rules which will be found below, and to those which the Surgeon Superintendent may find it necessary to lay down for the maintenance of order and general comfort.

2. The Vessel will in every way be regulated on the same principles as one of Her Majesty's Hospital Ships, and all persons not belonging to the Army will be required, as a condition of being allowed to reside therein, to conform to such Rules as may be from time to time in force. In other respects they will not be interfered with; but the penalty for disregard of regulations will be summary removal, by the first opportunity offering, from the Floating Hospital by order of the Surgeon Superintendent.

3. The Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, will exercise all medical supervision, acting, as far as Her Majesty's Troops are concerned, in communication with the Inspector-General of Hospitals, or, in his absence from Calcutta, with the Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals, Her Majesty's British Forces.

4. The entire control of the Institution will be vested in and rest with the Medical Officer appointed Superintendent, who will correspond direct with the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, and through him with Government, on all questions respecting the Civilian inmates, and financial matters. With respect to all questions relating to the treatment of British Troops he will address the Inspector-General of Hospitals, or, in his absence, the Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals, Her Majesty's British Forces at Calcutta.

5. The Troops in the Floating Hospital will be subject, in the same manner as those in other Military General Hospitals, to the Officer in Command of the Presidency Division, through whom all communications will pass to the Army Staff Departments for submission to the Commander-in-Chief and Government.

6. All connected with the care and management of the Vessel will be under the control of the Commander acting under instructions from the Marine Department, to which alone he is subject; but in dieting the inmates he will be guided by the opinion and directions of the Surgeon Superintendent.

7. All representations which any of the inmates may desire to make respecting any of the Commander's arrangements must be addressed to the Officer in charge of the Quarter-Master General's Office at the Presidency, who will be, as now, the sole channel of communication with the Marine Department.

Specimens of Cinchona bark and wood, &c., sent to England for analysis.

From W. G. McIvor, Esq., Superintendent, Government Cinchona Plantations, to J. D. Sim, Esq., Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, Fort St. George,—(No. 107, dated Ootacamund, the 4th April 1863.)

1. With reference to the Order of Government of the 5th March 1863, No. 471, and the Despatch from the Right Hon'ble Sir Charles Wood, dated 16th January 1863, No. 2, I have the honor to forward, for transmission to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, specimens of Cinchona bark and wood, also dried leaves, decoction and infusion made from the same (as per List annexed), in order that they may be submitted to Mr. Howard for analysis and report. The specimens embrace the bark in all stages of growth from one month up to fifteen, and it is possible they may enable that eminent Chemist to trace the earliest stage in which Alkaloids begin to form, and thus throw much light upon the practical advantage or otherwise likely to be derived from our proposed system of lopping and pruning.

2. The barks were, in the first instance, dried upon warm iron plates, the process of drying being completed by exposure to the sun. During a portion of the time the barks were exposed to the sun the atmosphere was very dry, indicating as much as 10° Fahr. between the wet and dry bulb Thermometer

3. The leaves in specimen No. 8 were dried in the sun under the same circumstances as the bark, while the leaves of specimen No. 9 were dried in the shade, and as they seem to have retained more of their virtue, it occurs to me that the bark should also have been dried in the shade, and I would respectfully solicit Mr. Howard's opinion on this point.

4. Specimens Nos. 10 and 11 of decoction and infusion made from the green leaves immediately they were gathered from the plains are submitted, as Mr. Howard, from his great practical experience, may be able to form a more correct opinion of their virtue than could be obtained in this country. At the same time we have submitted both decoction and infusion, as well as the leaves themselves, to the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, Madras, as also to the Senior Medical Officer of this Station, for trial in the Hospital here.

5. We have ascertained that the Cinchona tree has the power of rapidly renewing its bark if the spaces from which it is taken are immediately covered with damp moss. Specimen No. 3 is the new bark formed over the same spaces from which the barks sent through Mr. Markham to Mr. Howard in July last was taken: this bark is consequently of eight months growth, and is much thicker in proportion than bark of the same age formed on young wood. The object in submitting this small specimen of renewed bark is to ascertain whether bark so found is likely to prove of as much commercial value as that formed in the usual way; should it do so, it will prove of immense practical value, inasmuch as it will enable us to remove stripes of bark from the trunk, perhaps with the greatest advantage after a growth of from six to seven years; at the same time immediately covering the spaces with damp moss as the bark is removed; when treated in this manner new bark will form over the entire surface in from six weeks to two months, when the moss may be taken off; the bark being then capable of performing all its functions without any protection whatever; and perhaps should be permitted to attain a growth of six or seven years before the same bark is again removed. Although it is possible, I do not see that any deterioration in the market value of the bark can be caused by this treatment, and should it prove successful it will have the immense advantage of enabling us to procure at least three times the produce of bark which could be had under any other system.

6. When the branch or stem of a Cinchona tree is covered with moss for a few months the bark increases rapidly in thickness, and consequently in weight, the lower portion of specimen No. 4 illustrates the effect produced on the bark when treated in this manner. The object in submitting this specimen is to ascertain if the increased thickness in the bark, and consequently the greater cellular development, is likely to facilitate the deposit of Alkaloids.

7. I fear that the specimens now sent may perhaps be too young to enable Mr. Howard to come to a definite conclusion, but I trust they may enable him to indicate the probable future results; and, with the permission of Government, I will further prosecute the experiments above noticed, as I consider it desirable not to lose sight of the fact, that we are only beginning the cultivation of a plant the correct treatment of which is but little known. It is therefore important that we endeavor, as early as possible, to arrive at a system of cultivation which will produce the greatest yield of Alkaloids and bark with the least expenditure of time and capital.

The weather being favorable the first planting operations of this season was commenced towards the end of the month. The number of plants planted being 750, thus making the total number of plants permanently placed out in the plantations 35,750. The growing season having fairly set in these plants are making rapid growth.

The increase by propagation during last month is 10,809, or about 1,500 under the average of the last six months. Table II exhibits the growth of eleven plants planted out by His Excellency the Governor and other gentlemen on the 30th August 1862. The average growth of these plants during last month being 4 1/8 inches or 1 1/4 inches greater than the growth in February.

Table III shews the number of plants sold or otherwise disposed of, and the localities to which they have been sent; while Table IV exhibits the register of applicants for Cinchona plants for public Companies and private cultivation.

The number of plants already bespoken amounts to 44,000, and when it is remembered that no public advertisement has been made of the intention of the Government to dispose of the plants this fact clearly establishes that Cinchona cultivation will be extensively taken up by private enterprize. At the suggestion of Mr. C. R. Markham the names of some of our species have been altered in this Report; that gentleman's Memorandum on the subject is hereto attached for the information of all who are interested in the nomenclature of the species.

MEMORANDUM.

There has been much confusion in the nomenclature of the species of Cinchona from the Forests of Loxa, three varieties of which are now growing on the Neilgherry Hills. They are all classed by Dr. Weddell under the head of C. Condaminea, and hitherto the varieties have been called in Mr. McIvor's Reports,—1, Uritusinga; 2, Chahuarguera; 3, Crispa.

Dr. Hooker, in a recent number of the Botanical Magazine, has named the species C. Officinalis, reverting to the original name given by Linnæus (see page 9 of "Travels in Peru and India") Dr. Hooker says,—"When once the law of priority is "departed from without perfectly good cause the "door is opened to endless future change and "consequent confusion. The genus was founded "upon the one plant called 'Suinquina' by "LaCondamine, to which Linnæus gave the "specific name of C. Officinalis. This name, "which appears to us in every way unobjection-"able, and which was adopted by Vahl and Lam-"bert, Willdenow, Lamarck, and Roemer and "Schultes, was changed by Humboldt and "Bonpland to C. Condaminea on grounds which "we consider insufficient."

It is therefore proposed that the name C. Officinalis should be adopted for this species now thriving in India out of deference to the opinion of so high an authority on systematic Botany as Dr. Hooker.

With regard to the three varieties of this species now growing on the Neilgherry Hills it is proposed to adopt the following names with the concurrence of Sir William and Dr. Hooker:—

(1.) That now called Uritusinga was the original variety discovered by LaCondamine, and should therefore bear his name Var. Condaminea.

(2.) That now called Chahuarguera is the identical plant figured in Plate X of the great work of Humboldt and Bonpland (the unshaded branch with capsules). It ought therefore to bear the name of one or other of those eminent Naturalists. A species of Cinchona has already been called after Humboldt, and it is therefore proposed to call this variety Bonplandiana.

(3.) The variety called Crispa by Tafalla requires no alteration.

We thus have C. Officinalis—1. Var. Condaminea.
2. Var. Bonplandiana.
3. Var. Crispa.

The generous and noble character of the late Sir James Outram, his devotion to duty, and his brilliant services, both Civil and Military, won for him the admiration and esteem both of the Government and of the people of India. The Governor General feels assured that, while deploring the loss which the Nation has sustained in his death, the Members of both Services, and the Indian community generally, will appreciate the high tribute which has been paid to his memory by the Government of the Queen.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—YOUR Lordship will have learnt from the public Papers that death has deprived the Government of India of one of the most distinguished of its servants in the person of Sir James Outram; and you will, I feel assured, have regarded the demise of this gallant Officer with the same strong feelings of regret as I have myself experienced in common with all my colleagues in the Council of India.

2. I have now to communicate to your Excellency that, as a mark of our high appreciation of the eminent services which, on many fields, and in many political and military capacities, Sir James Outram rendered to his country; of the distinguished purity and disinterestedness of his conduct; and of the devotion which he at all times evinced, both to the service of the State and to the advancement of the welfare of the people of India, we have seen his remains laid in the grave in Westminster Abbey with befitting solemnity and respect, and defrayed the expense of the Funeral from public Funds.

3. From the honors thus bestowed by the Government and the reverence paid by all classes of the community to an Officer who, by his own unaided exertions, raised himself to the highest posts under your Government, the Members of the Public Services in India will learn that duty done in that country is not watched less earnestly, or appreciated less cordially, in England for the distance at which it is performed.

CIVIL PROCEDURE, &c. (BRITISH BURMAH), ACT AMENDMENT.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business in order to enable him to introduce the Bill to amend Act I of 1863 (to define the jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory). He said that copies of the Bill not having been a week in the hands of Hon'ble Members it was necessary to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business at this stage to admit of the Bill being introduced and of its being carried through its several stages to-day. It was obviously desirable that the uncertainty which had been created by the extension to the Province of Pegu, with outdue authority, of the Code of Civil Procedure should be removed without delay; and that, for administrative purposes, the power which it was proposed by the Bill to confer upon the Government, of vesting certain Courts with extraordinary jurisdiction, should be exercised at once. It might be added that the Bill involved no public or private interests rendering its publication necessary before its passing into law.

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT declared the Rules to be suspended.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON then introduced the Bill and moved that it be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON then moved that the Bill be passed.

IMPRISONMENT OF CONVICTS IN THE CALCUTTA HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business in order to enable him to introduce the Bill to empower Judges of the High Court and other Authorities at Calcutta to direct Convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction or the Great Jail, and to authorize the transfer of Convicts from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction. He said that the first Sections of the Bill merely made it legal that prisoners sentenced by the High Court to rigorous imprisonment, or imprisonment with hard labor, should be committed either to the Great Jail or to the House of Correction, as might be most desirable; and that prisoners sentenced to penal servitude or transportation might be kept in either of those prisons as a place of intermediate custody. Section VII declared that persons sentenced by a Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate to rigorous imprisonment might be committed either to the House of Correction or to the Great Jail. The eighth Section authorized the Lieutenant-Governor, when, from sickness, over-crowding, or any other cause, it was desirable, to order the transfer of prisoners from the one place of confinenent to the other; and Section IX legalised certain transfers recently effected. As it was excessively desirable that this unavoidable illegality should be removed as quickly as possible he had no hesitation in applying to have the Rules suspended.

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT declared the Rules to be suspended.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE then introduced the Bill and moved that it be taken into consideration.

The Hon'ble the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR said that, although the Bill was one of which, so far as it went, he wholly approved, he looked upon it as a measure of a merely temporary nature, the immediate passing of which was required, but which did not meet all the necessities of the case. In his opinion the House of Correction and the Great Jail in Calcutta ought to be on the same footing, and under the same management, as the other Jails in the Presidency of Bengal. Recently the Adjutant-General of the Army had enquired of the Government of Bengal whether any Jail in the Presidency was fit to be used as a place of confinement for European female prisoners. The Government of Bengal wrote on the subject to the High Court and enquired whether such prisoners could be accommodated in the Great Jail, and also whether the Great Jail might not well be put on the same footing, and under the same control, as all other Jails in Bengal. The Government, at the same time, wrote to the Inspector-General of Jails and enquired whether there was any Jail in Bengal suitable for the reception of European female prisoners. The Inspector-General of Jails replied that there was no Jail suitable for the purpose unless the Great Jail could be made available. No reply had been received directly from the High Court; but he (the Lieutenant-Governor) had received from the Sheriff an intimation that the Chief Justice had no objection to have the Great Jail put under the control of the Inspector-General of Jails if the Sheriff were relieved of all responsibility in respect of it; and further that the Chief Justice approved of the Great Jail being used as a place of confinement for females. He should himself immediately submit a proposal to the Government of India to have the Great Jail put under the Government and on the same footing as other Jails in Bengal, and to relieve the Sheriff of his connection with it. He intended to make this proposal to the Government of India, and hoped that, when the Council next met, he should be in a position to submit a Bill by which the object that he had in view might be carried out.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE said that it must not be supposed that his opinion differed from that of the Lieutenant-Governor on the general question as regarded the Great Jail; but he thought that it would not have been fair to the Council to-day to introduce clauses into this Bill for removing the Great Jail from the control of the Sheriff. It appeared to him that when the Council was asked to pass a Bill at one or two Meetings it should know precisely its position, and that the Council ought not to be called upon, under circumstances like the present, to adopt provisions of which the full effects could not be seen at a glance.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

CUSTOMS DUTIES.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business in order to enable him to introduce the Bill to amend Act XI of 1862 (to amend Act X of 1860, to amend Act VII of 1859, to alter the Duties of Customs on goods imported or exported by Sea). He said that, as appeared from the Statement he had made last week, the Bill would reduce the Import Duty upon Iron from ten per cent. to one per cent., except in the case of Ironmongery, Cutlery, and Hardware, which consisted of manufactured Articles for domestic use. So the Duty on Wines and Liqueurs would be reduced to an uniform Duty of one Rupee per Imperial Gallon, while the Duty on Porter, Ale, Beer, and other similar fermented Liquors was reduced from two annas the Imperial Gallon to one anna.

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT declared the Rules to be suspended.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN then introduced the Bill and moved that it be taken into consideration.

The Hon'ble MR. COWIE desired to make a suggestion regarding one portion of the Customs Bill. The Duty on Iron, which had previously been ten per cent., was reduced to one per cent. only, and the Hon'ble Sir Charles Trevelyan, at their last Meeting, had stated that this small percentage was in the nature of a Registration fee. He (Mr. Cowie) would submit, for the consideration of his Hon'ble Colleague, whether such Registration fee was necessary since all free goods imported and exported had an accurate account kept of them at the Custom House, both in respect of quantity and value. He suggested that Iron might reasonably be placed on the free list, instead of being charged one per cent., ad valorem.

The Hon'ble Sir CHARLES TREVELYAN said that the question raised by the Hon'ble Member was one of general policy. One course of proceeding was to make a broad distinction between free and dutiable articles; in such case, if it was desired to favor any article in particular, it was put on the the free list. The other course was to lay on all, or nearly all, articles some Duty, but to make all Duties so low as not to obstruct Trade. Thus very moderate Duties were put on all goods, which might be raised as the necessities of the State required. He therefore did not look upon the question raised by the Hon'ble Member as an individual question merely affecting Iron, but he looked upon it as part of a question of general policy. He did not think that question could receive sufficient consideration at that Meeting, and he therefore proposed that the Bill should remain unaltered.

The Hon'ble MR. ROBERTS said that he quite concurred in what had fallen from the Hon'ble Member (MR. COWIE). The very same thing had struck him also: and as Machinery was free, he certainly thought Iron might also be free.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN explained that, in his opinion, the free list had been already too much extended. Some Articles were admitted free upon which he thought a small Duty might be levied, while on the other hand there were certain Articles which he would like to see placed on a more favorable footing.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

INCOME TAX.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business in order to enable him to introduce the Bill further to amend Act XXXII of 1860 (for imposing Duties on Profits arising from Property, Professions, Trades, and Offices), and to amend Act XXXIX. of 1860 (to amend Act XXXII. of 1860), and Act XVI. of 1862 (to limit, in certain cases, the amount of assessment to the Duties chargeable after the 31st day of July 1862, under Act XXXII. of 1860, and Act XXXIX. of 1860, and otherwise to modify the said Acts.)

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT declared the Rules to be suspended.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN then introduced the Bill and moved that it be taken into consideration.

The Hon'ble RAJAH DINKAR RAO said that this Bill was of importance in that it reduced the Income Tax from four to three Rupees per cent. It was scarcely necessary for him to express approval of this reduction, or to add his meed of praise for what Sir Charles Trevelyan had done for the relief of the people of India in this respect. He (Sir Charles Trevelyan) had had a long experience of India, and it was universally known what a well-wisher he was of the country and its people. The present Budget shewed that, although the Government had not a very large surplus, it had out of that remitted taxation to the extent of Rupees 33,50,000. This would strengthen the expectation of the people that the Income Tax would be soon abolished. He thought it would be well to introduce a provision into this Bill to repeal that part of Section VII. of Act XVI. of 1862 which allowed the Commissioners and Collectors to interfere on suspicion.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN said that the Council was hardly prepared at a single Meeting to take into consideration the machinery employed for levying and collecting the Income Tax, but he could assure the Hon'ble Member who had just spoken that every care would be taken by the Executive Government to prevent any oppression being practised.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON said that the Government of India had recently been in communication with the Government of Bengal in respect to the exercise of the power of making fresh assessments, given by the Section of the Act to which his Hon'ble Colleague the Rajah Dinkar Rao had referred, and he (Mr. Harington) trusted that the orders issued would for the future prevent any undue or improper exercise of that power.

The Hon'ble the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR said that a case had recently occurred in Bengal in which an Income Tax Commissioner, in the exercise of the powers given him by the Act, took upon himself to revise an assessment made upon Returns which he said were not fraudulent but evidently inaccurate. The matter having been brought to the notice of Government orders were at once issued that action should be confined to cases in which fraudulent Returns were made.

He (the Lieutenant-Governor) was glad to take this opportunity to state on his own behalf, and, indeed, he might say on behalf of the Province which, he considered, he in some degree represented in that Council, the extreme gratification with which he had listened to Sir Charles Trevelyan's Statement at the last Meeting. It was not merely that the existence of a considerable surplus and a healthy state of Financial affairs was gratifying; but the frank disclosure of the whole condition of the Finance of the country and of the general policy of the Government could not be otherwise than most highly satisfactory to the mind of every one. No intelligent person could read the Statement which had been made without feeling himself at once placed in such a position as to be able to form an opinion for himself on the subjects with which the Government had dealt so fully and openly, and on which it might be said to have invited discussion. In such cases every one of course had an opinion of his own: and doubtless some might think the surplus might be disposed of otherwise than it had been; as, for example, it might be thought that, instead of the uniform reduction of one per cent. of the Income Tax, it would have been better had the Tax on small Incomes been wholly remitted. But these were mere matters of individual opinion, and he (the Lieutenant-Governor) certainly did not think that on the whole a Budget could have been framed more suitable to the occasion, or more acceptable to the public. He could personally bear testimony to the very great satisfaction with which the Financial Statement had been received by all classes in Calcutta.

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said that he could assure the Hon'ble Member Rajah Dinkar Rao that the orders issued by Government would ensure that, for the future, there should be no supererogatory interference in the collection of the Income Tax. It was most gratifying to know that the Financial Statement had been so very well received. He need not say that every Member of Government was well aware of the benefits of publicity, and all were deeply indebted to Sir Charles Trevelyan for the manner in which he had discharged his arduous task.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN said that he was very grateful for the approbation with which the Financial Statement was regarded. That it had met with that approbation was due to the great assistance he had received from all quarters—from Government servants, as well as from independent mercantile men, bankers, and others. He had received every encouragement to go forward in the same course, and try to complete, to the best of his ability, with the support of Government, and the assistance of all classes, the work of reform so ably commenced by his predecessors, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Laing, and which he (Sir Charles Trevelyan) was highly honored in being permitted to attempt to complete. He trusted that he might be able to leave things in such a condition that after him there would be no need to send to England for persons specially selected for the office, but that Officers of the Indian Services would be found well qualified to take his place, and efficiently perform duties which would then have become of a regulated and ordinary kind.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Sir Charles Trevelyan then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Stamp Duties in the Straits' Settlement.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine moved for leave to introduce a Bill to remove doubts as to the operation of Act X. of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties) in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca between the 1st day of November 1862 and the 1st day of January 1863, and respecting the rate of Exchange for payment of Stamp Duties in the Currency of India in the said Settlement. He said that, as in the case of the Burmah Courts Bill which had first been passed, the necessity for this Bill was caused by an illegality into which a local Government had fallen, probably unavoidably. The Stamp Act of 1862 came into operation generally on the 1st June 1862, and it extended to the Straits' Settlement; but the Governor General in Council suspended its operation by a Notification dated the 30th May 1862. By another Notification dated the 1st November that Notification was cancelled; but by a subsequent Notification dated the 6th November the Straits' Settlement was exempted from the operation of Schedule B. The Governor of the Straits, on the receipt of these Notifications, found himself unable to carry the Act into force, and took the responsibility of postponing its operation until the 10th December; and then, in consequence of his inability to meet the demand for all the Stamps required, he further postponed its operation until the 1st January 1863. Although the Act was certainly in force from the date of the Notification of the 1st November until the 6th November, and although Schedule A. remained in force after the 6th November, the effect of the orders of the Governor was to prevent instruments from being properly stamped according to its provisions: many penalties had therefore been incurred, and many documents had been rendered invalid or inadmissible in evidence. To obviate the extensive mischief which might follow from this state of things it had been thought necessary, by legislation, to provide generally that the Act should be held not to have come into operation in the Straits' Settlement prior to the 1st January 1863. The Bill declared that Schedule A. came into operation in the Straits' Settlement on that date, and that Schedule B. should come into force from the time which the Governor General in Council should appoint. The latter portion of the Bill was intended to cure a difficulty which had arisen in ascertaining the exact sum to be paid as Stamp Duty in the Straits. The Stamp Act gave the sum only in Rupees; but in the Straits nearly all the Currencies of the East were to be met with, and the question was according to what rate of Exchange Stamp Duty was to be calculated? Probably a Court of Law would hold that it should be calculated according to the true rate of Exchange of the day: and he believed that an Hon'ble Member of the Council (Mr. Cowie) would say that it was the practice in Calcutta that it should be calculated in that manner. The Governor of the Straits, however, had been in the habit of calculating Stamp Duties according to the rates of Exchange notified by him from time to time in the Government Gazette. This course of proceeding had its conveniences, and it was proposed by this Bill to legalise it. The Bill gave power to the Governor of the Straits, by Notification from time to time, to fix the rate of Exchange at which Stamp Duties should be payable on instruments executed in the Straits' Settlement, the value of which is not expressed in the Currency of India; and declared all such instruments which had been duly stamped prior to the time at which this part of the Bill should come into operation, according to a rate fixed by any former Notification to have been duly stamped under the Act.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine also applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business with a view to enable him to introduce the Bill.

The Hon'ble the President declared the Rules to be suspended.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine then introduced the Bill and moved that it be taken into consideration.

Consumption of Salt in the Chittagong District.

From W Gordon Young, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(dated Chittagong, the 31st March 1863.)

With reference to your letters noted in the margin I have the honor to report as follows:—

No. 1135½, dated 18th October 1862, and No. 282½, dated 24th March 1863.

2. The annual consumption of Salt in the Chittagong District (on an average of the consumption of the preceding three years) is about 1,80,000 Maunds. The quantity annually consumed in the neighbouring Districts of Bhullooah and Tipperah cannot be exactly stated, as part of their supply is, doubtless, derived from sources from which we got no Returns, but what has been taken from the Chittagong Salt Agency during the last three years is noted below:—

	Maunds.
Supplied to the Superintendency of Bhullooah in 1859-60	77,725
1860-61	1,18,710
1861-62	65,000
Total ..	2,61,435

Sold to the petty Dealers of Bhullooah and Tipperah in	1859-60 . .	30,550
	1860-61 ...	54,048
	1861-62 .	22,695
	Total ...	3,68,728

3. The present stock of Salt of all kinds at the Sudder Ghât Golahs is as follows :—

		Mds.	S.	C.
Chittagong Pungah Salt	...	4,69,669	4	8
Arracan „ „	...	22,292	0	0
Madras Kurkutch „	...	2,96,367	12	14
Jedda „ „	...	2,979	30	0
Total	...	7,91,308	7	6

4. The ordinary retail Price of Madras Salt is from Rupees 4-8 to 5 a Maund, except, of course, in the immediate neighbourhood of the Government retail Golahs.

5. Should foreign Salt be largely imported here the Districts of Bhullooah and Tipperah would most probably take their supply from Chittagong. And the Merchants of Dacca and Backergunge might also find it cheaper to carry Salt hence by means of Sloops than from Calcutta by country Boats.

6. The Port of Chittagong is, if anything, rather more accessible than of old. There is generally a depth of ten and a half or eleven feet low water spring tides. In moderate weather Vessels find no difficulty in making the Port; in bad weather of course they would keep to sea. We have belonging to the Port two Vessels above 600 Tons burden: they returned to Port during the South-West Monsoon.

7. As to bonding Salt there is ground to be had on the river side for hire on which Godowns may be built; and there are also the Government Golahs conveniently situated in which Salt may be stored. There is always an abundant supply of Boats to be had to land Salt.

8. There is fair prospect of return Cargoes of Rice for Vessels bringing Salt to Chittagong. The following Memorandum shews the quantity exported during the last three years :—

Years.	Description of Cargo.	Quantity.	Amount Value.	Average Price per Maund.
		Mds.	Rs.
1859-60	Rice ...	1,38,477	1,82,437	Rice at Rupees 1-8 and 1-4 per Maund
	Paddy ..	2,351	1,811
1860-61	Rice ..	2,67,251	3,08,578	Paddy 12 and 8 annas.
	Paddy ...	4,539	4,547
1861-62	Rice ..	2,30,650	2,30,672	Rice one Rupee.
	Paddy ..	7,016	3,508	Paddy 8 annas.

9. All the information above given, with the exception of the stock of Salt in the Golahs of which monthly Returns are furnished to the Board, having been furnished in the enclosure of my letter No. 125, dated 6th December 1862, a separate reply to your letter No. 1135½, dated 18th October last, was thought unnecessary.

Jeypore Scholarship.

From W. Grapel, Esq., M. A., Officiating Principal of the Presidency College, to W. S. Atkinson, Esq., M. A., Director of Public Instruction,—(No. 410, dated the 13th March 1863.)

I have the honor to report that His Highness the Maharajah of Jeypore, on Monday last, visited this College, and expressed himself highly gratified with the results of his inspection and examination of the several Classes.

2. I have also the honor to report that this day Lieutenant-Colonel Brooke, Officiating Political Agent at Jeypore, has, by direction of His Highness the Maharajah, placed at my disposal Rupees (1,080) one thousand and eighty, with a request that such sum may be devoted to the founding, for a period of three years, of a "Jeypore Scholarship," of the monthly value of Rupees (30) thirty, to be awarded to the most promising Student in the Third Year Class of the Presidency College, and by him to be held up to the period of his becoming a candidate for the Degree of M. A. The gift of the Maharajah is specially stated to be "in token of the pleasure and satisfaction he experienced from his late visit to the College."

3. The money given by His Highness has been duly forwarded to the Bank of Bengal for deposit in the Treasury.

4. As His Highness the Maharajah intends that his liberality should have immediate effect, I beg to recommend that the "Jeypore Scholarship" be forthwith awarded to such Student in the Third Year Class of this College as may have honorably passed the late First Arts' Examination, but for whom no other Scholarship has been hitherto available.

5. In conclusion, I have to request that you will be so good as to bring this act of enlightened munificence to the special notice of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and to beg that it may by Government be adequately acknowledged.

From W. S. Atkinson, Esq, Director of Public Instruction, to W. Grapel, Esq., M. A., Officiating Principal of the Presidency College,—(No, 1156, dated the 30th March 1863.)

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 410, dated 13th March, reporting that the Maharajah of Jeypore paid a visit to the College on the 9th instant, and that, in token of the pleasure and satisfaction afforded him, he has since deposited in your hands a handsome donation of Rupees 1,080, to be devoted to the establishment of a Scholarship of Rupees 30 per mensem, for three years, for a Student who passed successfully in the recent First Examination in Arts.

2. In reply I have to express my own gratification at the Maharajah's very appropriate and useful benefaction, and to inform you that I shall not fail to recommend His Highness' liberality to the favorable notice of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

3. In order to give immediate effect, as you suggest, to His Highness' intentions, a Scholarship, to be called "the Jeypore Scholarship," of the value of Rupees 30 per mensem, is hereby awarded to Charu Chunder Dutt, the highest Under-Graduate of the Third Year, for whom no Senior Scholarship was available at the late annual election. This Scholarship will be tenable at the Presidency College under the usual conditions for two academical years, at the expiration of which the Scholarship will again be awarded for one year to the highest Bachelor of Arts who does not obtain one of the Foundation Scholarships of the College. This arrangement will, for obvious reasons, be fairer than that proposed in your letter, by which the Scholarship would have been at once made tenable for three years by one and the same Student.

4. An Official Notification of the award of this Scholarship is forwarded herewith, which you will be so good as to make public in the College in the usual way.

JEYPORE SCHOLARSHIP.

A SCHOLARSHIP of the value of Rupees 30 per mensem, tenable for two Sessions in the Presidency College, is hereby awarded to Charu Chunder Dutt.

This Scholarship, which will be called the Jeypore Scholarship, is provided out of a sum of money presented by His Highness the Maharajah of Jeypore in token of the gratification afforded him by his recent visit to the College.

From S. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Director of Public Instruction,—(dated the 15th April 1863.)

IT has given the Lieutenant-Governor great satisfaction to learn from your letter No. 1218 of 6th April, that His Highness the Maharajah of Jeypore has bestowed a liberal donation of Rupees 1,080 on the Presidency College "in token of the pleasure and satisfaction he experienced from his late visit."

2. The Lieutenant-Governor desires me to express his approval of the disposal of this sum in the foundation of a Jyepore Scholarship, to be awarded to the most promising Student in the Third Year Class of the Presidency College.

3. The correspondence will be published in the Supplement of the Calcutta Gazette.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS

OF THE

BENGAL BONDED WAREHOUSE ASSOCIATION

FOR THE HALF-YEAR ENDED 30TH APRIL 1863.

1. YOUR Directors submit the usual Half-yearly Statement of Account for the approval of Proprietors.

2. The rents collected during the six months ended 30th April 1863 amount to Rupees 82,280-3-0, which about equals the sum realized during the previous half-year; but there has been a gradual clearance of Goods from bond during the last six or eight weeks, and these withdrawals together with a higher assessment since January, have diminished the surplus available for a Dividend.

3. The surplus amounts to Rupees 59,470-4-5, which is nearly equal to 30 Rupees a share—the last declared Dividend; but after reserving Rupees 2,000 for the Repair and Building Fund, and Rupees 1,300 for a bonus to your Establishment, which your Directors recommend, the balance is equal to a Dividend of 28 Rupees per share, free of Income Tax.

4. Mr. D. Cowie and Mr. R. B. Mackay go out by rotation. Mr. Cowie offers himself for re-election; Mr. T. R. Grant is a candidate for the seat in the direction vacated by Mr. J. N. Bullen, proceeded to Europe; and Mr. Steuart Gladstone for that vacated by Mr. R. B. Mackay.

Experiments with Egyptian Cotton Seed in the Cuddapah District.

From A. WEDDERBURN, Esq., Acting Collector of Bellary, to W. HUDLESTON, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Madras,—(No. 54, dated Bellary, the 9th April 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to forward a Memorandum regarding an experiment made* with upwards of a ton of Egyptian Cotton seed, which I procured from Madras in last Autumn and distributed to the Cotton growers of Cuddapah District. It will be noticed that the experiment would have been made, in preference, with American Cotton, and the object of forwarding the said Memorandum which was drawn up after I gave over charge of the District, and was en route for Bellary, is to shew the importance and feasibility of making an experiment on a large scale at the present time with an improved staple.

* In Cuddapah District.

MEMORANDUM.

1. Narsojee of Jamulamadugu sowed 10 Acres with Egyptian seed, 12 lbs. to the Acre, in September last. The season was very good, abundance of rain at the proper time. The plants shed their leaves when a span high having been attacked by the worm, but recovered. The crop is estimated at 1,500 lbs. of seed Cotton, or 350 lbs. of clean Cotton, half of the seed only is considered to have germinated; 35 lbs. per Acre is not much of a crop, but the Cotton appears to be good, white, and clean. The crop was not irrigated.

2. The Tahsildar of Jamalamadugu sowed half an Acre, and the produce was 40 lbs. to the Acre. This crop had one watering.

3. V. Narapa sowed half an Acre. Produce per Acre 40 lbs.

4. T. Linga Reddi half an Acre. Produce per Acre 40 lbs.

5. T. Soobanna sowed half an Acre. Produce per Acre 40 lbs.

6. A. Rajaya 2 Acres, 35 lbs.

7. Balreddi 30 Acres, which failed.

8. C. Chenchi Reddi 30 Acres, ⅛th germinated.

9. B. Peddaia 30 Acres, failed and was ploughed up and sown with indigenous.

10. W. Sunjivi Reddi 1 Acre. Produce per Acre 30 lbs.

11. Bala Kamalia sowed 2½ Acres, watered four times.

12. Abâi, &c., sown in November 1½ Acres, watered five times.

13. Nagireddi sown in 28th December ¼ Acre, watered twice, as yet not ready.

14. Tahsildar of Pulivendla sowed in September 10 Acres, failed for want of rain, 10 lbs. an Acre.

15. Nagireddi 5 Acres, 15 lbs. an Acre.

16. Ram Reddi 6 do., 10 do.

17. Latchi Reddi 3 do., withered from drought.

18. Peddarangappa (September) 30 Acres, not ripe, estimated 5 lbs. per Acre.

19. C. Venkat Reddi 30 Acres, not good from want of water.

3. In short, in Pulivendla Talook 100 Acres and upwards,

Jamalamadugu 200 do.
Podatoor 200 do. or upwards of 500 Acres were sown with Egyptian Cotton as an experiment, there being no American Cotton seed to be had at Madras. The season was for Cotton a good one. The September rains having been copious, and the result of the experiment appears to be that the climate of Cuddapah is too arid for the Egyptian plant, unless accompanied by irrigation, still it was a manifest improvement on the indigenous.

The Deputy Collector Royappa sowed 4½ Acres in garden land in November, it has had five waterings besides the rain, it grew more than three feet in height, average 60 pods to the tree. Soil mixed, rich, assessed at 14 Rupees per Acre; estimated produce 25 lbs. to the Acre. If the crop be gathered without loss from disease it will be worth at 12*d.* per lb., Rupees 175 per Acre, and return a large profit.

4. The proportion of Cotton to seed of the Egyptian is taken at nearly one-third, whereas of the indigenous it is only one-fourth. It parts easily from the seed, whereas the country fibre adheres very tenaciously.

5. A preference is distinctly stated by the Deputy Collector to exist in favor of American Cotton over the Egyptian. Seed should, therefore, be supplied to the Ryots, who freely paid the carriage of the seed, but they cannot get American seed without some one to help them to it. Some tons of the best American seed should be sent out to be distributed to the Ryots by those whose interest it is to be supplied with that staple. The recent trial of Egyptian has done much to encourage the Ryots. Its careful cultivation as a garden crop seems to promise an adequate return if the prices keep up, but a Cotton which will not require artifical irrigation is more suited for extensive cultivation.

6. Experiments on so large a scale as 500 Acres would not have been made, but for the liberality of Government in allowing remission of assessment on land devoted to improvement of the Cotton plant. This remission being to continue for four years more, it is a favorable opportunity for the trial of American Cotton on a large scale, which, after so large a trial, will soon spread over the District.

7. If, instead of sending pictures of fibre and agricultural advice, such as deep ploughing when the instrument in use is more of the nature of a harrow in its effect, and when no cattle could draw heavy ploughs, and advising a free use of manure, which the Ryots would have been too glad to have done had any one supplied them with it, the Cotton Supply Committee had forwarded some tons of American seeds and instructed their Agents to buy the crop, a very practical result would have ensued. I do not know how Government is to get the American seed, but I state the want. Government have done every thing, and the Ryots are ready, but in spite of a certainty of short American supply for two years to come, and distress, the most obvious step of supplying the seed by those who want the staple has not been taken. I would recommend the supply of American seed by Government as most important for the improvement of the local manufacture of turbands and waist cloths. The new staple will pay in this country, and the weavers and consumers will be grateful to Government. The head-cloths woven of Egyptian Cotton were particularly admired.

Government of India, Foreign Department.

Efficacy of Salt as a preventive of Cholera.

From MAJOR R. J. MEADE, Agent to the Governor General for Central India, to E. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department,—(dated the 25th March 1863.)

I HAVE the honor, at the request of Captain Wood, Political Agent in Nimar, to forward copy of his letter No. 164 of date 14th instant, with enclosures, pointing out the efficacy of Salt as a preventive of Cholera.

From CAPTAIN J. C. WOOD, Political Agent in Nimar, to MAJOR R. J. MEADE, Agent to the Governor-General for Central India, Indore,—(dated Camp Maunpoor, the 14th March 1863.)

IN forwarding to you a copy of a letter which I wrote in May 1857 to the Inspector-General of Prisons, North-Western Provinces, I have the honor to observe that the Mutiny having broken out that year in the North-Western Provinces no measures could have been taken by Mr. Thornhill to give the Salt preventive system a trial in places where Cholera prevailed.

2. The subject of Cholera is one of such stirring interest in India that any light thrown upon it cannot fail to engross the attention, I therefore beg to bring the matter to your notice, with the hope that the preventive system will, through the medium of Government, have a fair trial in various parts of India.

3. The plan is so simple, the expense attending its adoption is so very trifling, and the prescription is, supposing it to be sometimes unsuccessful, so perfectly harmless, that it requires only the unquestioning faith of a child to adopt the system.

4. I point to facts with a view to encourage the immediate adoption of the system. The matter requires no argument; it requires a trial, and I feel confident that the simple prescription will be attended with incalculable benefit not only to our European Troops but to all classes of people in this country.

5. I have drawn out a separate Memorandum, which may be found convenient. Of course, there will be no objection to any private use being made of this Memorandum, for the wider the sphere of the trial the greater the opportunities of collecting statistics.

From CAPTAIN J. C. WOOD, Deputy Commissioner, to C. B. THORNHILL, Esq., Inspector-General of Prisons, North-Western Provinces,—(dated Hoshungabad, the 7th May 1857.)

I HAVE the honor to inform you that Cholera having raged greatly in the City of Hoshungabad and in the District, I gave the Prisoners in the Jail an extra quantity of Salt on the recommendation of the Civil Surgeon Dr. Beaman.

The result, I think, has been that not a single Prisoner has been attacked during the prevalence of the Cholera the last month, though within the same period several persons have died from that epidemic in the vicinity of the Jail, and many casualties have taken place in the Regimental Lines.

2. Each Prisoner was allowed 4½ mashas in addition to the quantity prescribed (one pyce weight.)

3. I now beg the favor of your sanctioning the payment of Rupees 2-0-6 on account of Salt given to the Prisoners over and above the usual quantity.

N. B.—Dr Beaman's Father has employed this simple Cholera preventive with perfect success in England. The quantity of Salt taken in England is one drachm a day, divided into three portions, one portion to be taken with each meal. But the Civil Surgeon at this Station allowed a larger quantity as the Cholera raged in the vicinity of the Jail with great virulence, and as Natives in India never have more than two meals a day an equal quantity of Salt (a little less than a pyce in weight) was given with each of the meals. The Salt (which is our common table Salt) was pounded fine and eaten when the food was served up. The Salt loses this peculiar property if it is mixed with the food when being cooked. In salted meats, too, the Salt loses this virtue, one pyce and 4½ mashas are about two pyce in weight. One Rupee's weight a day would, however, be sufficient when Cholera raged with virulence in any locality; the weight of three 4th pieces would be ample. if there were only a few Cholera cases about the neighbourhood. The prescribed quantity of Salt should be taken as long as the Cholera hung about, and the prescription would in two days, humanly speaking, (indeed in 99 cases out of a 100) render the person taking the Salt proof against the attack of Cholera. Salt has a preventive not a * curative property. The Salt should be taken with the food so as not to cause thirst or uneasiness in the stomach.

Memorandum by CAPTAIN J. C. WOOD, Political Agent in Nimar,—(dated the 14th March 1863.)

DR. BEAMAN, a Physician in London, has found common table Salt an almost certain preventive of Cholera.

During the prevalence of this epidemic in any locality a larger quantity of Salt should be taken with the food than usual; without, however, creating thirst or causing uneasiness to the stomach.

For adults one Rupee weight of clean pounded Salt a day is generally sufficient.† Europeans should take one-third of this quantity with each meal (in the morning, in the day, and in the evening). Natives should divide the Rupee's weight into equal proportions for each meal according as food is taken twice or three times.

The Salt should be taken with the food when served up. It loses its property when thrown into the food during the process of cooking.

In salted meats the Salt loses its peculiar virtue.

Dr. Beaman allows the free use of pepper, flannel next the skin is strongly recommended.

No. 617.

Forwarded to the Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, for an expression of opinion. (To be returned.)

By Order, &c.,
(Sd.) J. T. WHEELER,
Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT, General, The 13th April 1863.

From the Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to J. T WHEELER, ESQ., Assistant Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department,—(dated Fort William, the 25th April 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge receipt of your docket No. 617, dated 13th instant, forwarding, for my opinion, the documents marginally noted on the efficacy of Salt as a preventive of Cholera. In reply, I beg very respectfully to submit, for the consideration of the Hon'ble the President in Council, that Salt has been at different times largely used in seasons of Cholera both as a prophylactic and as a cure, being administered for the latter purpose by the mouth, and in the form of injections into the veins.

Letter No. 6, dated 26th March 1863, from the Agent, Governor General for Central India, with enclosures.

2. I am not aware that it has been tried to any extent in the way proposed in the enclosed Report during the recent epidemics of Cholera among European Troops, but the attention of Medical Officers may be drawn to the subject, the supposed remedy being so simple and harmless if not actually beneficial, while its use involves no considerable increase of expense.

The documents are herewith returned as requested.

* I must qualify this remark. Salt is certain in its action as a preventive, but it is uncertain as a cure In an attack of Cholera Salt is sometimes successfully used.

† More than one Rupee's weight of Salt a day can be taken as long as thirst is not created.
